GAS EXPLOSIONS SHOCK WEST SIDE

Nine Blocks of Manhole Caps Blown High in Air—Tenth Avenue District Terrified.

ONE CATAPULTS A BOY

He Comes Down Unconscious and His Mother Rescues Him—Many Narrow Escapes—Garage Gasoline Blamed.

A series of gas explosions, like broadsides from a fleet of warships, sounded through the upper west side late yesterday afternoon, and high in the air flew several hundred manhole covers along the line of sewers threading the district between Forty-second and Fifty-first Streets, and from Ninth Avenue to the Hudson. A dozen persons were more or less injured, and the district, which is densely populated, was thrown into a state bordering on panic. Something like a thousand windows were demolished, and the sidewalks were littered with broken glass.

Many people thought at first that an earthquake had occurred, and from the houses poured men and women. They soon learned that an explosion had taken place in the main line sewer, which runs along Tenth Avenue, and in the branch lines tapping the intersecting streets. An accumulation of gasoline which had been washed through the culverts from garages in that part of the city is said to have caused the upheaval, reinforced, perhaps, by gas which had leaked into the culverts.

The streets were well filled with the usual late afternoon throngs, when, at about 4:40 o'clock, the first explosion occurred at Forty-eighth Street and Tenth Avenue. At one point there a jet of smoke and flame shot many feet into the air and a terrific shock threw several near-by pedestrians off their feet. Then up and down the avenue the manhole covers began to pop off, some of them being blown as high as twenty feet, and falling into the streets with a great clatter. As each one blew out a burst of smoke and flame followed it. Soon a pall of smoke lay thick over that part of Tenth Avenue for several blocks.

The residents in that vicinity had barely got their wits after the shock when another deafening explosion was heard a little further south. This was followed by still another at Fifty-first Street and Tenth Avenue. Another, even heavier than the preceding ones, was heard just north of Forty-second Street and Tenth Avenue.

Then, like a rattling volley of small gun fire, the manhole covers in the cross streets all the way from Forty-second to Fifty-third Street went flying into the air, each followed by a cloud of smoke and flame. Nearly ten minutes elapsed between the first explosion and the last, but the popping of manhole covers went on many minutes longer.

Children who had been playing in the streets fled panic-stricken to their mothers, while up and down the thoroughfares ran the noise of crashing glass as the shivered panes fell to the pavements. The four loudest explosions were heard far downtown. In the Times Building the tremor of the earth following each explosion was felt.

Soon after the sound of the last explosion had died away Tenth Avenue and the intersecting streets were swarming with people. All the reserves from the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station turned out without needing to be called, as several of them who had been sitting down in the station had been thrown from their chairs. Inspector Walsh led the way to the scene of excitement. Some one turned in a fire alarm at Fiftieth Street and Tenth Avenue, and in a few minutes several engines and trucks came rumbling up. But there was nothing for the firemen to do there, as the ignited gas burned itself out in a few minutes.

There were many narrow escapes from injury while the manhole covers were flying off, and that the accidents that did happen were not more serious was regarded as remarkable. Emil Miller, a seven-year-old lad, living at 546 West Fifty-first Street, was playing ball with several children in front of his home. One of the other lads had just knocked the ball and Emil had run to first base, which was a manhole cap.

Emil was standing on the cap when it lifted. He was hurled high into the air and came down close to the opening where the manhole cover had blown off. A cloud of smoke and flame rushed up and, fanned by the wind, completely enveloped the child.

The boy's mother had been standing at her stoop a few feet away. She was staggered by the force of the explosion, but, regaining her feet, groped through the smoke to the boy and ran with him to the drug store of Dr. John E. Krauss at Fifty-second Street and Eleventh Avenue. Dr. Krauss rendered what aid he could until a Flower Hospital ambulance arrived and took the boy away. At the hospital last night it was said that Emil would get well.

The escape of Mrs. Samuel Lavine and her baby was even more remarkable. Mrs. Lavine and her husband run a newspaper stand at the northeast corner of Fifty-first Street and Tenth Avenue. Late in the afternoon Mrs. Lavine took a chair and sat under the shed roof of a saloon a few feet away from her stand, holding her young baby in her lap. When the first explosion was heard, followed by the popping of manhole caps, Mrs. Lavine jumped up and ran into the saloon with her baby.

The door had scarcely swung to behind her when a manhole cap ten feet from the newsstand blew out. The iron cover sailed twenty feet into the air, and, crashing down through the shed roof, struck fairly upon the chair on which Mrs. Lavine had been sitting an instant before. The chair was demolished and the iron cap plunged through the flagstones into the cellar below.

Byron Harrington was sitting in the saloon reading when the manhole cover outside blew up. A big piece of glass from the window fell upon his paper and clattered into fragments at his feet.

John W. O'Brien of Brooklyn happened to be standing on a manhole cap at Forty-eighth Street and Tenth Avenue when it blew out. O'Brien was shot up into the air and landed on his hands and feet. One of his ankles was badly twisted and he was badly bruised, but went home after his injuries were dressed.

A trolley car well filled with passengers was westbound on Tenth Avenue near Forty-second Street when a manhole cap flew off just in front of the motorman. He mechanically shut off the current and jumped to the ground, followed by the conductor and many of the passengers. The main line sewer runs along the middle of Tenth Avenue and there were a score of manhole caps between the northbound and southbound tracks, all of which blew off.

Groups of small boys gathered around the open manholes when the flames had Leather Company Official Put to Work at the Bench Draws $10,000 Salary.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 7.—John T. George of 432 North Broad Street, who until a few days ago was Vice President of the Harrington Leather Company, is working on a bench in the company's shops, marking leather, as he did thirty years ago. Mr. George continues to draw his salary of $10,000 a year, however, and with considerable determination he declares that he will continue to draw it until next June, when his contract expires, no matter what efforts may be made to oust him.

The Harrington Leather Company was acquired recently by the Leather trust, and therein lies Mr. George's difficulty. The trust demanded his resignation, and appointed Henry Stockman of the United States Leather Company in his place. Mr. George surprised the trust by declining to resign until his contract expired.

For a couple of days the Trust thought the matter over and then came an order directing Mr. George to don an apron and report in the shops for work. Again Mr. George surprised the Trust by doing that very thing. He came to work in his automobile and had his chauffeur call for him in time to take him home to lunch.

Since then Mr. George has been keeping it up and says he rather enjoys it. He receives no extraordinary privileges and may see no visitors in working hours, but once his apron is off, Mr. George becomes the wealthy man again and drives home in his automobile as he has done for years.

He say's he'll never quit.

Punishment for the Alderman Who Fought Fireproofing Provision.

It was asserted about Tammany Hall yesterday that Alderman Doull, who led the fight against the Building Code in the board, will not be renominated by the convention in his district to-night. He gained the enmity of the organization leaders for his stand in favor of cinder concrete fireproofing and will undoubtedly lose the seat he has held for ten years.

Doull has been one of the most prominent Tammany members of the board during the last few years, and has always been "regular" except in the Building Code fight. The leader of his district is William Dalton, ex-Commissioner of Public Works, and one of the old Croker leaders. Richard Croker, Jr., is the head of the Roebling Construction Company, the largest manufacturer of cinder concrete fireproofing in the country. The provisions of the new code put restrictions upon the use of this material, which would have greatly increased its cost of installation, and gives preference to hollow-tile fireproofing.

The largest manufacturer of this material in the country is the National Fireproofing Company of Pittsburg, of which Daniel F. Cohalan, Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall and chief adviser of Leader Murphy, is counsel. The public naturally drew its conclusions regarding the squabble. Doull won his fight, Mayor McClellan suddenly interrupting his vacation, and coming to town for the specific purpose of passing upon the code and vetoing it after it had passed the board.

Freshman at Washington and Jefferson Toyed with Pistol and Gets the Pump.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Penn., Oct. 7.—William R. Cowieson of Pittsburg, a student in the freshman class at Washington and Jefferson College, refused to wear the regulation cap appointed for freshman use and was disciplined to-day by the undergraduate body.

All freshmen by college custom must be wear small black caps topped with a green button. Every freshman but Cowieson donned this headgear. Yesterday seventy-five sophomores held a meeting and appointed a delegation of seven to take the obstinate young man from his room to the college for correction. Cowieson admitted the seven to his room, but when they attempted to take him displayed a revolver and menaced his visitors. The seven withdrew. Crestfallen, they reported to the sophomores the result of their mission.

The student body at a mass meeting this morning determined to subdue the rebel. They awaited Cowieson's exit from chapel, but he remained in his room until other students had left, and then attempted to slip out by a side door. He was caught and after a fierce struggle carried to the pump and held beneath the flowing spout. Still he was obdurate, but a threat to repeat the process brought a promise to obey the rules."

Later Cowieson went before Justice of the Peace Henry Gantz and swore out warrants for the arrest of five students on charges of assault and battery. Four of the students received a hearing this evening, three paying fines and one being discharged. A warrant for the arrest of a fifth student has not yet been served.

SURGEONS NEED EDUCATION.

Medical Director Wise Says They Are Badly Grounded in English.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The annual meeting of the Association of Military Surgeons continued its session to-day with a discussion of the needs of the service. Considerable criticism of the present conditions was heard, and Medical Director Wise declared that one of the greatest needs in America is more education among surgeons.

Dr. Wise declared that the United States has the finest surgeons in the world and some of the greatest men of medicine to be found anywhere, but that the primary education of most physicians has been absolutely neglected. He added that the need for better educated doctors was felt particularly in the public service, where men frequently apply for admission and are found to be splendidly equipped from the professional standpoint, so far as medicine and surgery go, but could never pass an examination in the simplest branches of English.

A medical "plucking board" was demanded by Surgeon Blackwood for the purpose of keeping the service up to the highest standard. When a man fails to fulfill the requirements of his position Dr. Blackwood wants to see him retired and a man who can qualify put in his place. The line of the navy has such a board, he declared, and the Medical Department should have one also.

STATE BANK CAUGHT ON A STOCK LOAN

THREE MEN UNDER ARREST

Employe of the Bank Discovered the Trick While Getting a Stock Transfer.

A certificate for 100 shares of the common stock of the Northern Pacific Railroad figures as the means by which the State Bank in Grand Street was induced to lend $6,500 on security, worth about $260, last Monday. Three men are now under arrest on the charge of swindling the bank.

The success of the plan depended upon the failure of the bank officials to recognize the certificate as non-assenting stock of the old railroad whose holders failed to assent to the reorganization of the company in 1896 into the Northern Pacific Railway Company, and to this extent it was successful.

The discovery that the bank had been victimized came about by chance when a clerk, seeing to the transfer of the stock, chanced to ask its value, and was told in the offices of the Northern Pacific in Nassau Street that it was worth about $260.

The men under arrest are Jacob Steinglanz of 1,239 Union Avenue, the Bronx; Randall H. Foote, a stock broker, who has an office at 52 Broadway and is said by Detective McConville to live at 204 West 133d Street. The third man is Ernest V. Reiss of 264 Twelfth Street, Brooklyn.

Steinglanz is charged by the police with the actual operation of the trick and the others are held as having acted in concert with him. Nevertheless Detective McConville, who, with Detective Nelson of Headquarters, made the arrests, said last night that he believed Steinglanz had acted in innocence and simply as an agent, and that this would develop later. Steinglanz, who was arrested at his home on Wednesday night, was held in $3,000 bail yesterday in the Tombs Police Court.

According to the story told to McConville by Cashier A. I. Voorhis of the State Bank, Steinglanz, who was formerly a prosperous shirt dealer in White Street, carrying an active account of $20,000 or $30,000 in the State Bank, visited Voorhis in August and asked if the bank would be willing to take up a certificate for 30 shares of the common stock of the Northern Pacific, on which $2,400 had been advanced already, and lend an additional $1,500 upon it.

Steinglanz said that the stock was worth in the neighborhood of $5,000. Mr. Voorhis was anxious to oblige, and after agreeing to take up the stock and make the additional loan turned the matter over to William G. Kronecke, a clerk in the bank.

Kronecke, according to his statement to McConville, as the detective repeated it later, went with Steinglanz to the office of J. Corbett & Co., 34 Broad Street, where he was introduced by Steinglanz to Reiss and a man referred to as Corbett, who told them that the stock was not in the city, but would be on hand the next day.

On the following day Kronecke and Steinglanz again visited the brokers, were met there by Reiss, and were disappointed again as to the stock. On the third day, however, the stock was forthcoming, and in the presence of Steinglanz and Kronecke it was handed to Reiss, who turned it over to Kronecke and accepted the $2,400 from him. Kronecke delivered the stock to the bank.

On Oct. 1, says McConville, Steinglanz returned to the bank, asking that a similar loan be made upon a certificate for 100 shares of Northern Pacific stock. He said that H. L. Horton & Co. of 66 Broadway held the stock for a loan of $6,500, and that he wanted it taken up and $2,500 more advanced on it. Kronecke was detailed to handle the matter again, and on Monday turned over $3,600 to Reiss, whom he met again in Horton's office, receiving the certificate in return. Kronecke avers that Steinglanz called his attention to the quotation on the Horton stock board of Northern Pacific at 155.

It had been arranged that the stock should be transferred in the name of John W. Kneisel, Assistant Cashier of the State Bank, and accordingly Kronecke carried the certificate to the office of the Northern Pacific, where a Mr. Kemp made the transfer. As he waited Kronecke chanced to ask whether the stock was paying dividends and learned to his surprise that it was not.

He reported this fact to Mr. Voorhis, and on Wednesday was sent back to the office to get a receipt for the certificates he had left, he having left a certificate for thirty shares of Northern Pacific with the one for 100 received just then from Reiss. Mr. Kamp, when he was asked for the receipt, asked what Kronecke thought the stock was worth, and informed him that its value was about $260 all told. He added that he supposed the bank had not made any loan on it. Kronecke hurried back to the bank and Mr. Voorhis started as quickly for Police Headquarters.

Foote, when arrested, was ready to talk about the stock transfer, saying that it had been his originally and that he acquired it at the instigation of J. P. Morgan & Co., whose transfer manager called him into consultation last week and told him that the company was anxious to acquire all the non-assenting stock of the Northern Pacific.

Accordingly, said Foote, according to McConville, he wrote to H. S. Morris in the Drexel Building, Philadelphia, and asked him to send 100 shares of non-assenting stock, which he received the next day, together with a sight draft for $300 on the Chemical National Bank, which he paid and took up the stock.

He was about to deliver it to J. P. Morgan & Co. when Reiss told him that he had a customer, and, having business to transact with Horton, Foote told Reiss to bring his customer to Horton's office. There the transfer was made and Foote said he gave Reiss $1,100, keeping $2,500 for himself.

McConville said last night that the Horton firm was a perfectly reputable firm and that Mr. Horton told him that he had known Foote, and so obliged him with the use of his office on occasions.

Foote, who had in his pocket a letter purporting to be one of recommendation from J. P. Morgan, said that he came of a fine family and that his grandfather was Lord Mayor of Dublin. He said that he had been a member of the Stock Exchange for sixteen years.

TO CONFER ON FAR EAST.

Miller, Just Back from Manchuria, to Meet Knox and Crane.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Light was thrown on the temporary recall from San Francisco of Charles P. Crane, the new American Minister to China, when it was learned to-day that R. S. Miller, Chief of the Far Eastern Bureau of the State Department, would arrive here before the time set for the conference between Mr. Crane and Secretary Knox. Mr. Miller was formerly Secretary of the American Embassy at Tokio. He is now returning from an extensive tour through Manchuria and Korea.

The conference between Mr. Knox, Mr. Miller, and Mr. Crane is expected to take place on Saturday or Sunday. It would surprise few persons here if the consultation should take up in detail the recent treaty under which China granted to Japan advantages in the construction of the Antung-Mukden and South Manchurian Railways.

In order not to miss the many notable features in next Sunday's Times it is important to place orders with newsdealers to-day.

FRENCH SAILORS HELP TO AVERT A SUICIDE

HUNDREDS SEE STRUGGLE

Wendler Fiercely Fought Policeman Who Had Seized Him—French Sailors Go to His Rescue.

Just as the junior officers and sailors of the French battleships Justice, Liberté, and Vérité were landing at the foot of West Eightieth Street yesterday for their last night ashore in New York an excited boatman called the attention of Policeman Donnelly of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station to a struggle at the pier at the foot of Seventy-ninth Street. Donnelly ran down there followed by a hundred French sailors and a score of boatmen to find Augustus Wendler of 568 Columbus Avenue fighting with Luke Welsh, a boatman, who, a few minutes before, had grappled with Wendler as the latter tried to jump into the river with his ten-year-old son George.

It took ten minutes for Donnelly, aided by Welsh and several other big boatmen, to quiet Wendler, who, according to his little boy, was out of his mind and bent on suicide. Wendler declared that he had not intended to drown his boy, but the boatmen who prevented him from accomplishing his purpose said that he had fought desperately to take his little boy with him.

The scene of the attempted suicide was near the landing of the Italian warships, and a big chrowd of sailors and visiting civilians came ashore while the fight to subdue Wendler was in progress. Wendler was shouting and cursing, while his little boy, tugged at his hand crying and begging him to go back home with him.

A man had fallen in a fit on the pier, and several civilians were working over him when Wendler, yelling for them to get out of the way, was seen running down the hill dragging behind him his little boy, who was crying for help. Welsh, who is one of the big men of the Boat Squad, got ready to stop Wendler, who, anticipating that Welsh would try to stop him, ran to one side of the pier and was just about to jump overboard when Welsh felled him with a blow on the jaw.

Wendler was up in a minute and went after Welsh like a maniac, and the two fought fiercely on the edge of the pier. Wendler was getting the better of the encounter and was apparently preparing for another jump when several of the French sailors went to Welsh's assistance and bore Wendler down. When Donnelly came up he jerked Wendler to his feet and Wendler struck the policeman a crashing blow in the face before he could handcuff his prisoner.

The man who had fallen in a fit had been forgotten during the fight with Wendler. After that was over, an ambulance was called from Roosevelt Hospital, to which the sufferer was taken. No one knew his name.

Wendler was locked up in the West Sixty-eighth Street Station.

HELD FOR NELSON MURDER.

August Schwartz Indicted—Widow in Collapse Before Grand Jury.

Special to The New York Times.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Oct. 7.—The Suffolk County Grand Jury before Justice Blackmar handed up an indictment for murder in the first degree to-day against August Schwartz, accusing him of the killing of Irving J. Nelson at Central Islip on the night of Sept. 15.

Schwartz was brought in from the county jail. He seemed self-contained, although he was pale. Through his counsel, Ralph W. Greene, Schwartz pleaded not guilty and was remanded to the county jail. His trial will probably be held in January.

Mrs. Nelson, widow of the murdered man, testified before the Grand Jury. She seemed on the verge of collapse when taken into the jury room by a constable.

Another witness was Albert Miller, who was to have gone with Nelson and Schwartz on a deer hunt on the day of the murder.

The murdered man's daughter, who heard voices on the steps of the Nelson home on the morning of the murder, also testified.

Nelson's body, with a load of buckshot in the back, was found at 6 o'clock in the morning in the road near his home after he had been at a dance. Schwartz was a boarder in his home.

HALE TO BE KNOX'S AID.

Senator's Son Succeeds Wm. Phillips as Third Assistant Secretary of State.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Chandler Hale, of Maine, son of Senator Hale, has been selected as Third Assistant Secretary of State, to succeed William Phillips, of Boston, who will become Secretary of the American Embassy at London, succeeding John Ridgley Carter.

Mr. Carter will be appointed Minister to Roumania. Although they have not yet received their commissions, no doubt is expressed of their appointment within a day or two. Mr. Hale is 36 years of age. He served as assistant secretary to the American delegation to the International Bimetallic Conference, held in Brussels in 1892; as secretary of the American Embassy at Rome in 1897; as secretary of legation at Vienna in 1901 and 1902; as secretary of embassy at Vienna from 1902 until 1905, and as secretary of the American delegation to the second Peace Conference at The Hague in 1907.

Mr. Phillips is 30 years of age; graduated from Harvard in 1900, and attended the Harvard Law School for two and a half years. He served as private secretary to the American Ambassador to Great Britain for two years, and was appointed second secretary of the legation at Peking in March, 1905; was transferred to the Department of State as assistant to the third assistant secretary on Far Eastern affairs in 1907; was designated chief of the division of Far Eastern affairs on March 4, 1908, and was appointed third assistant Secretary of State in January, 1909.

To-morrow and Monday are the two last days of registration. If you fail to register you cannot vote at the election on Nov. 2. The registration places open at 7 A. M. and close at 10 P. M. A full list of registration places in Manhattan and the Bronx is printed elsewhere in THE TIMES to-day. Register to-morrow.

PLAN $1,500,000 CUT IN CHICAGO PAYROLL

City's Department Heads' Association Proposes 10 Per Cent. Salary Reduction There.

SCHOOLS ARE NOT AFFECTED

Not Decided Whether Programme Shall Be Horizontal Cut or Lopping Off 1,475 Official Heads.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—There is to be a saving of $1,500,000 in salaries in the city's service in 1910, the heads of the departments having agreed to a reduction of 10 per cent. in the municipal payroll. At the weekly dinner given by Controller Walter H. Wilson at the Hotel La Salle each department chief promised to submit a plan on Oct. 12 by which this economy can be carried out. Controller Wilson is Chairman of what is known as the Department Heads Association, formed for the purpose of discussing the estimates and appropriations for each department in the coming year.

Fire Marshall James Horan, who is Secretary of the association, has sent this letter to each department head:

"At a meeting of the heads of departments held this day at the Hotel La Salle it was unanimously decided that at the meeting to be held next Wednesday, Oct. 13, at the same place at 12 o'clock, each department head should report upon a plan involving a saving of 10 per cent. in salaries, based upon the appropriation bill of 1909."

While the 23,112 employes of the city, exclusive of those serving at elections, received $24,966,346 in 1908, the pay roll of the departments which will be affected by the 10 per cent. slash is only about $1,225,000 a month, making a saving of about $1,500,000 annually.

The Board of Education, in which there are 8,108 employes, who received $7,813,171 in 1908, the municipal court, with its 253 employes and salary roll of $495,774, and several smaller departments, are not affected by the resolution.

Whether the plan ultimately adopted by the Department Heads Association will involve a horizontal cut of 10 per cent. in all salaries, including those of the chiefs of the different departments, or whether it will mean a reduction in the number of employes, will not be known until after the Wednesday meeting.

A decrease of 10 per cent. in the number of employes would mean the lopping off of about 1,475 heads, estimating on the basis of the figures of Controller Wilson for 1908, which are about the same as those of 1909.

"No one can say now what plan will be adopted by the Department Heads Association," said the Controller. "Every department head is working tooth and nail to formulate a plan that will make such a saving possible."

The meeting at the Hotel La Salle was the second of a series proposed by Mr. Wilson some time ago. They were brought about for the purpose of having the department heads "get together" on the city financial problems and make possible Mayor Busse's plan for economy in the conduct of the city government, the payroll of which was $24,966,346 in 1908, as compared with $16,436,061 in 1904.

The number of employes last year was 23,112, while in 1904 the different branches of the city government were conducted by 17,028 persons.

Any cut before becoming effective must be sanctioned by the City Council, where a big fight against it is expected. According to Controller Wilson, however, there is no other way of piloting the administration through its financial troubles.

CUT NEEDED HERE, TOO.

John Purroy Mitchel Says N. Y. Officials Should Welcome Salary Revision

"The proposition is undoubtedly a good one," said John Purroy Mitchel, the present Commissioner of Accounts and candidate on the Republican-Fusion ticket for President of the Board of Aldermen, when he was asked for his opinion on the plan to cut Chicago's pay roll last night. "In New York also there is a great opportunity for the revision of the city pay roll. Some salaries ought to be cut, and, on the other hand, some ought to be raised. The whole city pay roll ought to be gone over and the salaries equalized. There ought to be revision from the top to the bottom.

"A mere indiscriminate cut of 10 per cent. would mean nothing, however. If any attempt at the revision of the city payroll is made it ought to be done by the proper authorities after a full investigation of the facts, otherwise it would not be done successfully. What our city suffers from most of all is the number of supernumeraries on the payroll and the number of sinecure positions.

"If the proposition to consent to a reduction in salaries were submitted to the present heads of city departments it ought to be welcomed as a chance to help the city out. Of course I do not know what individuals would think of it, but if they had the real interest of the city at heart they would welcome the opportunity to help the city save money."

Personal Friend Says Burrill Told Him Cook Did Not Reach Top.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Oct. 7.—"In the foyer of the Hamilton Hotel at Hamilton, Mon., a little more than a month ago, Ed Burrill, who had known me for two years, and whom I counted as one of my personal friends, told me during a personal conversation that neither Dr. Cook nor any of his party reached the summit of Mount McKinley."

The foregoing statement was made to THE TIMES correspondent to-night by Kenneth Romney, a student at the University of Washington, who came to Seattle recently to take a special course. Burrill was Dr. Cook's guide during the alleged ascent.

Mrs. Leavitt Announces That She Is a Candidate for Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 7.—Ruth Bryan Leavitt, daughter of William J. Bryan, has announced her candidacy for the nomination for Congress by the Democratic convention in the First District. Ex-Senator Patterson has promised his support, and that of his papers, and Mrs. Leavitt expects the indorsement of the Jane Jefferson Club, of which she is President.

There are some prominent members of this club who think they should be considered, saying Mrs. Leavitt is too young, not only in years but in residence in Colorado, but she expects her father to swing them into line for her.

There has been so much talk about sending a woman to Congress that Republican women also hear the buzz of the bee, and Mrs. Dewey C. Bailey, wife of the United States Marshal, has been indorsed by a respectable following as good Congressional timber.

Army Transport Talks with Honolulu Four Days Out.

HONOLULU, Oct. 7.—The army transport Buford, which arrived from Manila yesterday, reports that wireless communication was established with the Pacific Coast four days before the vessel made this port. This means that messages were interchanged over a distance of 3,300 miles.

The Buford is supposed to have the most powerful wireless equipment afloat in the Pacific Ocean.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—James M. Barrie's suit for divorce has created widespread interest. It came as a complete surprise even to close friends, and even those who were aware that his domestic horizon was not unclouded had little expectation that the dramatist would take any steps entailing publicity, for his aversion to notoriety amounts to a positive passion.

The case figures in the law list as Barrie and Cannan, and the co-respondent is understood to be Gilbert Cannan, a writer whose literary baggage is inconspicuous in comparison to that of Barrie.

FALLS BETWEEN SUBWAY CARS

Chicago Woman Injured in Times Square Station—Men to Her Rescue.

Mrs. F. A. Hight of 647 Park Avenue, Chicago, missed her footing and fell between two Subway cars at the uptown station in Times Square early this morning. A dozen or more men, including her husband, ran to her assistance and several of them crawled down and lifted her out before the train started.

Some one telephoned for a Flower Hospital ambulance. When the ambulance surgeon arrived he found that Mrs. Hight had sustained a sprained ankle and a broken finger. She was taken to the hospital.

KILLED FOR ATTACK ON GIRL.

Congdon Shot Dead with His Own Pistol by the Child's Father.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Oct. 7.—Samuel Rogers shot and killed Patrick Congdon to-night on Main Street, South Paterson, in the presence of a score of pedestrians. Rogers had retired for the night, when he was aroused by his wife, who told him that a man had attempted to attack their thirteen-year-old daughter.

Accompanied by his daughter, and armed with a whip, Rogers started out in search of the assailant. The little girl pointed out Congdon, and as Rogers approached him, Congdon pulled a revolver.

Rogers grappled with Congdon, and obtaining possession of the revolver, shot him twice. Congdon was dead when the ambulance surgeon arrived.

"He deserves it. Such men should not be permitted to live," was Rogers's comment when taken to Police Headquarters.

TOOTH BRUSHES FOR SCHOOLS

New Brunswick Education Board May Decide to Provide Them.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 7.—The New Brunswick Board of Education is considering the advisability of providing tooth brushes for the pupils, the board being highly interested in everything pertaining to their welfare.

The suggestion was made by Isidor P. Hirsh and was called forth by the statement made to the Board of Education by Dr. E. Irving Cronk, the Medical Inspector, who spoke of the progress that had been made in the methods and results of examining the children in the public schools and the greater requirements of the State laws. He spoke of the connection that exists between poor physical condition caused by adenoids and other things frequently overlooked, among them unsanitary teeth.

HEARST NOTIFIED, EXPECTED TO RUN

Supporters of Leader Selected for Mayor by Independents Sure He Will Accept.

ANSWER TO BE OUT TO-DAY

He Calls the Tammany Ticket "An Atrocious Array of Dirty and Damaged Political Rags and Remnants."

William Randolph Hearst was formally notified at his home at Eighty-sixth Street and Riverside Drive yesterday afternoon of his selection for Mayor by the mass-meeting held in Cooper Union on Wednesday night. In reply he did not commit himself as to whether or not he would enter the Mayoralty fight, asking for a few hours in which to prepare a formal reply.

Mr. Hearst's reply will probably be sent to the committee to-day, and, it is understood, will be definite and final. There was an impression last night among the leaders of the Independence League and friends of Mr. Hearst that he would consent to head the third ticket.

In his address yesterday afternoon Mr. Hearst referred to Justice Gaynor in a complimentary way, but characterized the rest of the Tammany ticket as "the most atrocious array of dirty and damaged political rags and remnants ever exposed for sale on the bargain counter of Tammany Hall." He declared that it was the duty of every good citizen to do everything in his power to prevent the election of these men and said that the suggestion that the best way in which to accomplish this would be for him to run for Mayor would have his most serious consideration.

Mr. Hearst's Address.

"I suppose that you have given due consideration to the suggestions I made to you and to all my friends through the press," said he. "I should in propriety and courtesy, and I shall, give due consideration to the recommendation you make in return.

"I must say, however, that to my mind the main objection, and perhaps the only objection, to Judge Gaynor is the fact that in this campaign he is allied with the most atrocious array of soiled and damaged political rags and remnants that have ever been exposed for sale upon the bargain counters of Tammany Hall.

"I think it is your duty to defeat that Tammany ticket. I think it your duty and my duty and the duty of every honest citizen to prevent the infliction of sich a calamity upon this city. I have had several suggestions made to me to that end. If you will allow me a few hours' time I will give your recommendation my best thought, my most careful consideration, and I will send you a formal reply to-morrow.

"In any event, I wish to thank my friends most deeply for their confidence, and to express my heartfelt appreciation of the great honor they have extended to me for the second time."

Mr. Hearst talked for less than two minutes, but his manner showed that he regarded the situation in a very serious light. While ex-Assemblyman James A. Allen, who made the notification speech, was talking, Mr. Hearst frowned thoughtfully and regarded a spot in the carpet in front of the big fire-place in his drawing room, near which he stood with the committee and reporters in a half-circle about him. His manner was not at all that of the Hearst of four years ago.

The Notification Committee consisted of Assemblyman Allen, Dr. Joseph H. Bryne, Dr. William I. Sirovich, William J. Taylor, the Independence League leader in Brooklyn; E. T. McLoughlin, Dr. J. H. Bush, Sylvester Malone and A. T. Porter.

Mr. Allen in his address told of the action of the Cooper Union mass meeting, describing the enthusiastic applause that greeted the mention of Mr. Hearst's name. The rest of his remarks were in the nature of a personal appeal on behalf "of the people of the city," to save them from the Tammany ticket. He also devoted attention to Mr. Hearst's recommendation through his papers that his followers support Justice Gaynor, and declared that it would be impossible to elect Justice Gaynor and defeat the rest of the Tammany nominees.

Allen Urges Hearst to Run.

"The crisis which prompts this call is indeed great," said he. "That piratical band known as Tammany Hall, masquerading under the guise of a political party, but, in fact, having no other object than the spoliation of the public, the oppression of the poor for the enrichment of the few, has placed at the head of its ticket a man hitherto supposed to be a patriot, and to possess a large degree of public virtue, with the hope that it may thereby float its unworthy, incompetent, and discredited ticket into power.

"We believe that Judge Gaynor in accepting its nomination and in thereby consenting to march under its black flag has forfeited all right to public confidence. Either he is against Tammany Hall and all the vice it stands for, or else he is in favor of it. Having accepted its commission, notwithstanding his past public utterances, we cannot believe that he is against it; but whether he is personally against it or not is of little consequence because if he and his ticket are elected his hands will be tied and no good result to the public can come from his administration.

"But we seriously question his sincerity of purpose and we fully believe that, moved by an inordinate zeal for further political preferment, he has loaned the prestige of his name in aid of an unholy conspiracy against the welfare of this city. Indeed, we believe that in order to maintain party regularity he has betrayed its vast interests. After all the real power in this city is the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and Judge Gaynor has done all in his power to keep that control within the confines of Tammany Hall.

"The citizens of this city, therefore, have no alternative other than to nominate a ticket of their own choice, one that, if elected, will be faithful to their interests, and we believe that if such a ticket is nominated it will prevail at the polls. By common consent you are the one man to head that ticket. Your consistent activity in the past is accepted by them as a guarantee of what you will do in the future. We note that you have positively declined to become a candidate, and that you have advised independent citizens to support Judge Gaynor, but Judge Gaynor is for Tammany Hall; you are for the people.

"Realizing this, whether you become the people's candidate or not, the independent citizenship of this city will not support Judge Gaynor. They have resolutely determined to have a ticket of their own, and they make this final appel to you that you head it. We must earnestly, therefore, request that you reconsider your prior determination not to become a candidate, and your previous advice that Judge Gaynor be supported."

Although not a member of the committee, Charles E. Gehring, Chairman of the County Committee of the Independence League, was present. Arthur Brisbane, editor in chief of Mr. Hearst's papers, was in an adjoining room. When Mr. Hearst had finished he talked for a moment with the members of the committee and the reporters. He appeared to be much interested in what Justice Gaynor had to say to the Tammany Notification Committee, and when told that he had not referred in his speech to Tammany Hall in any way, raised his eyebrows without comment. He would not discuss the possible make-up of the third ticket or say whether or not he would consent to run with Controller Metz.

The latter yesterday reaffirmed his former declaration of willingness to go on the third ticket, but added: "I will do anything and go with anybody who will stand by McCarren and his ticket. He is the original anti-Murphy man in the city, and anybody who wants to go against Tammany wants to get behind him."

Asked about his Deputy, John H. McCooey, who is Senator McCarren's candidate for Borough President, he replied:

"He is an honest and capable man and ought to be elected. He is just the kind of man that ought to sit on the Board of Estimate."

The leaguers are talking of John J. Hopper or Allan Robinson, President of the Allied Real Estate Interests, for the nomination on the ticket for Controller. At the present time it seems likely that the Independents will indorse Commissioner of Accounts Mitchel and Judge Whitman, the Fusion candidates for President of the Aldermen and District Attorney, although these matters have not yet been gone into.

Mr. Gehring and his lieutenants returned to The Hermitage, where they went into conference. They were jubilant over the prospect of Mr. Hearst accepting the nomination.

Ivins Comes Out for Hearst.

William M. Ivins was pressed repeatedly yesterday for his reasons for appearing at the Cooper Union mass-meeting and for a definite answer as to whether or not he would support Mr. Hearst. Late in the afternoon he issued an emphatic statement in favor of Mr. Hearst's candidacy. He characterized the Tammany county ticket as "unspeakable," and said:

"Last night's meeting was a spontaneous gathering of people who are sincerely and unalterably opposed to the Greater City and the Borough falling into the hands of Tammany Hall. . . was one of the most representative and enthusiastic that I have ever seen and one of the most hopeful signs that I have seen of the possibility of saving the city from Tammany Hall.

"The great audience insisted upon Mr. Hearst's accepting the nomination. Personally, I believe that the best thing that could befall the city would be to have Mr. Hearst accept.

"In order to demonstrate clearly to Mr. Hearst that there is a demand which springs not only out of that intense personal friendship that was shown for him last night, but out of a general recognition on the part of the public-spirited citizens, irrespective of past party affiliations, that he should accept the nomination, a meeting should be called to place him in nomination, together with a full city and county ticket designed absolutely to remove the success of Tammany Hall beyond the field of possibility.

"It is my personal belief that Mr. Hearst's nomination would afford the best guarantee of the defeat of the entire Tammany Hall ticket, because of his great personal strength and the fact that to the people at large he stands for progressive ideals as neither of the other candidates does, and would therefore make it certain that Mr. Murphy's ticket will be defeated and that either Mr. Hearst or Mr. Bannard will be elected, with the best possible Board of Estimate and Apportionment."

WON'T HURT McCARREN—METZ.

But Might Be Induced to Run on Good Ticket, Though Not Seeking Office.

Controller Metz defined yesterday his position with reference to the overtures that are being made to him to run again. Incidentally, he suggested the Board of Estimate he would like to see in office in the best interests of the city.

"I won't do anything," said the Controller, "to hurt McCarren or to give Murphy a chance to damage the Kings County organization. I don't want, on the other hand, to see the city in the power of either Murphy or Woodruff.

"I might run again if a place were offered me on a ticket with McCooey for President of Brooklyn, Gresser, and not Cassidy, as President of Queens; Cromwell from Richmond, and McAneny for Manhattan. I should be quite sure if these men were elected that neither Murphy nor Woodruff would dominate the Board of Estimate. As for McCarren, he would not dominate the board. He has never dominated me. He has always treated me very fairly.

"But I'm not looking for office again. I have made all arrangements for going away on a South American trip with a friend of mine. But whatever I do, it certainly will not be anything that will injure McCarren for the good of either Murphy or Woodruff."

Haines Named for a Fourth Term.

The Republicans of the First Westchester District renominated Harry W. Haines for his fourth Assembly term last night. The Democrats have nominated Frederick Hughes, State President of the Eagles, for the same office.

GAYNOR NOTIFIED, WON'T BE BOSSED

Accepting the Nomination, He Says None Can "Nudge Me How to Vote."

HE IS FOR MORE SUBWAYS

Reform and Civic Associations That Have Indorsed Him Join in the Ceremony.

In the presence of perhaps as strange a political assortment of citizens as has ever appeared in a borough where the brands of politics are almost as the sands of the desert in number and as the leaves of the forest in variety, Justice William J. Gaynor was formally notified yesterday afternoon at his home in Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, that he had been named as the candidate for Mayor of New York by Tammany Hall, the McCarren organization, the Municipal Ownership League, the Central Labor Union, the Municipal Democracy, the Civic Union, the Congress of Taxpayers, the Voters' Federation, the Marketmen's Association, the Fourth Avenue Subway League, and the allied civic bodies.

For an hour or more the distinguished jurist stood in the parlor of his home, meeting with bowed head a flood of oratory turned loose to inform him that he was the choice of the political bodies represented before him.

Facing him, with elbows touching, were men whose views of government, whose ideals as to public life, are as wide apart as the antipodes, as unlike as light and darkness, and as unyielding to each other as an immovable object and an irresistible force.

With Borough Secretary Charles Frederick Adams standing side by side with one who spoke for an organization once graced by the leadership of William M. Tweed, in a flowery speech assuring Mr. Gaynor that he represented all that they and their utterly dissimilar political interests held to be ideal in a candidate, there was presented a strange paradox.

To this strange picture must be added the figure of Col. Alexander S. Bacon, reformer and implacable foe of corruption in public life, also following a Tammany orator in telling the Brooklyn jurist how happy he and his people were that a man of his stamp had been named for the first office in the city.

No Hint of Inconsistency.

If it appealed to the notifiers or to the candidate himself that there seemed to be inconsistency somewhere, there was no hint of it in the manner or words of either. The mouthpieces of the reform elements represented appeared to believe that Mr. Gaynor, as Mayor, would reform things to the very core.

And yet Tammany, as expressed by its representatives, seemed to feel that it was to become just as satisfied with and as proud of the candidate as the city's Chief Executive.

The ceremony of notifying Mr. Gaynor and his running mates on the ticket was not remarkable for the enthusiasm displayed. The candidate failed to fire his hearers to anything even suggestive of a demonstration. He read a typewritten speech unemotionally, coldly, with little emphasis.

About 100 men attended the notification—notifiers, politicians, personal friends of the candidates, and newspaper men. The numerous committees of notifiers occupied most of the floor space. Those who looked for a large delegation from the McCarren organization were disappointed. The McCarren man of most consequence present was Congressman John J. Fitzgerald, and he was a member of the Democratic Notification Committee. The Brooklyn Senator was not present.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas F. Donnelly was the first to inform Mr. Gaynor that he was a candidate for Mayor. He spoke as the Chairman of the Democratic Committee, which otherwise was made up of Joseph Cassidy of Queens, Congressman Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, Charles J. McCormick of Richmond, and Payne Whitney and Judge Edward Swann of Manhattan.

In notifying Mr. Gaynor, Mr. Donnelly, of course, addressed the same news to Robert R. Moore, nominated for Controller, and John F. Galvin, named for President of the Aldermen. The three candidates stood together in the library.

Charles Frederick Adams spoke for the Allied Civic organizations, Col. Alexander Bacon for the Municipal Democracy, Joseph S. Schwab for the Congress of Taxpayers, Joseph J. Savage for the Voters' Federation, and Judge Lachman for another taxpayers' organization.

Mr. Gaynor's Speech.

Mr. Gaynor's speech of acceptance follows:

"You tender me the nomination for Mayor of the Democratic City Convention, made up of delegates from the Democratic organizations of all of the five Boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens, Richmond, Manhattan, and the Bronx. I did not seek the nomination or ask for it, but I accept it, earnestly hoping that I am prepared.

"No matter how long one's study and experience in government might be, he could not enter the office of Mayor of this great city without misgiving and anxiety. The Governorship of no State is comparable to it for power and opportunity to work for the public good. In my judgment it is second only to the Presidency of our country.

"The Constitution of this State separates city elections from State and National elections to the end that city elections may not be swayed by State or National politics, and be in that sense blindly partisan. It is necessary that parties nominate candidates for the city offices, but after the nominations are made the election is held on city men and measures, and not on National or State men and measures.

"During the last twenty-five years a controlling number from the Democratic Party have several times gone in with the Republicans on this principle in nominating and electing a Mayor of the City of New York or of the old City of Brooklyn to further certain principles or measures of city Government.

Maxim Didn't Hold.

"As a Republican was always selected on these occasions, it was thought by a very large number of fair-minded Republicans this year that in all fairness the Republican leaders in proposing a similar fusion should express a willingness to take a Democrat for the candidate.

"But the fair and decent maxim that turn about is fair play does not seem to enter into the selfish minds or schemes of these leaders. Instead, they barred every Democrat as a preliminary condition to going into fusion by exacting of him an unlawful pledge, which would naturally have led to other and even worse pledges, and then nominated a gentleman who is not only a member, but also the Treasurer and money collector of the executive Committee of their party organization, and this they call a non-party or non-partisan Fusion nomination. It will be difficult for even the few bitter old-time partisans left among us to convince themselves of that view of it.

"I take this opportunity also to accept the nominations given me by many boards of trade, taxpayers' and rentpayers' associations, and other civic and political bodies throughout the city, I think 105 in all, most of them being here represented. I wish that I were in some sense worthy of so much confidence.

"I have also been nominated by two petitions, filed before you nominated me, and there are five others, I am informed, which are not yet filed. I ask the persons in charge of these petitions to consider the encumbrance they will be on the ballot, and settle on some one of them, if any be deemed necessary. But the object of nomination by petition being to get a candidate on the official ballot, who otherwise would not be there, it is, therefore, not necessary now that there should be any petition nomination.

Urgent Need for New Subways.

"As it is my purpose to discuss the issues of this campaign as it progresses, and as I have heretofore discussed some of them, I shall confine myself to a few words now on one material thing. For six years and more the construction of necessary subways has been delayed, neglected, or held up. Meanwhile, New Jersey has been connected with us by a subway, and our population is leaving us.

"The city must proceed at once to build the necessary subways, as is amply provided for by statute. Not a day should be lost. My two associates on the city ticket, Mr. Moore for Controller, and Mr. Galvin for President of the Board of Aldermen, have been nominated to work with me to this end in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

"I trust that no one, and especially no one who depends on politics for a living and seeks his way in politics by all sorts of subserviency and appeals for votes and is the mere tool of others, will get into that board as against one of these men.

"We met before we were nominated and are prepared to work together. No one will stand back of our chairs and nudge us how to vote.

"The building of the Subways by the city does not, in my judgment, depend on the adoption by the people of the pending Constitutional amendment in respect of the bonds to be included in or excluded from the 10 per cent. limit. The margin of borrowing capacity on the present status is ample, I think, especially when it is considered that every necessary Subway will create real estate values far in excess of the cost of its construction, and also that with due diligence we shall probably not expend more than from ten to twenty millions of dollars a year in Subway construction, speaking approximately.

Confidence in Advisers.

"I have, therefore, heretofore expressed myself as opposed to the said amendment, fearing that its adoption might tend to extravagance in city expenditure in other directions, but as many able men who have closely studied the subject and in whose judgment I have full confidence are uncertain whether it may not be necessary for Subway construction I am not disposed to adhere to my opinion against theirs for more and ample Subways we must have.

"It seems to me quite certain, at all events, that the building of the subways will not entail an increased tax rate, but that on the contrary the values created by the subways, together with the revenues from the subways, must lead to a decrease in the tax rate.

"Let me again say that I resign my present office to run for Mayor only to dedicate and devote the next four years of my life to the service of the people of New York if they want me, and if they do not I shall be content.

"This great city is made up of people of every race, nation, belief, and way of thinking. Let us live and act together without any hostility, prejudice, or uncharitableness. He who holds us all in the hollow of His hand suffers us all, and cannot we bear with and be charitable of one another? Our children are growing up together, and will make one people. It is for us now to be moved by one common motive, that of American citizenship, the highest in the world."

Mr. Galvin and Mr. Moore made brief speeches of acceptance, pledging themselves to work with Mr. Gaynor for the best interests of the city.

TAMMANY'S MANY WORRIES.

Hearst Comes First, Haffen Second—Rumor Roesch May Be Sacrificed.

The chief subjects of discussion about Tammany Hall yesterday were whether or not Hearst will run and the situation in the Bronx.

After the elation which followed Mr. Hearst's announcement of Tuesday that he would not enter the Mayoralty fight, the Tammany leaders were again thrown into a state of apprehension yesterday by the enthusiastic indorsement of Hearst at the Cooper Union mass meeting. Under a rather doubtful exterior of bravado it was clear that the Tammany braves were decidedly worried over the prospect of Mr. Hearst again taking the field. None of them would discuss the matter openly, but the uneasiness was evident on all sides. Leader Murphy would not discuss the matter.

"Do you think Mr. Hearst will accept?" he was asked.

"I am not doing the thinking for Mr. Hearst," was the only reply he would make.

Mr. Murphy took occasion yesterday to put in a word in defense of the nomination of George F. Roesch for the City Court bench. In the Lexow investigation Judge Roesch, then a Tammany district leader, figured rather prominently.

"Judge Roesch has since been elected several times to the State Senate and the Municipal Court bench," declared Mr. Murphy. "That's answer enough to these charges, I think."

There was a rumor last night, just the same, that under pressure Judge Roesch would withdraw from the ticket in view of the comments made upon his nomination. At his home in East Tenth Street, however, he laughed at the report.

"It is ridiculous," was his only comment.

Justice Gaynor and Mr. Murphy still refrain from exchanging views concerning the management of the campaign, but the Speaker's Tammany Bureau, it was said yesterday, expects to have a list of meetings made up by Monday.

FUSIONISTS RATIFY TO-NIGHT.

Cooper Union Meeting Will Open Bannard's Campaign.

While Otto T. Bannard has filled some speaking engagements since he became the fusion nominee for Mayor, the real campaign does not begin until to-night with the ratification meeting at Cooper Union. Some changes in the programme were announced yesterday.

William J. Schieffelin, Chairman of the Citizens' Union, and not Congressman William S. Bennet, Mr. Bannard's campaign manager, will preside at the meeting. It was also announced last night that William M. Ivins had been taken off as a speaker. This was done at Mr. Ivins's own request.

The Committee of One Hundred has organized a Campaign Committee of Fifteen, which met and organized yesterday by electing Raymond V. Ingersoll Chairman and Walter L. Willis Secretary. After the meeting Mr. Ingersoll outlined the plan decided upon in this statement.

"It is the purpose of the committee to extend the system of exhibits into various sections of the city so far as our resources will permit. The committee is much gratified with the success of the exhibits already opened, which have been witnessed this week by more than 35,000 people. Definite plans have been made for opening one exhibit on the lower east side and another at 29 Graham Street, Brooklyn, within a week.

"We will need considerable financial support and must look for it to citizens who have no other purpose to serve than to secure an administration worthy of the city."

QUEENS TICKETS COMPLETED.

Gresser for County Clerk on Cassidy Ticket—Both Parties Name Humphrey

Both the Democrats and Republicans of Queens Borough filled out their county and borough tickets last night at adjourned conventions. The Democratic nominees are:

For Borough President—JOSEPH CASSIDY.
For County Clerk—LAWRENCE GRESSER.
For Sheriff—JOHN NEIDERSTEIN.
For County Judge—BURT J. HUMPHREY.
For Coroners—JOSEPH FLANAGAN and JOHN F. ROGERS.

Leader Cassidy began his convention on Tuesday, when he was nominated for Borough President. His efforts to harmonize the opposing faction, led by Borough President Gresser and Sheriff Harvey, were fruitless. The ten delegates from Gresser's Assembly district, the Third, bolted. One of them attended the convention last night and placed Gresser's name in nomination for County Clerk. Mr. Gresser said before the convention that he would not accept the nomination for County Clerk.

The Republican Convention resulted in the following borough and county ticket:

For Borough President—JOSEPH H. DE BRAGGA.
For County Clerk—THERON H. PURDEN.
For Sheriff—THOMAS M. QUINN.

Mr. Humphrey, who has been nominated by both Democrats and Republicans, is the present County Judge. He is a Democrat and was elected by the Hearst party a few years ago.

died out, and some of the more venturesome peered down into the depths. One of these was Giuseppi Furintino, 14 years old, of 777 Tenth Avenue. He lost his balance and fell into the open manhole at Tenth Avenue and Fifty-first Street, landing in water up to his neck. The lad's comrades yelled for help. Charles Mayorley, a driver, happened to be near with his team. He took off the reins and let them down into the sewer. Furintino grasped them and was quickly pulled out, none the worse for his experience, save for his ducking.

A large force of city employes were soon on the scene and put empty barrels and boxes in the manholes to keep persons from falling in. Red lights were displayed last night at every manhole without a cap.

Benjamin Curry, a foreman of sewer employes, said that a similar series of explosions occurred about four years ago in the same section, and at that time also it was supposed that gasoline from the garages was responsible for them in large measure. He said that in spite of repeated warnings many of the garage employes insist on washing their machines near the culverts, and that the gasoline washes down into them.

"The tide was high this afternoon," said Mr. Curry, "making an explosion more likely. In some way a spark must have reached the gasoline and perhaps escaping gas. The hole caps give little vent for the gas that escapes into the sewers, thus causing the explosions."

A result of the explosions, according to Alderman Herman F. Beyer, will be that he will introduce a resolution before the Board of Aldermen on Tuesday next calling for an inspection of sewers and for means of preventing their use as conveyers of gasoline. Mr. Beyer has a dyeing establishment at Fiftieth Street and Tenth Avenue. Six girls were working there when the explosions started. Three of them fainted.

Mr. Beyer says that a resolution recently passed by the Aldermen providing for a fine of $50 for garage keepers and their employes on conviction of pouring gasoline into the sewers is inadequate to cope with the situation.

WILLCOX HITS [illegible]ACK AT METZ AND S[illegible]ONTS

Surprised to Learn of Th[illegible]r Agreement as to Lengthening Subway Platforms.

JUSTIFIES BOARD'S ACTS

Metz Retaliates by Calling Public Service Board an Annex of the Republican Campaign Committee.

Chairman William R. Willcox of the Public Service Commission countered upon Controller Metz, the Board of Estimate, and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company yesterday for the Controller's statement on the subject of lengthening the platforms in the Subway at the Citizens' Exhibit meeting in Union Square on Wednesday night.

At that meeting the Controller was disposed to lay part of the blame for the delay in this matter on the Public Service Commission, and also said that President Shonts of the Interborough had stated last Spring, when the matter came up, that his company was not ready to go ahead with the improvements.

Mr. Willcox held that th[illegible]position of the commission was entirel[illegible]stified. He expressed surprise that M[illegible]honts had told the Controller that th[illegible]erborough was not prepared to ge[illegible]ead, and added:

"It will be remembered [illegible]t, at the very time that Mr. Shont[illegible]as stating to the commission his rea[illegible]s to have the Subway platforms le[illegible]ened and that the work would be co[illegible]ted in ten months, his company was [illegible] advertising heavily in the newspa[illegible] to the effect that the Interborough [illegible]'Ready to Act,' and that its proposa[illegible]ere before the proper authorities for [illegible]eir action. It now appears from Mr. [illegible]etz's statement that this improvemen[illegible]hich would mean an increase of nearly [illegible] per cent. in rush hours, and which cou[illegible]e completed in ten months, was n[illegible]cted upon because of a suggestion to [illegible] Controller by the President of the In[illegible]orough.

"This was not our under[illegible]ding of the readiness of the Interboro[illegible]. It is unfortunate that the work [illegible]d not have been authorized in June, t[illegible]e Summer months, which is a period [illegible]ight travel in the Subway, could have [illegible] well used. Already half of the te[illegible]onths has elapsed without any work.

Mr. Willcox's statemen[illegible]cluded extracts from Mr. Shonts's [illegible]tter to the commission on March 10, [illegible]ressing the willingness of the Interbor[illegible]h to undertake the lengthening of [illegible] platforms with city money, also an [illegible]act from a letter the commission wrot[illegible] Mr. Shonts on March 12 asking that [illegible]e should be no delay in getting the w[illegible] under way, and continued:

On June 2 the commissio[illegible]opted resolutions making requisition [illegible]e Board of Estimate for $1,150,000 for [illegible]thening the platforms from City Hall [illegible]ward, and $350,000 for lengthening t[illegible]om City Hall to the Atlantic Ave[illegible]tation in Brooklyn. At a meeting o[illegible] Board of Estimate on June 4 the [illegible]mmunication from the commission was [illegible]rred to the Controller and the chief [illegible]neer of the board.

That was the end of [illegible] matter for the Summer, as the Boa[illegible]of Estimate has taken no action.

President Shonts of the [illegible]nterborough is now away with his family at Hot Springs, Va. In his absence his secretary, Mr. Pepperman, and H. P. Waugh, the press agent of the Interborough, got up a statement. Asked [illegible] the name of any officer of the Interborough should be appended to the statement, a negative answer was given. The statement said:

When it became apparent that by reason of the fact that the Public Service Commission did not act upon the matter until June, and that two additional months would be necessary to work out the engineering plan, that this construction could not begin until the early Fall months, nothing further was to be gained by pressing construction, as that would have meant that the entire work would have been thrown upon the company during the period of heavy travel.

As the situation now stands, if the plans for construction can be made ready even by November, the stations can be lengthened in time to provide for the next period of heavy travel next Winter.

When the Interborough's statement was shown to Chairman Willcox he said he did not care to comment upon it further than to call attention again to the pressure which the commission had to bring upon the Interborough last Spring to get any definite plans from that company as early as June, when the Public Service Commission took action.

Named for Assembly and Aldermen.

In the adjourned Republican and Democratic Assembly and Aldermanic Conventions last night there was but one change, Thomas F. Turley, a lawyer of 757 Beck Avenue, the Bronx, being nominated by the Democrats for the place now occupied by Assemblyman Silberman.

The Republicans in the Fifteenth Aldermanic District, after an all-night session, nominated at 4:15 o'clock yesterday morning Niles R. Becher, a real estate broker, for the place now occupied by Alderman Case.

The nominees:

M'CARREN TICKET NAMED IN BROOKLYN

McCooey Chosen for Borough President and Patrick H. Quinn for Sheriff.

CONVENTION A STORMY ONE

Insurgents Concentrate Their Fight on the Choice for Borough Head and County Clerk.

The McCarren ticket was put through at the Brooklyn County and Borough Conventions last night in one of the stormiest sessions of the kind held in the city in recent years. Several times the Chairman, Judge P. D. Meagher, was unable to control the gathering and it looked more than once as if the conventions would break up in a riot.

The anti-McCarren leaders centred their opposition on the nominations for Borough President and County Clerk, and voted solidly together against the Senator's selections, aided by here and there a scattering vote from the regular McCarren districts. They did not have the strength to down the leader, however.

The opposition then voted to make the nominations unanimous, indicating that there will be no open bolt, as had been thought likely. The feeling was intense, however, and it was indicated that there will be wholesale knifing of the local tickets at election time.

The nominations were:

For Borough President—JOHN H. McCOOEY.
For Sheriff—PATRICK H. QUINN.
For County Clerk—HENRY P. MOLLOY.
For Register—FREDERICK LUNDY.
For Coroners—Dr. ALEXANDER J. ROONEY and EDWARD C. GLINNEN.

Long before the conventions were called to order it was clear that there would be trouble. The galleries were packed with McCarren shouters, who were prepared to make it interesting for the insurgents at every opportunity.

Deputy Controller McCooey was placed in nomination by Arthur S. Somers. William J. Bolger of the Ninth District then took the platform to name John A. Heffernan, secretary to Borough President Coler. As soon as the gallery understood that he was one of the opposition they started to howl. Finally, Bolger shouted above the uproad:

"I am here to speak for 30,000 exiles from the Kings County organization, who ask to be taken back but on terms of decency and honor. We do not care to go in where there is a strong smell of gas, sugar, and oil.

"McCarren entered the city convention brazenly and defiantly against Gaynor and he was forced to take his medicine. He does not care for platform or for the people, but only to make a row and get jobs. We cannot stand for a man who voted against the Eighty-cent-gas bill." Here the howls from the gallery completely drowned out the speaker's voice.

McCooey won by a vote of 216 to 94, the Second, Tenth, Eleventh, Twenty-second, and Twenty-third Districts voting solidly against him. There were split delegations in the Seventh, Twelfth, Seventeenth, and Twenty-first Districts.

The insurgents made no opposition to the nomination of Quinn and Lundy. The former is the McCarren leader of the First Assembly District, and an accountant in the Controller's office. The latter was the suggestion of Kenneth Sutherland, the McCarren leader at Coney Island.

Magistrate Naumer, leader of the Seventeenth District, who bolted the conference on the slate on Wednesday night and went over to the insurgents, on account of the selection of Molloy for County Clerk, was nominated by the insurgents for the place. Molloy won with 200.

BROOKLYN FUSION RATIFIED.

Ticket Headed by Steers for Borough President Nominated by Republicans.

At the Republican County and Borough Convention, held in Brooklyn last night, the ticket headed by ex-Magistrate Alfred E. Steers for Borough President was nominated without opposition.

The other candidates nominated were Jacob Livingston for Sheriff, Thomas P. Peters for Register, John Feitner for County Clerk, and Dr. Leon L. Lourie and Frederick C. Heitmann for Coroners.

BANNARD BEGINS SPEAKING.

Visits Three Meetings in Widely Separated Districts.

Otto T. Bannard, the fusion nominee for Mayor, spoke in many parts of the city last night, using an automobile to get to the different meetings.

In the three speeches that he made—one at the Harlem Republican Club, 28 West 124th Street, where a reception was given to the nominees on the fusion ticket; another at the Manhattan Square Hotel, in West Seventy-seventh Street, where a dinner to Assemblyman William M. Bennett was going on, the last at the Hungarian Republican Club, 76 Second Avenue—he emphasized the fact that the ticket he headed was no more Republican than it was anti-Tammany Democratic.

On entering the Harlem Republican Club he was met by its President, Dr. G. E. Leet, and by John J. Lyons, leader of that district, the Thirty-first Assembly. There was no sign of enthusiasm till the 500 Republicans there were called to order. But when Dr. Leet closed his few remarks with "I want you all to see the next Mayor, Otto T. Bannard," the audience became enthusiastic.

Several of the other candidates—John Purroy Mitchel, William A. Prendergast, and Alfred R. Page—were already there, and they joined in the shouting and clapping at their leader's name.

Mr. Bannard, in his address, said:

"This will be a battle royal. I confess that when I accepted the nomination I felt that the odds against me were heavy; that I had no easy contract. I feel encouraged to-day. I sense a ground swell, gradually growing stronger and stronger. I am getting to feel more confident, and Tammany will be badly frightened before the next two weeks are up; and on Nov. 2 I believe we will elect our ticket.

"The fight is for schoolhouses, subways, health, life, air; it is anti-'Graft,' some one shouted—"Yes, anti-Tammany graft," went on Mr. Bannard. "The issue is: Who shall spend your billion dollars in the next four years? Is Tammany to go on giving you 25 cents for every dollar?"

At the Manhattan Square Hotel he was received by the ex-leader of that district, the Fifteenth, Harry W. Mack. As he entered the dining room all the 200 or so guests came to their feet with shouts and waving napkins. Here Mr. Bannard said:

"I am making a few preliminary rounds. The campaign is not formally opened till to-morrow night. I dropped in to give some encouragement. The situation looks a great deal better every day."

At the "Chamber of Horrors," 20 Union Square East, no preparation had been made to receive Mr. Bannard, though he had been scheduled to speak. The megaphone man without kept right on with his "Come right in and hear the story of Tammany's graft," and the forty-odd people inside did not know who the visitor was.

WON'T FUSE ON DE BRAGGA.

Joseph De Bragga, the Republican boss of Queens, who had himself nominated for Borough President in the face of protests and pleas by President Parsons of the Republican County Committee and Republican State Chairman Woodruff, will not receive the indorsement of the Committee of One Hundred or of the Fusion conference.

OBJECTS TO DANES AS COOK'S JUDGES

Borchgrevink Says University of Copenhagen Would Be Prepossessed in His Favor.

WOULD BAR AMERICANS, TOO

Cook Says Difficulties of Determining Approximate Longitude in Arctic Region Are Not Great.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 7.—Capt. C. E. Borchgrevink, the antarctic explorer, who wintered in the southern polar region in 1900 and is about to undertake another expedition there, has expressed his opposition to the proposed submission of Dr. Cook's records to the university here and to the American Geographical Society.

Capt. Borchgrevink declares that this procedure will not prove satisfactory because he considers that both bodies are prepossessed in favor of Dr. Cook. Capt. Borchgrevink suggests that the Geographical Society of Geneva, as an unprejudiced body, should be asked to settle the matter.

A Greenland clergyman named Ludwigs, who is a member of the Cape York Mission, and is acquainted with both Dr. Cook and Commander Peary, has opened a campaign against the latter, reiterating some old allegations as to his ill-treatment of the Eskimos. Among other charges he alleges that Commander Peary once deserted a band of women and children on the ice without food because they hindered the rapid advance of his expedition.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 7.—One point that has been noted in Dr. Frederick A. Cook's narrative of his arctic trip has been his constant reference to his position in longitude as well as latitude. Some question has arisen over the difficulty of ascertaining longitude so near the pole, as the elevation of the sun would vary so little that it might take hours of most careful observation to ascertain just when it was greatest and therefore when it was noon. Dr. Cook was asked to-night to explain just how he had ascertained his longitude.

"How did you get your longitude when you were so near the pole, and how did you overcome the difficulties of determining it so exactly?" Dr. Cook was asked.

"That is a question of no importance," he said. "Our observations are not exact. Any person who has a chronometer and a sextant and an artificial horizon, and who understands them perfectly, can determine the approximate longitude. Of course it becomes more difficult as one nears the pole, but the difficulty is not hard for one to overcome."

Prof. L. L. Dyche of the University of Kansas, a friend of the explorer, was in the room.

"There is no trouble in making observations," said Prof. Dyche. "With an artificial horizon Dr. Cook would have little more trouble finding the longitude than a Captain would at sea."

"Commander Peary is reported as saying that he talked to the two Eskimos you took to the pole and that they told him that you made only one day's journey north, and that after that journey you camped for three days," said the reporter.

Dr. Cook's tone was decisive. "I don't care what Mr. Peary says they told him," he replied. "The Eskimos were told not to tell any one, and it is quite immaterial to me what Mr. Peary has from them."

"You believe, then, that the Eskimos were faithful to you and they did as you ordered?" "I do. They had their orders and they obeyed them."

"What about the marked charts that Peary is reported as saying your Eskimos made of your journey? Do you consider them of any importance?"

"Not of the slightest importance. The Eskimos were told to tell no one of our discovery."

Dr. Cook lectured to-night to a large audience. He did not refer to his controversy with Peary. His cold, for which he took treatment to-day, was improved.

Dr. Cook left later for St. Louis. He will participate in the Fall carnival there to-morrow and then go to Chicago.

HARRY WHITNEY HERE DODGING INTERVIEWS

WHAT COOK'S ESKIMOS SAY

Henson Repeats They Declared Cook Only Went "Two Sleeps" from Land —Roosevelt's Crew Sightseeing.

Harry Whitney, the New Haven sportsman, who came out of the arctic from a hunting trip ten days ago to find himself plunged into the whirl of controversy over the assertion of Dr. Frederick A. Cook that he had discovered the north pole, arrived here yesterday, and devoted most of his time to dodging reporters.

Mr. Whitney reached the Grand Central Station from New Haven just after 11 o'clock, and went to the Holland House. Mr. Whitney stayed at the hotel a while, and then took a taxicab to the Fifth Avenue Building, where he called upon Congressman Bennet, campaign manager for Otto T. Bannard, Republican candidate for Mayor. Mr. Whitney and Mr. Bennet were collegemates. They talked for a while, and Mr. Whitney told the Congressman that he had had good hunting in the arctic. When the conversation turned upon the instruments at Etah Mr. Whitney gave a deprecatory wave of the hand, exclaiming:

"I wish I'd never heard of them."

Before he departed, Mr. Whitney asked Congressman Bennet to give his regards to Mr. Bannard, and expressed a hope that Bannard would be elected.

After this, Mr. Whitney rode back to the Holland House. After dinner he went in a taxicab to the steamer Roosevelt, at the foot of East Twenty-fourth Street, where some of his arctic trophies are stored. Mr. Whitney wanted to see Capt. Robert Bartlett about taking his relics away, but the Captain had just left the ship. The rest of the Roosevelt's crew, except John Cody, who was ill in bed, had gone on an automobile trip through the city, so Mr. Whitney could not get at his belongings. They were "put away somewhere in the hold," Cody said, but was too ill to recall anything more about them. Mr. Whitney left the ship after a stay of ten minutes, saying he would be back last evening. He did not appear again. Inquiry at the Holland House in the evening failed to reveal anything tangible regarding his movements.

Matt Henson, who went with Commander Peary to the pole, intimated in a talk yesterday that George Pritchard, the cabin boy who was in the igloo at Etah when Dr. Cook told Whitney that he had reached the pole, has given several versions of the Etah incident, and the Roosevelt's crew didn't know exactly which to accept.

"I shall be glad when Commander Peary makes his full statement public," said Hansen, "because it will put the whole thing in a different light. The Commander has 'the goods,' as he has told you all. I only wish I could talk about it now. It's hard to keep still. That boy Pritchard when he came aboard the Roosevelt was questioned about what Dr. Cook told him, and he declared Dr. Cook had said nothing of having discovered the north pole. The Commander asked Pritchard about it, and Pritchard stuck to that story. The crew asked him and Pritchard told us the same.

"Then, when the Roosevelt reached Battle Harbor, Pritchard told of having heard Dr. Cook tell Mr. Whitney that he had got to the pole. It surprised us all. We didn't know what to make of it. We asked Pritchard why he had told the other story, and all he said was that Dr. Cook had told him to.

"The fact is," said Hansen, "Pritchard doesn't seem to know exactly what did happen at Etah. I don't know how the Commander finally made out with Pritchard, but I know what impression I got."

Hansen repeated the assertion he made at Battle Harbor that Dr. Cook's two Eskimos had told him the doctor had not gone more than "two sleeps" from land.

"I understand the Eskimo language, and I knew what they were saying to me," said Hansen. "They drew a map for the Commander and showed him how far they had gone with Dr. Cook. I can tell you that map didn't take in the north pole.

"Do I believe the Eskimos told me the truth?" repeated Hansen when that was asked. "You can take my word for it that they were not trying to fool me. They hadn't any reason to lie to me, and they didn't. I corroborated their story through others in their tribe to make doubly sure about it."

Ten members of the Roosevelt's crew left the pier in two automobiles at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning and, under the pilotage of Archer M. Huntington and Henry Fairchild Osborne of the American Museum of Natural History, were taken on an outing that lasted until dark. They went to the top of the Metropolitan tower, whence they had a view of the city, and then to the Bronx Zoo. After looking at the animals until they were tired of it they dined at the Zoo, then visited the American Museum of Natural History. There the trophies given by Commander Peary were being put in place. The crew watched the work.

Late in the afternoon the sailors were taken to the Aquarium, where they beheld, among other specimens, some arctic seals. At these they gazed as at old friends.

Most of the Roosevelt's crew will depart to-day for their homes in Newfoundland. The Roosevelt will stay at the East Twenty-fourth Street pier in charge of a watchman until she is sold or other disposition is made of her.

PEARY RELICS ON VIEW.

Admiral Seymour Gets First Sight of the Polar Trophies.

Sir Edward Hobart Seymour, Admiral of the British fleet, was the first person outside of those officially connected with the American Museum of Natural History to see the trophies brought back from the arctic by Commander Peary, including the sledge which went to the north pole. These trophies will be put on public exhibition at the Museum this morning.

The exhibition, which embraces a century of arctic exploration with Commander Peary's successful dash as the central feature, was being prepared yesterday afternoon, when about 4:30 o'clock, Admiral Seymour, accompanied by Capt. Nicholson of his personal staff, and President R. A. C. Smith of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company entered the Museum and asked to be shown the collections of the Museum.

Under the guidance of an officer of the Museum, the Admiral and his party went almost directly to the northwest wing of the building, where they saw a great hall filled with the collections of explorers from the beginning of the nineteenth century down to the present time. Admiral Seymour expressed his pleasure at seeing such a collection, said to be the most complete in the world. After viewing the sledge which Commander Peary used on his trip to the pole, the Admiral turned with interest to the stuffed seals, walrus, and narwhals on exhibition, those with him concluding from his remarks that he had indulged in the sport of seal hunting. A part of the exhibit is a colored map fifty or more feet long and thirty wide, showing the polar regions, the outlines of the map for the first time in the history of map drawing being completed clear to the pole from Commander Peary's observations.

Among the museum's arctic trophies on exhibition with the Peary relics are a number of cooking utensils and knives made from copper sheathing torn by the Eskimos from the sides of the Erebus and Terror, the ships in which Sir John Franklin, the English explorer, and his party sailed to discover the Northwest Passage in 1845, never to return. Sir John died two years later near the north end of King William's Land. His fate was not even known until he had been dead ten years, but when Capt. Comer of the museum's staff was conducting explorations some years ago near the point where Sir John had died, he found the natives using copper kettles, knives, and other implements, and on inquiry ascertained that without a doubt the copper had come from Sir John's vessels.

The Peary trophies which were carried to the museum from the Roosevelt included, besides one of the only two sledges which Commander Peary took to the pole with him, a valuable and extensive collection of musk ox skins. These are about sixty in number and are said to be worth nearly $5,000 in the raw state. There are also many bear skins, antlers, skulls of various arctic animals, some fish, the names of which are not yet known to the curators, and various minerals of more or less value brought from the northern extremity of Greenland.

In all the collection, however, nothing is regarded as more interesting than the instruments which belonged to Brig. Gen. Adolphus W. Greely, and which Commander Peary recently unearthed at Fort Conger, and brought back to this country. These consist of a pocket sextant, a sounding apparatus for getting the depth of water, a thermometer for measuring the minimum temperature, and a transit. The artificial horizon was not found among the instruments preserved, and it is supposed to have been broken. All the instruments appear to be in an excellent state of preservation. Near by is another instrument not often seen in a collection. This is an odometer, which, attached to the rear end of a sledge, indicates the distance traveled. It consists of an axle and two wheels, with a cyclometer attached.

A striking feature of the map, which Admiral Seymour praised, is a broad yellow line showing the route Commander Peary took in reaching the pole, with the point at which each relief party turned back clearly indicated. Those who saw it at a private view late yesterday afternoon remarked with interest on the stopping point within 200 miles of the pole, which Prof. Marvin of Cornell reached only to retrace his steps to his death. The yellow line leads directly to the pole, which is indicated by an American flag.

While not in the same room, but a part of the exhibit, there are at the museum two great cross sections of the globe, one showing the north polar and the other the south polar regions. Until recently the first showed Peary's "furthest north" route. Now the representation has been completed to show the final route taken by Peary to the pole, while on the southern cross section the Union Jack is shown at 88.23 south latitude, where it was hoisted on Jan. 9 of the present year by Lieut. Shackleton of the Royal Naval Reserves.

PARTY WORSHIPPED PEARY.

Prof. McMillan Denies He Was Unsympathetic with Associates.

FREEPORT, Me., Oct. 7.—"Commander Peary loved his men, and time and time again went out of his way to help them over rough places, doing anything he could to make their lot easier, and the members of his party fairly worshipped him."

This was the answer of Prof. Donald B. McMillan, a scientist with the Peary polar party, who arrived at his home here to-day, to a query about intimations attributed to Dr. F. A. Cook that Commander Peary was cold and unsympathetic toward his assistants.

Prof. McMillan and his three sisters were guests of Commander Peary at Eagle Island this afternoon.

PEARY TO REPORT ON TIDES

Will Send Records and Profile of Soundings to Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Commander Peary's original tidal records and profile of soundings from Cape Columbia to the north pole will be sent to the Coast and Geodetic Survey here soon, according to a telegram received from him to-day as follows:

No report as yet except preliminary telegraph one; shall forward original tidal records and profile of soundings Columbia to pole shortly. (Signed) PEARY.

The message was dated South Harpswell, Me.

ASK MOORE TO EXPLAIN.

The Hundred Says He Was Interested in Traction Concern—Moore Denies.

The Committee of One Hundred gave out a statement last night asserting that Robert R. Moore, the Tammany candidate for Controller, is now, or was until recently Treasurer of the Bradley-Gaffney-Steers Company which has offered to build the Broadway-Lexington Avenue Subway, and in which James E. Gaffney, who was Treasurer of the New York Contracting and Trucking Company, a Murphy concern, is one of the principal partners. The story was denied by Mr. Moore and by Joseph D. Carroll, the present Treasurer of the Bradley-Gaffney-Steers Company.

Mr. Moore if elected will have three votes on the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which is the final arbiter, and holds the city's purse strings when it comes to contracts.

Mr. Moore was questioned over the telephone at his home in West End Avenue.

"I have never been connected with the Bradley-Gaffney-Steers Company as an officer, nor have I ever owned a share of stock in that or any other contracting concern," he said. "The story is not true."

"It is said that you were indorsed for the nomination by Joseph D. Carroll, Treasurer of the Bradley-Gaffney-Steers Company," Mr. Moore was told.

"It may be that he gave me his indorsement. I have a good many friends who recommended me, and Mr. Carroll is one of my friends," he replied.

"Were you ever interested in the New York Contracting and Trucking Company?" he was asked.

"I never was; never in that or with any other contracting company. I have done considerable business with them, but that is all."

C. H. STRONG HEADS CITY CLUB

George McAneny, Fusion's Nominee for Borough President, Has Resigned.

The Trustees of the City Club accepted yesterday the resignation of George McAneny, nominee for Borough President of Manhattan on the fusion ticket, as President of that organization, and selected as his successor Charles H. Strong. Chairman of the board. This resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the Trustees of The City Club accept with great regret the resignation of Mr. George McAneny as President of the club and as a member of the Board of Trustees. The Trustees record with gratitude their appreciation of Mr. McAneny's devoted service as the head of the club during the last three years. No President in its history has given to it more generously of his time and of himself, or has better represented before the public the club's earnest desire to be of service to the city. Under his skilled leadership the club has grown in power and influence, and has accomplished results of signal value to the community.

Mr. Strong is a lawyer. He was formerly Chairman of the County Committee of the Citizens' Union, and was a member of the Charter Revision Commission. Gov. Hughes has appointed him President of the Board of Managers of the New York State Training School for Girls at Hudson.

FALLON AGAIN TURNED DOWN.

Beaten This Time for Nomination for Bench in a Republican Convention.

Judge Joseph B. Fallon, who was turned down by Tammany at the Eighth District Municipal Court Convention on Wednesday night, was put in nomination last night at the Republican convention of the district, but was beaten by William Haupt of 418 East 120th Street by a vote of 35 to 14.

In the Third District George W. Collins of 256 West Twenty-second Street and William Mann of 318 West Twenty-second Street were nominated. In the Sixth the Republicans named Solomon Oppenheimer of 172 East Seventy-ninth Street.

LONG RIDE FOR TAFT THROUGH YOSEMITE

Spends a Day in Traveling in Stage 34 Miles Among the Mountains.

HOPE OF LION HUNT IS VAIN

Walks a Mile Up Hill and Has Luncheon on Improvised Tables at Foot of Huge Pines.

WAWONA, Cal., Oct. 7.—An all-day stage ride over thirty-four miles of mountain road brought President Taft to-night to this little Sierra retreat, eight miles from the entrance to the Mariposa Grove of big trees, whither the Chief Executive starts to-morrow at sunrise.

Mr. Taft and his party reached Wawona Hotel in their stages at 5 P. M., one hour after the scheduled time. They were late because they lingered in the Grouse Creek forest, near Chinquapin, where the noonday luncheon was served on improvised tables set down at the foot of a hundred towering pines.

The day ride from El Portal, which began at 7 A. M., included glimpses of Yosemite Valley from Inspiration and Artists' Points, a pursuit of the tumbling waters of the Merced River into the valley floor, and a winding, narrow climb to a height of 7,000 feet at the crest of mountains which shut in the Yosemite.

News that mountain lions were infesting the park held out hope of adventure for a time, but not even the tracks of one were seen on the road. The President declared that this was one of the most enjoyable days of his life. It was his first glimpse of the Yosemite, and the impressive surroundings, the bracing mountain air, and the freedom from speechmaking, all contributed to the pleasure of the first day of roughing it in the Sierras.

Mr. Taft's constant coach companion to-day was John Muir, naturalist and explorer. Mr. Muir knows his Yosemite, and he had ready answers for the innumerable questions the President put to him.

As he passed through the outskirts of the valley, the President was saluted by a grizzled old California pioneer, Galen Clark, the first white man to make known the existence of the giant sequoia trees, which the President will see to-morrow. Mr. Clark is now more than 90 years old. He lives in the park and has asked that he be buried among the trees and mountains he has known so long.

President Taft alighted from the stage during a portion of the trip and walked a mile or more up the mountain road. It gave him a splendid appetite for the picnic luncheon of fried chicken, potatoes, fruit, and jelly.

At one point in the park, where a change of stages was made, the President was greeted by a band of little school children, and shook hands with all of them.

To-night in the temporary "White House," into which one of the little hotel cottages has been converted, the President is being guarded, as he was last night at El Portal, by a detachment of cavalry.

The President has two days more of sightseeing and restful traveling before him in and around the Yosemite, and there is not a speech of any sort in sight until Fresno, Cal., is reached next Sunday afternoon.

Despite the many suggestions from the White House at Washington, which have been telegraphed ahead, the hospitable cities of the West continue to vie in preparing elaborate bills of fare for the Presidential banquets. Mr. Taft has almost given up the idea of getting simple food at any public function.

Mr. Taft probably will pass Friday night at Glacier Point or at Sentinel Hotel. On Saturday he will return to El Portal to spend the night, and early on Sunday morning will resume his journey toward Los Angeles, arriving Monday morning.

While in Yosemite Park the President is not entirely cut off from communication with the outside world. A telephone wire, equipped with telegraphic instruments, is in easy reach.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 7.—Police precautions for safeguarding President Taft and President Diaz at their meeting here Oct. 16 were discussed to-day by John Wilkie, Chief of the United States Secret Service, and Col. Ismel Zuniga, Chief of the Mexican Secret Service. The carriage of President Diaz and the silver plate from the castle at Chapultepec, which will be used at the Taft-Diaz banquet, arrived to-night.

Citizens of El Paso will present Presidents Taft and Diaz with loving cups. The cups will be of solid gold and will be duplicates. Each will bear the coat of arms of both Mexico and the United States, as well as inscriptions.

Prentice Children Get Mother's Estate.

The will of Mrs. Mary Lanman Prentice, widow of N. Sargent Prentice, who died in Paris on Aug. 30, was filed yesterday. Her daughter, Mrs. Marshall H. Clyde of 124 East Thirty-seventh Street, gets $5,000 and the portrait of Jonathan Trumbull, painted by himself. A miniature of George Washington, set with diamonds, goes to her son, Sartell Prentice of 981 Park Avenue. Her daughter, Mrs. Mary Lanman Russell, is to get certain jewelry. Mrs. Prentice's interest in her parents' estate is to be divided equally among her children.

MAKE ATTACK ON ALDRICH.

Rhode Island Democrats Assail Senator—Name Olney Arnold for Governor.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 7.—The Democratic State Convention met here to-day, adopted the slate without a contest, and gave its approval to a platform which condemns Senator Aldrich roundly. The ticket adopted is:

Governor—OLNEY ARNOLD, Providence.
Lieutenant Governor—THOMAS A. CARROLL, Providence.
Secretary of State—FRANK E. FITZSIMMONS, Lincoln.
Attorney General—JAMES A. WILLIAMS, Providence.
General Treasurer—EDMUND WALKER, South Kingston.

Judge F. E. Fessenden, as Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, rapped for order. As the convention was getting under way the roll call brought forth several sharp contests.

All contests were settled without serious opposition, and Judge P. H. Quinn of Warwick was named as permanent Chairman.

While the Committee on Resolutions retired for an executive session the convention made its nominations. The ticket formulated in the pre-convention committee sessions was unanimously accepted, each candidate being nominated by acclamation. The Committee on Platform then reported. Judge Fitzsimmons read the document.

The platform, after references to the tariff, direct nomination of Senators, and the income tax, was made up of declarations on State questions. On National issues the resolutions were:

"We condemn the Aldrich tariff law as the most outrageously unfair tariff ever enacted by an American Congress, and to the consumers of the country we acknowledge, with shame, that the author of this law is a representative of this State.

"We reiterate our demand for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, and assert that under such a system Nelson W. Aldrich would not be returned to the Senate from this State.

"An income tax is the fairest tax ever devised, and we pledge the vote of every Democratic member of the incoming General Assembly in support of the income tax amendment to the National Constitution.

"Braytonism," a title coined to describe the alleged influence of Gen. Charles R. Brayton in Republican politics in the State, was the burden of the declarations on State matters.

A proposition to amend the State Constitution to provide for redistricting the State was referred to as follows:

"The adoption of this amendment fixes upon this State for the rest of his life the absolute domination of Charles R. Brayton, without any hope of better things, and upon his death passes this domination over to some other Republican boss who makes a business of politics.

"In a contest of this kind, where civic decency is the end sought, we regret to observe that most of the manufacturers of the State appear to prefer to buy from the boss their peace and such legislative favors as they desire rather than to join in the fight for the election of an untrammeled, unbossed, unbought Legislature."

VIRTUE IS UNVEILED.

There She Is in the Spotlight, Catching All Slurs Upon Her Shield.

The new plaster Virtue got a real glimpse of Broadway, the Tenderloin, and the Rialto last night, when for the first time they knocked off the wooden shackles which bound her plastic form at the upper end of Times Square, threw half a dozen spot lights upon her, and otherwise held her up to the public gaze. If she blushed she did not show it, and if those who saw her appreciated her kalsomined presence it was only noticeable in their amused smiles.

Apparently Virtue is not so rare an object in New York as she is sometimes represented to be, for everybody seemed to recognize her at once. Those who did not know her by that appellation saluted her as Miss Purity. Their familiarity with her presence may, of course, have been entirely due to the publicity which has been heaped upon her ever since THE TIMES disclosed her identity and set forth the purpose of her sojourn in the theatrical district. But there was no doubt everybody knew her.

It was about 8 o'clock when workmen climbed up the pedestal of the fifty-foot plaster statue and tore off the wooden structure which has surrounded it. None of the men responsible for the statue was on hand to see its unveiling. The pedestal itself was not ready. It was nearly midnight before every whitewashed board was nailed in place and the representation of virtuous New York was complete.

As has already been told, the statue has been erected by civic-minded New Yorkers who have the idea that there has been altogether too much mudslinging at the city.

As a touch of realism of which even Michael Angelo might have been proud Miss Purity has dexterously caught on a big shield several big splashes of putty, thus saving her trailing garments. Carping critics have already suggested that the shield resembles more than anything else an umbrella or the bottom of a washtub, and that the statue itself might not be out of place in Central Park. But there she is in Times Square, with spot lights trained upon her from an open window in the Acme Building.

KING FINDS NO WAY TO PREVENT CRISIS

Continues His Efforts, However, to Bring About Compromise on the Budget.

BOTH SIDES WANT TO FIGHT

Liberals Oppose Any Further Concessions and Unionists Demand Immediate Appeal to the People.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The King has been unsuccessful thus far in arranging a compromise in the budget controversy. He is still trying, however, to prevent a crisis, and had another consultation to-day with Premier Asquith, who prolonged his visit at Balmoral Castle.

As time passes the difficulties in avoiding a conflict between the Commons and the Lords increase, the strong party men of both sides being eager for the fight. The Liberal members, who scattered to their constituencies when the debate on the finance bill adjourned, contend in their speeches that the concessions made since the bill was introduced should satisfy its opponents, and express themselves as strongly opposed to any compromise.

On the other hand, the Unionists, who have made all preparations for the election, are urging the leaders to do nothing that might provent an immediate appeal to the people. They have seized on John E. Redmond's statement to America that the last obstacle to home rule would be gone with the disappearance of the veto power of the House of Lords, and are declaring that a "vote for the budget is a vote for home rule."

In the meantime the House of Lords is radically amending the Irish Land bill. The Lords threw out the clauses providing for compulsory purchase, thus raising another issue between the two houses. The Nationalists have already announced that they will insist upon restoring these clauses when the bill returns to the House of Commons.

Nova Scotia's Attorney General Dead.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 7.—W. T. Pipes, Attorney General of Nova Scotia, died suddenly while visiting friends here to-day. He was a member of the Legislature of that province and a member of Premier G. H. Murray's Cabinet. He was formerly Commissioner of Public Works and Mines, and was prominent in the Liberal Party of Nova Scotia.

On Sale at

This house is accustomed to doing Big Things in a Big Way, so when we conceived an overcoat sale nothing was more natural than that it should be an event of prime importance.
And so we made it an event of importance by putting into the sale several hundred fine overcoats at 19.50 that were priced heretofore at 25.00, 27.50 and 30.00.
The saving is a big extra bonus in addition to the fine style, the splendid tailoring and the distinctive character of these overcoats.
Hardly a man that won't avail himself of this opportunity.

The fabrics are velours, coverts, thibets, cheviots, unfinished worsteds and diagonals—black, gray, tan, oxford and olive—in medium and full length models. Cravenettes and rubberized coats are included.

Fall Overcoats for Men
$15 to $43—ready-for-service

Happily the monotony of years of sober cloths—plain grays, browns or black, has given place to novelty effects which are none the less tasteful or refined because they are designated "fancy."

Gray is still the predominating tone, but it is presented in so many varying patterns that one loses sight of the conservative aspect of an otherwise sober coloring.

Our designers have produced for this season an exceptionally broad variety of models, in all of which there are notable features of novelty and dressiness.

SPAIN TO MARK TIME IN WAR WITH MOORS

Premier Says Marina Will Await Reinforcements Before Resuming the Offensive.

LEROUX FOR REVOLUTION

Republican Leader Declares Monarchy Doomed—French Socialists Denounce Court-Martial of Ferrer.

MADRID, Oct. 7.—Premier Maura, on leaving a Cabinet meeting at the palace to-day, said he believed that Gen. Marina would wait for the arrival of reinforcements before resuming the offensive in his operations against the Moors.

MELILLA, Oct. 7.—The searchlights on the fortifications of the city last night disclosed several groups of Moors hidden among the cactus in the surrounding country. When they were discovered the Moors opened a hot fire, to which the Spaniards responded with artillery and rifle volleys. They drove the enemy off after half an hour's fighting.

The Spanish troops are fortifying Nador and Zeluan. Block houses will be erected, guns of large calibre installed, and a railroad built between the two towns.

Gen. Marina publishes an order threatening to punish as sedition any acts tending to create disorder or insubordination in the army.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Alejandro Leroux, member of the Spanish Chamber of Deputies and leader of the Barcelona Republicans, who is now returning to Spain for the opening of the Cortes after two years spent in exile because of his bitter denunciation of the Government, declared in an interview in Paris to-day that all the Liberal elements in Spain were concentrating and that a revolution was not only possible, but necessary and easy. Leroux said King Alfonso was weak and without prestige, except with the army, and that the monarchy was irretrievably doomed.

He said that although Ferrer was not directly responsible for the rioting in Barcelona last July, he was convinced that he would be condemned to be shot, as was Garcia, because the Clerical reaction had the upper hand and was determined to put an end to secular education. The only way to save Ferrer was through international agitation in favor of a public trial.

The French Socialists are calling meetings throughout the republic to protest against the Spanish repression. The police to-day broke up a gathering of Social-Revolutionists who had assembled in front of the Spanish Embassy to protest against the trial of Ferrer by court-martial. Subsequently the manifestants paraded along the boulevards carrying banners inscribed with the words, "The Monks Want the Head of Ferrer."

The Spanish Ambassador to France, the Marquis del Muni, has again formally assured Foreign Minister Pichon that Spain has no intention of departing from her original programme regarding Morocco, as communicated to the powers.

The Temps deprecates Gen d'Adame's utterances, as published in the Matin this morning, and in general his harsh criticism of Spain in her Moroccan campaign. The Temps contends that it is unjust to charge Spain with harboring designs of conquest after reiterated assurances that the operations in Africa will be confined to the punishment of the tribes and the pacification of the country.

The Temps considers that Spain is doing, within the sphere of influence accorded by the Algeciras act, only what France did in the Chaouia region.

The Liberté, on the other hand, boldly declares that if it is a game of grab France should immediately take Teza.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The reports current on the Continent that Great Britain is supporting Spain in a scheme for the aggrandizement of Spanish possessions at the expense of Morocco were declared at the Foreign Office to-day to be without foundation. Foreign Office officials said they had no reason to believe that the Spanish Government contemplated the occupation of Tetuan or any other considerable portion of Moorish territory or of otherwise acting contrary to treaty obligations.

CHINESE LOAN IN NEW HANDS.

Negotiations Transferred to Postal Board Following Death of Chang.

PEKING, Oct. 7.—An imperial edict issued to-day refers the railway loan negotiations, which had been in the hands of Chang-Chih-Tung, to the Board of Posts and Communications.

The late councilor, in a valedictory memorial, refers to the fact that the negotiations for the foreign loan of $30,000,000 had not been completed as a very acute personal mortification.

Both to Wed for the Third Time.

Among those who received licenses to marry at the City Hall yesterday were Francis C. Ursbruck of 174 West 146th Street, an engineer, and Mrs. Adelaide E. Browne, of 2237 Seventh Avenue. In each case it was the third marriage and both the bride and bridegroom answered the question about former partners in the same words, "One dead, one divorced." Mr. Ursbruck obtained his divorce from Margaret Ursbruck in Philadelphia as long ago as 1880. His bride put away Joseph W. Cash in South Dakota on Jan. 1, 1893.

STATE BAR INQUIRY ENDED.

Committee Cannot Muster a Majority to Pass on Judicial Nominees.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 7.—When the meeting of the committee of the State Bar Association, appointed to pass upon the fitness of judicial nominees, was called to order here to-day only ten of the twenty-seven members were present. The ten were in session four hours and then adjourned, without having taken definite action. Although the Bar Association at its last annual meeting amended its constitution to provide for the appointment of the committee to pass upon judicial nominees, nothing of this kind will be done this year.

The committee is composed of three members from each of the nine judicial districts. It held its first meeting in New York Sept. 25, with only nine members present.

The effort to have the association oppose the re-election of Supreme Court Justice Scripture in the Fifth District failed. Mr. Kellogg of Watertown, a member of the committee, made a report, in which he referred to acts of Justice Scripture which, he said, in his opinion, would warrant the committee in opposing the re-election of the Justice. His report dealt with alleged excessive costs and commissions granted.

According to Richard L. Hand, Chairman of the committee, it was felt that there was too much doubt of the right of the ten members present at to-day's meeting to act in a representative capacity. It was felt that there would be no justification for a minority of the committee to act as a quorum.

Because of the small attendance at both meetings of the committee it was decided that no other meeting would be called.

In a letter to the members of the association, President Adelbert Moot said it was the duty of the committee "as far as possible to prevent the nomination, election, or appointment of unfit or incompetent persons to judicial office in this State; to aid in securing fit and competent judicial officers; to condemn unfit selections when made."

"This important addition to our fundamental law was made," the letter reads, "because where any political party becomes so strong in any district, city, or county that a nomination is generally followed by election, improper personal and political considerations have sometimes resulted in political organizations, instead of personal fitness, furnishing the successful candidate. The feeling among all true lawyers is that our institutions cannot endure unless we maintain an able, independent and pure judicial body to determine legal questions without fear or favor, whether the litigant be the State, some city or town, some wealthy corporation, or some humble workingman, and it is this feeling, and the political abuses mentioned, that gave rise to our committee upon judicial nominations.

"I believe this committee will not lightly condemn any one; that it will not do so without learning what can be said in his favor; but that it has the courage to condemn where it should condemn. Especially should we be cautious about condemning any Judge who is a candidate for re-election, because our Judges are in positions where it is easy for interested persons to criticize them, and difficult for them to defend themselves; also because independent, fearless Judges often make powerful enemies in the proper discharge of their duties, and, therefore, we should be quick to defend them from unjust aspersions."

The ten members who were present to-day were Robert Grier Monroe, from the First District; James McKeen, Second District; J. Newton Fiero and Marcus T. Hun, Third District; Richard L. Hand, Ledyard P. Hale, and Jeremiah Keck, Fourth District; Virgil K. Kellogg and W. C. Prescott, Fifth District, and Pliny T. Sexton of the Seventh District.

YOUNG TAFT LOSES ELECTION.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 7.—In the election of the Senior Council at Yale the quartet chosen were Frederick Murphy of Westboro, Mass.; Stephen Clement, Buffalo; Carleton Jewett, Buffalo, and Edward Coy, New Haven.

Murphy, who is thus pronounced the most popular member of his class, is working his way through Yale. He is a nephew of Mike Murphy, the Yale and Pennsylvania trainer. He was Captain of the baseball nine last year, and has played football for two seasons.

In the preliminary ballot to choose eight members Murphy and Robert Alphons Taft, son of the President, were tied, but in the final ballot Taft failed of election. Coy is Captain of the football team, and the others are leaders in college social matters.

To-morrow and Monday are the two last days of registration. If you fail to register you cannot vote at the election on Nov. 2. The registration places open at 7 A. M. and close at 10 P. M. A full list of registration places in Manhattan and the Bronx is printed elsewhere in THE TIMES to-day. Register to-morrow.

DROWNED IN JAMAICA BAY.

Family Suspects Thomas P. Lally May Have Been Murdered.

The body of Thomas P. Lally, a wealthy real estate operator, of Morris Park, L. I., was found floating in Jamaica Bay at Rockaway Park, early yesterday morning. There were no marks upon the body, and the money in the pockets and a valuable diamond stud and gold watch were undisturbed.

Yet there is suspicion that Lally did not meet his death either by suicide or accident. His son left him Wednesday afternoon and knows of his movements up to 4 o'clock of that day, after which he has been unable to learn anything regarding what his father did or where he went.

About 6 o'clock yesterday morning Peter Murphy, a policeman connected with the Rockaway Beach Precinct, found Lally's body floating at the foot of Holland Avenue, Rockaway Park. The body was fully dressed and bore no marks of violence, nor had anything in the pockets or upon the clothing been disturbed.

The only theory upon which Joseph Lally, a son of the dead man, could base a suspicion that his father had met with foul play was that some one of the many who owed him large sums of money might have been unable to meet some obligation soon coming due and took that means to prevent a demand for the money.

GIRL RUN DOWN BY A CAR.

Confused by the Din of Traffic, She Steps in Front of It.

Confused by the noise of the elevated, surface cars, and street traffic, Miss Eniss Mally, 16 years old, of San Francisco, visiting New York for the first time, walked in front of a south-bound Columbus Avenue car at Eighty-fourth Street last night, shortly after 6 o'clock. She was knocked down and dragged some distance, here face and arms being badly lacerated. An ambulance was called and the girl taken to the J. Hood Wright Hospital, where it was said the chances for her recovery were good.

It is said that Miss Mally, who was boarding at 56 West Eighty-fourth Street, crossed the avenue to the Post Office and that in returning was looking in the opposite direction to that of the approaching car. The injured girl was carried first to a near-by drug store and attended by Dr. J. S. Hopkins. He directed that she be sent to the hospital.

$10,000 TO AN OLD SERVANT.

T. B. Kerr Also Leaves $4,000 to Six Others—$160,000 to Family.

By the will of Thomas Barber Kerr of of 44 West Fifty-sixth Street, distiller and a Director of the Pacific Bank, who died last Monday, bequests o over $160,000 are made, $10,000 going to Mary Keegan, "an old and faithful servant." Mr. Kerr also directed that any other servant in his employ or ten years prior to his death should receive $1,000, and those with him for five years $500 each. It was said last night that there were two who would receive $1,000, and four $500 each.

His wife, Serena Kerr, gets the residence and one-fourth of the net value of the estate. His son, Robert B. Kerr, receives $50,000, and $10,000 goes to Katherine Kerr, a granddaughter, in trust until she is 21. Thomas B. and Fred M. Kerr, other grandchildren, receive each $40,000 in trust until they reach the age of 35. A nephew, Charles J. Kerr, gets $10,000, and a cousin, William K. Kerr, receives $5,000. The residue is divided equally between his three sons, Robert B., Thomas H., and Lewis S. Kerr.

COL. HEISTAND SENT TO THE PHILIPPINES

Adjutant General, Who Has Made a Name Here, Will Have the Same Post in the East.

HIS ADVENTUROUS CAREER

Senior Colonel in the Army, He Has Seen Service in All Parts of the World.

Col. H. O. S. Heistand, U. S. A., Adjutant General of the Department of the East, was ordered to the Philippines yesterday as Adjutant General there. Col. Heistand will sail from San Francisco on Dec. 5 and will assume his duties with the Philippine Division about Christmas, succeeding Col. James T. Kerr, who has been ordered home for duty. Col. Heistand is now at the head of his grade in the army.

Col. Heistand, when he severs his connection with the Governors Island headquarters, will have been on duty continuously in New York for almost six years, becoming in that time one of the most popular army officers in this part of the country, both officially and socially. He came to New York when Gen. Wade was in command of the department, and has served under four department commanders, Gens. Wade, Corbin, Grant, and Wood.

Few officers in the army have had a more interesting career than Col. Heistand. He was graduated from West Point in 1878 and for the next fourteen years served as an officer of the line, serving for most of that time in the Far West, where he participated in many Indian campaigns. He became one of the best-informed officers in the service on affairs pertaining to the Indians. His wife, who was with him in those stormy days, is now a well-known writer of Indian stories.

In the summer of 1892 Col. Heistand received the commission that resulted in his forming what is perhaps the most prized friendship of his entire career—that of the late President William McKinley. Mr. McKinley was at that time Governor of Ohio, and Col. Heistand was detailed to duty with the Ohio National Guard, staying at Columbus in that capacity for the four years that Mr. McKinley was Governor of the State.

When Mr. McKinley was nominated for President in 1896 Col. Heistand obtained leave of absence for ten months and was confidential secretary to Mr. McKinley in his campaign for the Presidency. He continued to act in that capacity until after Mr. McKinley's inauguration as President in March, 1897, when he was detailed to special duty in the office of the Secretary of War as aide to the President.

In September, 1897, Col. Heistand began his career in the Adjutant General's Department, but continued as aid to the President until the outbreak of the Spanish war, when, in order to effect the organization and equipment of the Second Army Corps, he was made its Adjutant General. In 1899 Col. Heistand was ordered to Paris as aid to the Commissioner General to the Paris Exposition, and also as acting Military Attaché to the United States Embassy in Paris, under Gen. Horace Porter.

Returning to the United States in 1900, Col. Heistand was ordered to the Philippines, and soon after his arrival there, on the outbreak of the Boxer troubles in China, served as Adjutant General of the American forces, under Maj. Gen. Chaffee, in the International march to the relief of the legations in Peking. After the Boxer troubles were settled he returned to the Philippines as Adjutant General of the Department of Luzon, and later as Adjutant General of the Philippines Division.

In January, 1904, he came to Governors Island as Adjutant General of the Atlantic Division, now the Department of the East.

In his stay in New York Col. Heistand has represented the army many times at notable dinners and other social functions. He has written articles on the army, his article on the "Army as a Career," that appeared in THE NEW YORK TIMES last year being pronounced by army officers one of the ablest and most comprehensive articles on that subject ever written by an army officer.

"There is no more desirable post in the army than Governors Island," said Col. Heistand yesterday, "but I must say that I am glad to get a chance to serve again in the Far East. I leave hundreds of good friends behind who have done much to make my stay pleasant, and I shall always look back on this assignment as one of the pleasantest in my career."

WOULD DIVIDE PHILIPPINES.

Col. Hoyt Says Southern Group Should Be Made Naval Base.

SEATTLE, Oct. 7.—Col. Ralph W. Hoyt, former commanding officer of the Department of Mindanao, has tendered his resignation as Civil Governor of Moro Province and has sent his final report to Washington. Col. Hoyt has just returned with his regiment and is now commandant at Fort Lawton.

In his report Col. Hoyt urges that the attention of the higher authorities be invited to the great difference in conditions in Moro Province, as compared with the rest of the Philippine Archipelago, and that Congress enact such laws as will effect a permanent separation of the southern islands, including Mindanao, the Sulu Archipelago, and Palawan, from the rest of the Philippine Archipelago. Col. Hoyt said to-day:

"The southern group of islands should be declared territory of the United States, not a colony, to be occupied as a naval base. It should have a civil military government similar to the present government in Moro Province, with a policy so plainly expressed that it would settle any question of independence or political agitation for annexation to the northern group."

FOUR NEW BATTLESHIPS?

Tentative Naval Programme Includes These Items, It Is Understood.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, Oct. 7.—It is understood the programme for additional ships for the navy which has resulted from the meetings of the Navy General Board and will be submitted to Secretary Meyer includes four battleships, submarines, destroyers, colliers, armored cruisers, and other craft.

Naval officers are hoping that the programme will include also two large repair ships for the fleet on both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts.

OLIVER NOT THE DONOR.

Senator Says He Didn't Give $250,000 to Pittsburg Teachers.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 7.—Senator Oliver authorizes a denial of the widely circulated statement that he was the donor of $250,000 to a pension fund for teachers of Pittsburg, the gift of which was announced last week.

He says he made no gift to this fund, and did not know that any gift was even contemplated. He says he has no knowledge of who the anonymous donor is.

THE ARROW SALE.

More interesting week by week—because more people are interested, more energy and enthusiasm are excited in the plans and execution of this weekly event in quality bargains. READ EVERY ITEM; every one represents a conscientious effort to offer an unusual bargain. There's out-of-the-ordinary value to be found in each one; economy was never so easy to exercise.

300 of These Handsome Three-Piece Broadcloth Suits in an Arrow Day Sale at $19.75

When we say $25 value, we do not mean "perhaps they would sell for $25," or "some stores would ask $25." They were made for regular $25 selling in our own stocks, and at that price we think they are $5 better than you can do in everyday shopping; and the stunning design and workmanship are of such character that we are proud to have them on sale in New York's finest retail show rooms—at Greenhut's.

The reasons why we are offering such a splendid suit at this price are:

Because they will extend the reputation of this store.

Because the broadcloth is so good.

Because the model is new and smart.

Because the workmanship is exemplary.

Because it is a wonderful value.

Because it is an Arrow Day Sale.

As illustrated, made with long coat, on the slightly fitted figure lines. The dress is simple, but very chic and becoming. A new button trimming is a feature. Full pleated skirt effect, fitting closely over the hips. Colors black, smoke, raisin, navy, cadet, brown and green. Arrow Day only $19.75

$30.00 FOR $16.98

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8TH, I shall make one of the most important offers I have made this season. I present here a RIVERSIDE Waltham Watch, and there is no man, woman or child in the United States that is not familiar with it, as the Watch Trust has spent millions advertising it. It is their pet. Walk into any jewelry store in the United States and they will charge you $25 for the works alone. This is the least they can charge you, as they have an ironclad agreement with the Trust not to go below that price. With the case complete they would charge you anywhere from $30.00 to $40.00. My offer for the above date is $16.98 each for the complete watch. I have 80 of them in stock for sale. They are timed, regulated and ready for the pocket. There are none for dealers, messengers or mail orders.

FREE On the above date I will present FREE to every purchaser a Peraglie Patent Watch Protector. It prevents the watch from being stolen from the pocket. This in a sense is almost as valuable as the watch itself.

BREAK STOPS CURTISS IN ST. LOUIS FLIGHT

Quarter of Mile Best Showing of Rheims Cup Winner in Three Trials.

FARMAN BIPLANE WON'T FLY

Ozmont's Efforts to Leave Ground Fruitless—Dr. Cook to Take Part in To-day's Pageant.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 7.—Glenn H. Curtiss, who won the international cup in the aviation contests at Rheims, France, made three aeroplane flights here to-day. One was more than a quarter of a mile and the shortest was about 220 yards. Curtiss's last performance of the day was cut short by the failure of his engine when he was about twenty-five feet from the ground. The machine glided to an irregular landing place and a rudder guy line snapped. Curtiss said the machine would be ready for service to-morrow.

Curtiss used a biplane with a twenty-five-horse-power motor. Few people witnessed the first two flights, for the aviators went up shortly after daybreak when the morning mist was still undispelled. A stiff wind this afternon delayed the last flight until dusk. Four hundred thousand people had waited for hours in Forest Park to see the performance.

George Francois Ozmont, who is here with the Farman biplane which won the endurance prize at Rheims, attempted three times at dusk to satisfy the crowd that he could fly. He circled the field several times, but not fast enough to enable him to leave the ground.

A monoplane built on the lines of Lathan's machine by U. A. Robinson of St. Louis was also brought out, but the motor failed to develop sufficient power, and no attempt was made to go into the air.

Roy Knabenshue, Lincoln Beachey, and Thomas Baldwin gave demonstrations in dirigibles. The last made an extended flight when motor trouble forced him to land in the crowd. His second flight, after repairs had been made, was greeted with great applause.

Knabenshue, however, was the favorite with the crowd. He and Beachey mounted simultaneously and flew about two miles side by side. Knabenshue left Beachey's airship in the rear when the latter's motor became overheated. Knabenshue then swept out over the park in a great circle amid cheers.

Curtiss and Ozmont will make flights to-morrow, and it is expected Robinson will make another trial.

The crowd which came to see the flights was the greatest the street car company has ever carried to Forest Park since the World's Fair. The space allotted to the centennial week visitors was densely packed, and Art Hill was black with spectators.

The ball of nations drew thousands of spectators to the Coliseum to-night. An industrial parade was the feature of the day's programme. It was three miles long and told of the progress of St. Louis.

The educational, historical, and military pageant to-morrow will include Dr. Frederick A. Cook, polar explorer, in a historic coach.

ALL BALLOONS SAFELY LANDED.

St. Louis No. 3, Von Phul, Pilot, Wins Race and Lahm Cup.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 7.—Officials of the Aero Club of St. Louis were busy to-day preparing the official result of the two balloon races which started here Monday. The unofficial results gave the honors of the chief event to the St. Louis No. 3, S. L. Von Phul, pilot, and the New York, C. E. Harmon, pilot. The former won the first prize for distance, besides lifting the Lahm Cup from Capt. Chandler of the United States Army, and the latter took endurance prizes and established a new American height record of 24,200 feet.

The latest returns of the contest follow:

St. Louis III., Von Phul and O'Reilly, Mille Lacs, Minn., 550 miles, 40 hours, 40 minutes.

Indiana, Magill and Shauer, Albany, Minn., 525 miles, 40 hours and 35 minutes.

Centennial Honeywell and Tolland, at Silas, Ala., 485 miles.

Cleveland, Wade and Morgan, Alexander City, Ala., 452 miles, 38 hours, 15 minutes.

University, Berry and Fox, Mooresville, Mo., 195 miles, 22 hours, 15 minutes.

New York, Harmon and Post, Edna, Mo., 145 miles, 48 hours, 25 minutes.

Pommery, Arnold and Taylor, Knobel, Ark., 160 miles, 28 hours, 20 minutes.

Hoosier, (non-contestant), Crume and Custer, Russellville, Mo., 169 miles, 21 hours, 30 minutes.

WRIGHT INSTRUCTS OFFICERS.

Explains Aeroplane at College Park, but Makes No Flights.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 7.—No flight was attempted to-day by Wilbur Wright, who is instructing the officers of the Signal Corps in the practical use of the Wright aeroplane.

The entire day was spent by Mr. Wright in tinkering with the machine and explaining its manipulation to the student officers. The starting derrick was erected, but the monorail was not placed in correct position for a flight. No time has been set for the first flight.

JUVISY AIRSHIP MEET OPENS.

Several Well-Known Aviators Will Take Part in Contests.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—The Grande Quinzaine d'Aviation de Paris (Grand Aviation Fortnight) opened to-day under favorable auspices at Port Aviation, near Juvisy. It is organized on the same model as the aviation week recently held at Rheims.

Several kinds of aeroplanes are to take part in the races. They include Blériot monoplanes, Voisin biplanes, a Wright biplane, and a Breguet double monoplane. The entries comprise a number of well-known aviators, including Léon Delagrange, Henry Fournier, Voisin, Count de Lambert, Jacquelin, Louis Breguet, Paulhan, Henry Rougier, and Hubert Latham.

Up to the hour of opening thirty-four entries had been received, but several late entries have since come in, and it is believed that about forty diffrent machines will participate in the contests.

FRANKFORT, Germany, Oct. 7.—Rougier declares that in his final aeroplane flight yesterday afternoon he reached an altitude of 900 feet. No official measurement was made.

STRAUS GIVES AID IN CASSEL.

Presents Home Pasteurizers to Town Stricken with Typhoid Epidemic.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CASSEL, Prussia, Oct. 7.—Nathan Straus of New York spent the day here conferring with the Burgomaster and other municipal authorities in connection with the installation of 200 home milk pasteurizers which he recently presented to the city. The presentation was the result of an outbreak of typhoid fever in Cassel, which was traced to infected milk.

By arrangement with the local authorities the Burgomaster of the town of Sandhausen, where one of the Straus pasturizing plants has been in operation for some time, has come to Cassel with his daughter for the purpose of instructing those who are to use the home pasteurizers.

Mr. Straus sails from Bremen on Saturday on the Prince Friedrich Wilhelm.

CANADA TO SPEND $20,000,000.

Naval Plans Provide for Cruisers, Torpedo Boats, and Destroyers.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—It is understood that the Canadian Government's bill respecting naval defence, to be brought before the coming session of Parliament, will provide for a total capital expenditure of about $20,000,000 during the next six or seven years, the yearly appropriation being about $3,000,000.

Although details are not yet worked out, present plans contemplate a fleet of a dozen war vessels, including cruisers, torpedo boats and destroyers. Drydocks and a Canadian ship-building plant capable of building and repairing the largest class of war vessels are also contemplated.

It is stated that three vessels of the new fleet will be placed on the Pacific Coast and nine on the Atlantic.

T. P. O'CONNOR COMING.

Will Appeal for Funds to Carry on Fight for Home Rule.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—T. P. O'Connor, M. P., will sail soon for the United States at the request of John E. Redmond, the Irish leader, to explain the political situation here to the supporters of the Irish cause in America and to appeal for funds to carry on the struggle for home rule.

The Nationalists regard the approaching general elections as one of the most critical periods in their history, and the full power of their organization will be utilized in helping the Liberals deprive the House of Lords of the power of veto, which, they claim, is the sole remaining obstacle to home rule.

BENSON FOUND GUILTY.

Evidence in London Showed Brooklyn Man Swindled 18,500 Persons.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Harry Benson of Brooklyn, whose real name is Bebro, has been found guilty by the Criminal Court and sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

The charges against him were of fraud in connection with the bankrupt Feltham's Bank, which he founded.

The evidence showed that he had defrauded more than 500 persons by his operations through the bank, and that he had swindled 18,000 other persons by means of the International Securities Corporation.

BARS LORD MAYOR'S SHOW.

Incoming Official Abandons Picturesque Old-Fashioned Pageantry.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The old-fashioned Lord Mayor's show, which for a great many years has been one of the most picturesque functions to be witnessed in England, will be abandoned this year by the new Lord Mayor-elect, Sir John Knill.

He proposes to have a military and naval display on the occasion of his assumption of office, and 5,000 volunteers from both branches of the service will parade in his procession.

Only the gilded chariots of the Lord Mayor and the Sheriffs will remain of the old-time pageantry.

BELGRADE IN MOURNING.

Thus Marks Anniversary of Austria's Annexation of Balkan Provinces.

BELGRADE, Servia, Oct. 7.—All the shops of Belgrade were closed to-day and the public buildings of the city were draped in black to mark the first anniversary of the annexation of the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary.

Servian students paraded the streets shouting "Down with Austria."

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 7.—The Foreign Ministry has announced the settlement of the dispute at Harbin between the German Consul there and the Russian authorities over the refusal of the proprietor of a German brewery to pay certain taxes. Proceedings have been begun against German subjects for insulting Russian officials.

BOGOTA, Oct. 7.—The Government is insisting upon the adoption of measures restricting the liberties of the press in Colombia. Newspaper proprietors have protested vigorously, and the dispute promises to be a bitter one.

Bleriot's Monoplane on View.

The recent flights of the various airships and the aeroplanes have been watched with a great deal of interst by the public, and the most recent incident which has aroused the interest of the public is the recent importation from Paris of an exact duplicate of Bleriot's monoplane. The original machine is the one that made the sensational flight across the English Channel on the 25th of last July. Ralph Saulnier, the aviator, arrived a few days ahead of the machine, which is now in the salesrooms of the Twentieth Century Automobile Company, 1,615 Broadway, corner of Forty-ninth Street. Mr. Bleriot, the famous aviator, also used this same model of a machine in his famous flight of thirty miles through the country, thereby winning Le Prix de Voyage of $3,500.

Exceptional opportunity to view this latest scientific invention is now offered to the public by the Twentieth Century Automobile Company, which has secured this exhibit and opened its doors to the public free of charge. Anybody who is interested in aeronautics in any way is invited to call at its salesrooms at any time.

To-morrow and Monday are the two last days of registration. If you fail to register you cannot vote at the election on Nov. 2. The registration places open at 7 A. M. and close at 10 P. M. A full list of registration places in Manhattan and the Bronx is printed elsewhere in THE TIMES to-day. Register to-morrow.

MIX TELLS OF TRIP IN BLINDING FOG

Balloon Scraped Roofs of Houses in the Winning Flight for Bennett Cup.

TERRIFYING DROP IN ALPS

All Ballast and Provisions Were Thrown Overboard to Keep Afloat Till Latest Possible Moment.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Edgar W. Mix of Columbus, Ohio, the winner of the international balloon race for the Gordon Bennett trophy, which started from Zurich Sunday, has sent from Warsaw the following account of his voyage:

"Leaving Zurich Sunday at 3:57 P. M., we were able to recognize our route only as far as Constance. Thence to the finish the weather was so thick that direction could be determined only by compass. During Sunday night the balloon, in a drenching rain, sometimes seemed to be at a complete standstill. We ascended and descended in search of better currents of air, without appreciable results. By 4 o'clock in the morning half of our ballast had been used.

"The passage of the Bavarian Alps through rain and clouds was thrilling. Once we swooped down the mountain side with frightful velocity, plunging into a chasm of fog which seemed bottomless. It was as if the earth had opened to swallow us up. The basket several times crashed through the tree tops.

"After two hours we emerged from the valley and got a northeasterly slant of wind. When clear of the mountains we moved at a lively rate. The guide rope dragged over farmhouses, breaking tiles and chimneys. The peasants rushed out with cries and imprecations.

"We then found that the guide rope had become unraveled and hoisted it into the basket for repairs, which were most difficult, as we were at the same time working hard with the blower to prevent the balloon from rising. A few hours later we recognized several villages and then the town of Konigstadt. We sighted a balloon to the eastward with peasants hanging on to the guide rope.

"After passing over Konigstadt, which cost three sacks of ballast, we rose through the clouds to an altitude of 4,600 meters, (about 15,000 feet,) and saw above the clouds a balloon to the north, about 100 meters higher.

"We began to descend at 1:40 P. M., emerging from the clouds, about 460 meters above the town of Waldenburg, and were obliged to jettison eleven sacks of ballast and half of our provisions to keep clear of the roofs, but as it was, the guide rope dragged over the wires of the fortress and railroad station, creating consternation among the yelling population.

"We rose again to 2,800 meters near Breslau, throwing overboard the life savers, mattresses, and the remainder of our provisions. Gradually we continued to descend after reaching that altitude, until 6 o'clock in the evening. With good equilibrium we managed to keep afloat until 9 o'clock Tuesday morning without expenditure of ballast, of which, as a matter of fact, there was not an ounce left.

"The balloon landed, and became wedged between pine trees in the forest of Gutova. We waited until 6:30 o'clock before deflating, and then searched for help. We found peasants, one of whom had been in America, and spoke a little English. With their aid we loaded the balloon on carts.

"While this was in progress a forest guard wantonly killed one of the peasant's dogs, arousing great indignation. We accompanied the owner to the proprietor of the estate to lodge a complaint, and found a peasant woman speaking a little French, who registered an entry of our landing in the logbook. While the peasants were conveying the balloon to Ostrolenka the woman gave us a primitive meal of potatoes and water.

"On our arrival at Ostrolenka we were stopped by the police, who took us, together with the balloon, to the station, where we remained until instructions were received from St. Petersburg for our release. We were treated excellently."

"DRYS" INVADE WALL STREET.

Orators on a Red Wagon Speak In Favor of Prohibition.

Prohibition invaded Wall Street yesterday and for an hour the street idlers listened to anti-rum arguments hurled by an Illinois legislator fresh from the campaign in Chicago, whose efforts were supplemented by local advocates of prohibition. There were a Brooklyn clergyman and a lawyer from the heart of the financial district.

The orators arrived on an innocent-looking red truck which drew up in front of the Stock Exchange on the spot where the noonday evangelical meetings have been held since the City Bank dispossessed the Rev. Dr. Wilkinson from the old Custom House steps.

It wasn't until Robert H. McCausland, leader of the invaders, raised a big banner with the words "Prohibition Party" on the truck and proceeded to drape its sides with bunting that the street realized that it was to have a political meeting and began to gather.

Chairman McCausland introduced Oliver W. Stewart, a member of the Illinois Legislature, who launched immediately into the arguments which have been getting attention in Chicago. He spoke in a voice of strong carrying power and had no difficulty in holding the audience which the Suffragettes were obliged to give up as hopeless. Following him the Rev. Joseph Keevil of the Church of the Disciples of Brooklyn and Alfred Manierre, a lawyer at 31 Nassau Street, took up the arguments. They got close attention, too.

HORSE SHOW CUP STOLEN.

The Arrowhead Inn Challenge Trophy Missing—A Reward Offered.

The Arrowhead Inn Challenge Cup, which was presented last year to the National Horse Show Association by Ben Riley, has been stolen and he is advertising for its return in the Lost and Found column of to-day's TIMES. He is offering a $250 reward if it is sent back in six days. Mr. Riley said last night that the cup, which has to be won twice to become the property of the competitor, was kept in a showcase at the inn. Sometime between 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening and noon yesterday it was stolen.

The trophy was offered for a road race between coaches and fours from the inn at 177th Street and Washington Park to Madison Square Garden. Last November Morris E. Howlett captured the prize, defeating Alfred G. Vanderbilt's team.

The cup cost Mr. Riley $700, the silver along being worth $375. He said last night that his offer of a $250 reward only held good for six days. Unless he can recover the cup in that time he will order a new one to be made.

RIDING TEST FOR MILITIA.

Massachusetts Officers Must Meet Requirements Imposed on Army Men.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Inspector General Samuel D. Parker of the State Militia announced to-day that eight officers of his department will take a ninety-mile riding test similar to that required of regular army officers.

The start will be made from this city on Nov. 6, and thirty miles will be covered the first day, with the finish at the State Headquarters, at Framingham. The test will occupy four days.

FAREWELL DINNER TO THE ADMIRALS

MAYOR PRAISES THE KAISER

Calls Him the Supreme War Lord and Preserver of Peace—Guests of European Societies Here.

The last of the dinners in connection with the Hudson-Fulton Celebration was given last night at the Waldorf-Astoria by the German, Austro-Hungarian, and Swiss societies in New York to the representatives sent over by the Governments of their respective countries. As the German and British Admirals walked into the big dining hall the trumpeters from the flagshp Victoria Louise sounded a fanfare and the marine band followed with the Knights' March, from Lohengrin.

Herman Ridder was toastmaster, and on his right sat Grand Admiral von Koester, Mayor McClellan, British Consul General W. C. Bennett, and Seth Low. On the left were Fleet Admiral Sir Edward Seymour, Baron Louis Abrozy, Austrian-Hungarian Chargé d'Affaires; Rear Admiral F. T. Hamilton, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, Lloyd B. Sanderson, Vice President of the St. George's Society, and Controller Metz.

After the toast to the President of the United States had been given Mayor McClellan rose to propose the toast to representatives of the foreign Governments present. This he did in German. In his speech the Mayor said:

"I am of the almost numberless admirers of the German Emperor who believe that he is one of the truly great men of our period. He is the supreme war lord of the German Empire, but, far more than that, during his reign of twenty-one years he has been the most potent force for the preservation of European peace. We people of the United States have often been the recipients of his goodwill and friendship, but no thought of his has been more graceful, or more courteous than that which prompted him to send to this celebration as his representative Grossadmiral von Koester."

Mayor McClellan was followed by Grand Admiral von Koester. He was greeted by cheers and shouts of "Hoch!" "Hoch!" "Hoch!" After referring to the Hudson festivities as "a celebration of friendship such as has never before been arranged with similar success and splendor by any one city," and speaking of Admiral Sir Edward Seymour as the man "to whom we German Navy officers refer with pride as a friend of our navy," Admiral von Koester said in German:

"My visit here in New York has left a deep impression on me, and I realize in a profound way the marvelous progress which this mighty emporium has made since my former visit, thirty-five years ago. Your methods of transportation are a model for the whole world, and you have also cultivated art and science with an equal thoroughness and completeness.

"The festivals of last week have proved that in spite of all your varied activity you can also engage successfully in works as thoroughly artistic and uncommercial in nature as this celebration has been, and that your hospitality and kindness cannot be surpassed anywhere in the world."

Fleet Admiral Sir Edward Seymour, who was next called upon to reply to the toast of the visitors, paid a graceful compliment to Admiral von Koester when he said that he was proud to call him his friend, to which the latter responded by rising and bowing. Then the two Admirals grasped hands, while the cheers of the guests rang through the banquet hall. In speaking of former times, Sir Edward said that he had met and served with his friend, who was then Capt. von Koester, in China with the allied troops.

"When my flag Captain was dangerously wounded in action," said Admiral Seymour, "I asked Capt. von Koester if he would assist me, and if I was shot down to take over the command of the expedition. He supported me most loyally throughout the expedition, and could not have been more devoted if he had been an officer in the British Navy under my command."

In conclusion he said that neither he nor any of his officers ever dreamed that they would have such a reception as had been accorded to them in this country.

After a brief speech by Baron Ambrozy, who replied for the Austro-Hungarian Government, Seth Low said in part:

"No two nations can fight to-day without involving all the other nations of the world in the consequences of their struggle. We of the United States may be relied upon to do everything in our power to develop a world public opinion that will help to maintain the peace of the world. I feel very sure, for example, that the invitation from the German-Americans of New York to Admiral Seymour and Admiral Hamilton to be present at this dinner in honor of Admiral von Koester is no mere compliment. I believe that it represents the most sincere hope of the German-American population of the whole United States, that Germany and England and the United States may always live together on terms of constantly increasing amity and good will."

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford replied on behalf of the Hudson-Fulton Commission, and the closing speech was made by Dr. Paul Ritter, Swiss Minister to the United States.

FINANCIERS MEET ADMIRALS.

With Vice President Sherman, They Are Entertained at Luncheon.

The Chamber of Commerce put aside most of its business yesterday to do honor to Vice President Sherman and the Admirals and commanding officers of the visiting warships, whom the chamber entertained at luncheon.

A. Barton Hepburn, President of the Chase National Bank, introduced the visiting naval men, who, with Vice President Sherman, were welcomed by J. Edward Simmons, President of the chamber. In his speech President Simmons said:

"It must be acknowledged that Germany in the last eight years has made wonderful advances in commercial enterprises and is a great competitor of both England and the United States, but, irrespective of this competition and this commercial advancement, let me assure our German friends that no feeling of jealousy exists among the people of the United States, for we recognize the fact that in the great arenas of commerce we must keep near the band if we expect to keep step with the music.

"Therefore, Admiral von Koester, we extend to you the right hand of fellowship and we assure you that we esteem Germany and the other great powers of the world as coworkers and defenders, with us, of order, liberty, and civilization.

Admiral Le Pord of the French Navy, who was unable to be present, was represented by Capt. Huguet of the Liberté, and the Italian Navy was represented by the Captains of the Aetna and the Etruria. Admiral Schroeder represented the Atlantic fleet.

Vice President Sherman, who was introduced by President Simmons, echoed the sentiment of the President of the Chamber in referring to the rivalry of nations represented in the foreign fleets.

"Admirals," he said, "we must be rivals in commerce, and it is not to be regretted; it is a matter for rejoicing that we are rivals because healthy, honest, unbiased rivalry between the nations of the earth tends to upbuild and civilize the world; and the more the civilization and the commercial progress and the health and the education and the Christianity of each of the communities that make up the whole country are elevated the more the great mass is elevated.

"There is no country in the world which hails with greater delight every single step in the upward direction, be it large or small, be it east or west, south or north, anywhere under God's sun; there is no nation that hails with greater delight the advance and the progress of its fellows than this American Nation."

Admiral Sir Edward Seymour, expressing his appreciation of the reception the British Fleet has had in New York, referred to the gallant conduct of Capt. McCalla's American marines in the service of the naval contingent of the allies he commanded in the Boxer uprising in China.

"I feel that what took place in China," he said, "showed the homogenous character of the navies of the world. With reference to what your Chairman says in regard to our policing the seas, I have a strong feeling that to strengthen our ships does not mean that we are going to fight with each other, and that we wish to preserve the peace, and in doing so the commerce and the prosperity of the world."

The Chamber voted to adjourn until Oct. 14, so that next Thursday's meeting could be devoted entirely to the entertainment of the delegation from the Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade of Japan.

RECEPTION FOR DR. LOWELL.

Delegates from Many Schools Meet Harvard's New President.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 7.—Having participated in the induction into office of a new President of Harvard University, the representatives of the hundred institutions of higher education in this and other countries met in Sanders' Theatre to-day to be presented formally to the newly inaugurated President, Abbott Lawrence Lowell; the Governing Boards and Faculties of Harvard. The meeting was open to the undergraduates, alumni, and their friends, and brief addresses were made by representatives of the delegates.

A luncheon given to the alumni by the Harvard Club at the Colonial Club, a reception and luncheon to the delegates and members of Faculties by President and Mrs. Lowell in University Hall, followed by an afternoon tea at the Medical School in Boston, open to delegates, students, alumni, members of Faculties, and government, with their friends, were included in the afternoon programme.

The inauguration festivities were concluded to-night, when a dinner was given at the Harvard Union by the President and Fellows of Harvard in honor of the delegates of other universities, colleges, and learned societies.

MAJOR NOT THE WHOLE CORPS

Judge Advocate of Albany Burgesses Explains This, and About That Tour.

E. W. Waybright, Judge Advocate of the Albany Burgess Corps, objects to the statement that Major James Otis Woodward is the corps. Judge Advocate Waybright called at THE TIMES office last night to show the Burgess Corps list of Trustees. They include, besides Major Woodward, David Banks, President of a law publishing company; ex-Judge Franklin M. Danaher of Albany, James Ackroyd, a Utica banker; H. F. Williamson, manager of the carpet department in an Albany department store; C. E. Jenkins, a harnessmaker and leather merchant, and the Rev. P. H. Birdsall, rector of Christ Church, Albany.

The Judge Advocate of the corps also wished to make a statement regarding the European tour planned for the corps which never was carried out.

"It was a legitimately planned tour," he said, "and the only reason why it was not taken was that Major Woodward seriously injured his leg on the railroad and could not go, and the corps could hardly tour without its commanding officer. As to the insinuations of the tourist agent that the abandonment of the tour resulted in a loss to him, he took an option on the Arabic at his own risk, and his expenditures for advertising were rather for his benefit than for that of the corps."

MONTEFIORE HOME JUBILEE.

Institution Will Celebrate Its 25th Anniversary at the Astor.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Montefiore Home, a hospital for chronic invalids, will be celebrated on the evening of Oct. 26 in the new ballroom of the Hotel Astor. The Directors of the institution have arranged for a reception, followed by a musical programme and speeches by several men of prominence. A supper will be served. The musical programme has been arranged by Frank Damrosch, under the direction of B. J. Greenhut, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements for the celebration.

The Montefiore Home is one of the largest factors in the charitable work of the city. It started in an obscure way twenty-five years ago to take care of incurable patients who could get only temporary relief at the regular hospitals.

With seven patients and thirty beds the institution began operations in the frame building at Eighty-fourth Street and Avenue A. It now occupies the imposing building at Broadway and 138th Street and the country sanitarium at Bedford, and has facilities for 465 patients at both institutions.

Jacob H. Schiff is President of the home, and has contributed much to the success of the institution.

ACRITELLI HAS NO CASH.

In Supplementary Proceedings He Says His Salary Is Pledged in Advance

Coroner Peter P. Acritelli, who has been renominated for the same office by Tammany Hall, was examined in supplementary proceedings previous to trial before Justice Conlan in the City Court yesterday on a judgment obtained by Giovanni Sanfretello, a shoemaker of 206 West Ninety-first Street, for $241.41. In the examination it was shown that on July 14 Acritelli borrowed the money from Sanfretello, and gave him a demand note for the amount. On Aug. 14 the Italian demanded the money, but the Coroner told him to wait till after election day for it. Sanfretello then sued him in the Fifth District Court, and obtained a judgment last month.

J. E. Smith, counsel for Sanfretello, obtained an order to examine the Coroner. Acritelli testified yesterday that he had no bank account, and no money. He said that he had only been discharged in bankruptcy last month. When asked to account for his September salary, amounting to $450, the Coroner said that he gave $200 to Rocco Marasco of 57 East Houston Street, $50 to his stenographer, and $80 for two suits of clothes.

Counsel for Acritelli asked him if he had any interest in his October, November, and December pay. The Coroner answered that he had not, as he had borrowed $3,000 from Marasco, assigning his salary for the money, and giving as security fifteen notes of $200 each. He added that he had paid back $1,400 of the amount.

BEACONS TO FLASH FULTON 'GOOD-NIGHT'

Chain of Fires from Here to Troy to Signal "Good-Bye" Simultaneously To-morrow Night.

PRIVATE FIREWORKS ALSO

Miss Helen Gould, J. P. Morgan, J. D. Archbold, and Others to Give Fine Displays at Their River Homes.

In the name of President Taft Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, President of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission, will give the telegraphic signal at 9 o'clock to-morrow night, which will light a chain of beacon fires along the Hudson from Fort Wadsworth to Troy, more than 150 miles, signifying the celebration's "good night" and "good-bye" to all the communities on the Hudson from the head of navigation to the ocean. It was the hope of the commission that President Taft himself might give the final signal, but late yesterday afternoon President Woodford received this telegram from the President, who was then at El Portal, Cal.:

You are authorized in my name to light those fires in the established chain of signal fires on mountain peaks on the Hudson River from Fort Wadsworth to Troy that are within Federal jurisdiction. I greatly regret that I was not able to be present at this wonderful celebration, so full of significance as to the progress of our Nation, and I am glad to know my interest to participate in any way. W. H. TAFT.

The chain of lights will begin at Fort Hamilton, on the east side of the river, and at Fort Wadsworth, on the west, the fires being built on the stone piers in full view of vessels in the lower bay and in the harbor. The next fire above will be at Governors Island, where an extensive pyrotechnic display is promised by the commission. On Bedloe's Island, the Statue of Liberty will be illuminated in many colors by 200 lights of at least 100 candle power each.

The official signal light on Manhattan will be the great battery of twenty searchlights of 1,000,000,000 candle power at the foot of West 155th Street, their lights blended into a single beam of white light extending straight up into the sky. It is estimated that this light can be seen twenty-five or thirty miles from New York in any direction.

Other lights up the river immediately above this will be located on the property of C. K. G. Billings, in Fort Washington Park, and on the hills above Spuyten Duyvil.

A little further up the river there will be beacon fires on the properties of William C. Muschenheim, a member of the commission, and of Mr. Kruger. From these may be seen the fire at Hastings, and further up beacons will flame up at Dobbs Ferry and Irvington. In the stretch between Irvington and Tarrytown lights will be shown on elevations on the grounds of the Summer homes of Miss Helen M. Gould and John D. Archbold.

Hook Mountain, on the west side, will show a brilliant light, while across to the east side again there will be a fire at Ossining, on the grounds of Gen. D. H. McAlpin. The eye, turning again to the west, will sight a fire on High Top Mountain, then further up, on the lofty Dunderberg. Anthony's Nose, on the east side, will beam out redder perhaps than the owner of the feature this historic mountain commemorated would have the twentieth century public believe it really was, and there will be beacons also on Fort Hill at Garrison's, opposite West Point; at Highland Falls, Old Crow's Nest, Bull Hill, and at Storm King.

Signal fires for the upper Hudson will be provided by local committees of the commission at Fishkill, Poughkeepsie, Rhinebeck, Kingston, Tivoli, Saugerties, Catskill, Hudson, Albany, Troy, and Cohoes.

In addition to the signal fires there will be a large number of private and public displays. The public displays are expected to consist each of 12 tourbillions 24 colored bombs, 50 heavy colored lights, 2 magnesium lights, 20 assorted batteries, 50 exhibition rockets, 15 mines of serpents, a bouquet of 100 rockets, and 25 parachute and floating star-effect rockets.

The largest of the beacon fires will be made of prepared peat in pressed blocks, in the form of truncated cones, and built to burn steadily for several hours without smoke or sparks. Every precaution will be taken to prevent the spread of the fires. The largest cone will be about thirty feet high.

Private fireworks displays have been arranged for by Mr. Billings, Mr. Muschenheim, Mr. Kruger, Miss Helen Gould, Mr. Archbold, Gen. McAlpin, J. P. Morgan, and Col. John Jacob Astor, at their Summer homes.

Perhaps the best point from which to see the fires about the harbor will be the Battery Park, while Fort Washington and the hills about Spuyten Duyvil will afford the best vantage ground from which to see the lights of the upper part of the city.

FOREIGN SHIPS PREPARE TO GO.

French Squadron Sails To-day—Admiral Le Pord Thanks Our Citizens.

The French battleships, under command of Rear Admiral Jules L. M. Le Pord, will sail for France this morning, the first of the European ships to leave for home. To-morrow the British ships will sail, to be followed in a few days by the German and Italian cruisers. The Connecticut, Vermont, and Kansas, the only battleships of the Atlantic Fleet still in the Hudson, will also sail to-morrow.

It was "farewell day" on board the big French fighters yesterday, and it was said that at least 1,000 of New York's French citizens went on board the ships to bid the officers and men good-bye. Many of the officers of the American and other foreign ships in the Hudson also called to wish the Frenchmen a pleasant voyage home. During the day Admiral Le Pord issued this farewell word of thanks to the citizens of New York for the courtesies here shown to himself and his men.

French Flagship Justice,
New York, Oct. 7.

Before sailing for home to-morrow Admiral Le Pord, commanding the French battleship squadron, sent to New York in connection with the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, wishes to give expression to his warm thanks and hearty appreciation for the most hospitable and cordial welcome accorded to himself, to his officers, and sailors by the people of this great Empire City. He, as well as those under his command, has been so overwhelmed by kindness from every conceivable quarter that it has become a matter of impossibility to thank each one individually, and he desires therefore to avail himself of the courtesy of the newspapers to seize this opportunity of bidding to the people of New York "Merci, adieu, au revoir."

There was a report yesterday that there had been an explosion on the French flagship Justice, and that several men had been seriously injured. Investigation failed to discover any ground for the rumor. It was said on the Justice that there had been no accident, and that all the men on the ship were accounted for and in good health.

The British ships finished coaling yesterday. To-day the men will clean ship, and to-morrow the four armored cruisers, headed by the cruiser-battleship Inflexible, will sail for England. No confirmation was forthcoming yesterday of the report that on the way home the Inflexible, one of whose sister ships, the Indefatigable, developed on her trial a speed of twenty-eight knots an hour, will attempt to lower all warship records by a speedy trip home. The British sailors had their final shore leave last night.

To-night the bluejackets of the Connecticut are going to give a ball at Terrace Garden. It will be the good-bye of the Connecticut's men to their sweethearts and friends. The British sailors have been invited, but it is doubtful if any of them will be allowed ashore so soon before sailing. Some of the German and Italian sailors, however, are expected to attend.

NEW BOOK ON STREET TRAFFIC

The Author, W. P. Eno, Originated the Present System of Regulating It.

A book on the subject of "Street Traffic Regulation," dealing with the problem as it effects New York and written by William Phelps Eno, has just been issued by the Rider and Driver Publishing Company. Mr. Eno is the author of many articles, pamphlets, and addresses on street traffic regulation and municipal transportation, and he has long been regarded as an authority on the subject.

It is due largely to Mr. Eno's efforts that the handling of the street traffic of New York has reached its present satisfactory condition, and in his preface to his book he tells the difficulties he had to surmount to get the city officials stirred up so as to work necessary reforms.

The book is dedicated to the Police Traffic Squad, and besides containing all the traffic rules now in force, with photographs and diagrams, has an article on "How to Improve City Car Service."

PRIZE FOR NORMAL COLLEGE.

$1,000 Endowment in Honor of the Late Dr. Senner.

The Normal College announced the gift yesterday of a prize fund of $1,000 to be named in honor of the late Dr. Joseph H. Senner. The names of the donors are withheld for the present. The fund is to be invested by the college Trustees so as to yield approximately $40 a year. This revenue will be used as an annual prize in the German department for the best essay in German on a subject related to history or literature.

Dr. Senner was one of the most prominent German leaders in this country in the group with Carl Schurz, Oswald Ottendorfer, and Henry Villard. For many years he was editor of the Staats-Zeitung, and in the second Cleveland Administration was appointed United States Commissioner of Immigration. He was a graduate of the University of Vienna and a firm believer in higher education for women, and deeply interested in the Normal College.

PIRATES AND TIGERS IN WORLD'S BATTLE

Major League Champions Start Series for Greater Title To-day.

PITTSBURG 2-TO-1 FAVORITE

Mullin for Detroit and Adams for Home Club to Pitch Opening Contest—Record Crowd Expected.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Oct. 7.—Detroit, the American League champions, and Pittsburg, the winner of the National League pennant, will play here to-morrow the opening game of the series which will decide the baseball championship of the world for 1909. It will be Detroit's third attempt in as many years to win the greatest honors in organized baseball, as Hughey Jennings's champions have been defeated by the Chicago Nationals in the last two world's series. Pittsburg has not had an opportunity of contesting for the world's championship since 1903, when it won the National League pennant and was defeated by the Boston Americans in the big series.

The local weather forecaster has promised good weather conditions for to-morrow, and a record-breaking crowd at Forbes Field is certain. Every reserved seat of the 18,000 has been engaged, and thousands more of enthusiasts are expected to engage in the wild scramble for the other spaces in the immense amphitheatre. It is expected that 35,000 persons will see the first game. While the weather predictions for to-morrow are promising, the local expert has refused to give the same report for Saturday, as he says there is a storm heading this way.

Both teams are determined to win the opening game, as the winner of the first engagement in the last four world's series has captured the championship. As a result, both Managers Fred Clarke and Jennings will send the men they consider their strongest at present to do the pitching. Jennings said he would probably use George Mullin, his husky and reliable veteran, while Clarke is planning to use Charles Adams, the man who came from the Louisville American Association team at the beginning of this season and made a phenomenal record with Pittsburg.

Schmidt is scheduled to do the backstopping for Detroit, while Gibson is scheduled to go behind the bat for the National League champions.

Frank O'Loughlin of the American League and J. E. Johnstone of the National League will umpire to-morrow, while William Klem of the National League and William Evans of the American League are to officiate in Saturday's battle.

The Detroit team arrived here to-day in two sections—one coming from New York, where an exhibition game was played with the New York American League team yesterday, and the other came direct from Detroit. The party that came from Detroit was composed of Samuel Crawford, Tyrus Cobb, and George Mullin and their families.

Detroit put in two hours of practice at Forbes Field this afternoon, and Jennings gave his men a pretty hard work-out. He spent most of the time in making them bat and run the bases in earnest. It was a rather tired but confident group of Detroit players that wended their weary way to the Colonial Annex Hotel after the practice.

Manager Clarke and the Pittsburg team put in a strenuous morning at Forbes Field, and when the session was ended the local leader admitted he was perfectly satisfied with the condition of his team.

The regular line-up of both teams will be on the field to-morrow, and the team that loses will have few excuses to offer, as every man is in excellent condition. Jennings may place Davy Jones in left field in place of McIntyre, but Davy has been in enough games to be classed as a regular. Outside of this position there is no doubt concerning the personnel of the two teams for the opening game. The game to-morrow, as on Saturday, will start at 2 P. M. Eastern time.

Ticket scalping is notable by its absence this year, and only a few scattered sales of tickets at advanced prices have been reported. Chairman Garry Herrmann of the National Commission said that with the co-operation of the Pittsburg Club and the city authorities the commission had been able to reduce the scalping evil to a minimum.

The prevailing odds are 2 to 1, with Pittsburg the favorite, but little betting is being done because of the absence of Detroit money. Many wagers are being made that Hans Wagner will outbat Ty Cobb, and this is considered an even money proposition.

Chairman Herrmann of the National Commission arrived this morning, and B. B. Johnson, the President of the American League, came in to-night. President John Heydler of the National League is expected to-morrow morning.

An important meeting of the National Commission is scheduled for to-morrow, and according to Mr. Herrmann the Pfeffer case will be reopened and some decisive action taken. In this case Charles W. Murphy, the President of the Chicago Nationals, was fined $500 for an alleged tampering with Pitcher Pfeffer of the Toronto Eastern League Club. Murphy wired Pfeffer to join the Chicago team as soon as possible, and, according to the evidence submitted to the National Commission, he did not wire the President of the Toronto Club. Murphy has asked for a re-opening of the case, and it will come before the commission to-morrow.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 7.—Fully 1,600 people left here for Pittsburg to-night on special trains to witness the opening game to-morrow between the Detroit American League Baseball Club and the Pittsburg Nationals. Several hundred more Detroiters went east on the regular trains, and it is safe to say that more than 2,000 residents of this city will be in Pittsburg to-morrow to see the opening of the world's championship series.

SUPERBAS DOWN GIANTS.

Final Game of Season Puts Brooklyn in Sixth Place.

Standing of the Clubs.

St. Louis	54	98	.356	.318
Boston	45	108	.294	.412

After all, the championship season of 1909, so far as the interborough series was concerned, ended with a fireworks surprise. Brooklyn, in Washington Park yesterday, after trailing the Giants from the first inning, in which McGraw's men piled up four runs, tied the score in the fifth and won in the seventh, taking another in the eighth for good measure. The Manhattanites, who evidently considered themselves sure winners, were overthrown as easily as so many wooden ninepins. Daly, whom Manager McGraw was bent on trying out thoroughly, was hammered ten times by the festive Lumleyites, and in the middle round he was massacred. Harry McIntyre stayed in the box for the locals long enough to see the score tied, but he filled the corners with none out in the sixth and Manager Lumley came out of his doze barely in time to send Bell to the slab. George retired the visitors runless in that chapter through forces at the plate and an out at first—all three on assists by Tommy McMillan.

And that was only a part of Tommy's good work. He batted home four of his side's needed runs, three of them at a clip. His two-baggers in the fourth and fifth frames told the story of the game, for the first of them registered Lennox with Brooklyn's second run and Mac's next double sent Wheat, Jordan, and Lennox pattering over the pan. The funny part of it was that nobody pinned much faith to Tommy. A groan went up when he went to bat, even in the inning in which he cleared the bases. But the little chap fairly festooned himself with medals and shamed his critics.

Only 1,000 persons were on hand to see the last game of the season, which advanced the Superbas to sixth place, and they were listless until McMillan's two-sacker tied the tallies. The score:

Brooklyn Club Loses Protest.

President Heydler of the National League has acted on the protest of the Brooklyn Club over the game played with Chicago in Brooklyn on Sept. 3. This game resulted in a Chicago victory by a score of 10 to 4, eight of Chicago's run being scored in the ninth inning. It had been agreed between the managers of the respective teams to stop play at 5:15 o'clock, but the umpire's report showed that the Brooklyn Club had adopted dilatory tactics when it was in danager of being beaten.

President Heydler finds merit in Brooklyn's contention that the umpire in chief should have called the game at 5:15 o'clock, but as the time of starting the game was half an hour later than that provided in the constitution, and as the Brooklyn team also pursued tactics of delay, he does not feel justified in throwing out the championship game and alter the standing of the clubs involved.

Changes in Buffalo Club.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 7.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Buffalo Baseball Club last night President A. B. Potter formally relinquished his position as head of the local company, and Jacob S. Stein, long identified with baseball in this city, was elected in his place. Louis B. Hart and Fred Brennisen were re-elected Vice President and Treasurer, respectively. The resignation of George Smith as manager was also tendered and accepted.

American Collegians Shut Out Japs.

TOKIO, Oct. 7.—The University of Wisconsin nine inflicted another defeat on the Waseda University team to-day by the score of 5 to 0. The visitors made seven hits and two errors, while the Japanese players were credited with four safeties and three misplays.

ONE BRITISH WOMAN GOLFER WINS MATCH

Miss Campbell Defeats Mrs. Stout in Round for National Championship.

PLAYS MRS. FOX TO-DAY

Champion of Great Britain Demonstrates Poor Quality of Putting, but Her Approach Shots Are Perfect.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 7.—The last of the New York and Chicago golf players were defeated to-day in the third round of match play at the women's annual National golf championship over the Merion Cricket Club links, so the remainder of the contest will be a three-cornered struggle between two Philadelphians, one Bostonian, and a Scottish star. Miss Dorothy Campbell, British champion, won her match to-day, and there is general feeling among the contestants that she stands an excellent chance of carrying the title home with her. Such an outcome would be so unprecedented that it has never been seriously contemplated until within a day or two.

Miss Campbell beat Mrs. Charles T. Stout, New York, former National and metropolitan champion, 2 up in a match which showed that she is possessed of sound golfing principles, although much of her play was ordinary enough. She made a fiasco of the seventeenth hole, showing that she was not yet alive to its peculiarities. In putting at least she is still a long way from being an international champion, and if she falls short of her aim in coming to America it is almost sure to be because of her short game. In straightness and approaching she approximates perfection.

She will to-morrow meet Mrs. Caleb Fox, Philadelphia, who to-day beat Miss Frances Teacher, the only other remaining Britisher, by 4 up and 2 to go. A much closer result had been expected. Miss Teacher being the favorite. The latter, however, started uncertainly, and after the fifth hole was down continuously, at one point being five holes behind.

In the lower half of the draw Miss Margery Phelps, Boston, beat Miss Edith Noblit, Wilmington, 1 up, and Mrs. Ronald Barlow, Philadelphia, beat Miss Ella Smith, Chicago, 2 up and 1 to go. The winners in both cases had surprisingly close calls at the hands of two young players hardly heard of until within a year or two. Mrs. Barlow gained half her lead through the chance stymie she laid her rival on the sixteenth hole, while in the other match Miss Phelps prevailed wholly through holing a put of medium length on the home green.

This afternoon there was a best ball foursome with many entries, but the heat became so oppressive not half the starters finished. Only a fraction of those returned cards, the scores being exceptionally high. The winners were Mrs. C. T. Stout, New York, and Miss Katherine Harley, Fall River, past and present title holders at 97. Miss Grace Semple, St. Louis, and Miss Mary Adams, Boston, (Eastern champion,) were second at 98, and Miss Elizabeth Porter, Boston, and Miss S. Temple, England, third, at 100.

Western Golf Champion Beaten.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 7.—Charles Evans, Jr., of Chicago, Western golf champion, was defeated here to-day in the semi-finals of the Centennial Golf Tournament by Christian Kenney of Algonquin Club, St. Louis, 2 up and 1 to play. Harry Potter, Country Club, St. Louis, and Kenney will play the finals to-morrow.

Fox Hills Golfers to Play for Trophy.

It is expected that over 100 members will take part in the competition on Saturday over the Fox Hills links for the magnificent trophy presented to the club by its President, Joseph J. O'Donohue, Jr. It will be an eighteen-hole competition handicap, thirty-two to qualify and continue at match play. There will also be the usual weekly handicap events in Classes A and B.

Morningstar Wins Two Games.

Ora Morningstar won both of his games in the exhibition play at 18.2 balk line billiards in Maurice Daly's billiard room, Forty-ninth Street and Broadway, yesterday, and in the final match for the amateur three-cushion carom tournament for Class C players, Ticehurst was winner from Lewis by 22 to 19. The scores in Morningstar's matches were:

AFTERNOON GAME.

J. Lewis—5 0 0 13 7 3 12 21 0. Total, 61; average, 6 7-9.

EVENING GAME.

Morningstar—22 7 23 12 0 23 31 29 12 26 49 57 9. Total, 300; average, 23 1-18.
Walter St. John—0 13 1 1 4 24 5 3 25 2 24 10. Total, 110; average, 9 4-12.

Morningstar won two exhibition 18.2 billiard matches Wednesday, defeating Scheidick in the first game by a total of 300 to 177, and winning from Gushel in the second contest. Morningstar showed a slightly better game in the first match, getting a high run of 103 and an average of 22. His high run in the second match was 82, and the average 18 11-18.

Equals World's Rifle Record.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The world's rifle shooting record on a 200-yard range was equaled to-day by Lieut. Charles M. Putnam, District of Columbia National Guard, retired, who scored 47 hits out of a possible 50 while taking part in the annual Fall rifle competition. This record first was made by Capt. Allen, Massachusetts National Guard, at Camp Perry, Ohio, in 1908.

Turner Best at Three-Cushion Game.

In the three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at Doyle's billiard parlors, Broadway and Forty-second Street, last night H. Turner defeated A. Sanders by a score of 25 to 17, the match taking forty-four innings. The highest run of the game, 4, was made by Turner.

Post-Season Game To-day.

The Giants and Boston American League team will cross bats this afternoon at the Polo Grounds in the first of the post-season games. Both teams finished third in their respective leagues and the games will give the fans a chance to compare the playing of the rival organizations. Each club won about the same number of games during the season. Boston appears to have a slight advantage in batting, while the Giants expect to overcome this with their slightly superior pitching staff.

Yanks at Hackensack.

At the Oritani Field Club grounds, Hackensack, on Saturday, the New York Americans, including the great Hal Chase, Billy Kesler, Hemphill, Engle, Demmitt, Sweeney, Elberfeld, Gardner, Austin, Warhop, Manning, Doyle, and Knight, will meet the Hackensack team, composed of the following players: Harter of the Washington Americans, Craig of the Princeton College team, Ford of the Jersey City Eastern League team, McCune of the Worcester club, who will do the catching; Girard of the Lynn club, and Hagedorn, a great Hackensack favorite, who will be in the box. Following this game in the next few weeks the Rochester champions of the Eastern League, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, and New York Nationals will play the Hackensack club at the Oritani Field Club grounds.

To Enlarge Ohio Field Stands.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the New York University Athletic Association yesterday, John W. Mace was elected manager of the football team, taking the place of D. Wiltse, who resigned. It was announced at the meeting that, through the generosity of Dr. John F. Munn, Chairman of the Athletic Advisory Board, the seating capacity of the grand stand on Ohio Field would be increased by 1,000. The new stand will be erected within the next few weeks. Dr. Munn has also donated sixty beautiful cups to be given as prizes in athletic events to be held at New York University this Winter. Some of these will be awarded at the annual Fall games, which will be run off at Ohio Field next Wednesday, Oct. 13.

To-morrow and Monday are the two last days of registration. If you fail to register you cannot vote at the election on Nov. 2. The registration places open at 7 A. M. and close at 10 P. M. A full list of registration places in Manhattan and the Bronx is printed elsewhere in THE TIMES to-day. Register to-morrow.

SYRACUSE VS. INDIANS HERE.

Contest to be Played at the Polo Grounds on Oct. 16.

One big football game has been arranged for this city, the Carlisle Indians and Syracuse having scheduled a contest at the Polo Grounds Saturday, Oct. 16. This will give New Yorkers the first opportunity of seeing the Indians in action since they were defeated by Princeton here, two years ago.

The Carlisle players have the reputation of being the most crafty eleven in the country, and since the adoption of the new style of football, with the forward pass and ten-yard rule in force, they have come to be considered the greatest exponents of this system of play. That is, they have grasped the possibilities quicker. Thus far the Indians have been victorious in the season's play, though there is some talk that the team is not as strong as last year.

Syracuse, under the tutelage of "Tad" Jones, the former Yale quarter back, has come strongly to the front on the gridiron in the last few years. This season the up-State men have been defeated, Yale pulling out a victory at New Haven by a score of 15 to 0, but the showing by the Syracuse men was highly creditable, and in the battle with the Indians they will probably be at the top notch of their season's play.

YALE TEAMS IN SCRIMMAGE.

First and Second Elevens Work with Big Coaching Staff on Hand.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 7.—Despite heat and humidity Yale football coaches ordered a twenty-five-minute playing scrimmage for the first and second elevens, who were sent through the trying Holy Cross game yesterday under similar weather conditions. Cooney was the only player in the game yesterday who was excused to-day. "Buster" Brown taking his place at left guard. Howe was installed again as Varsity quarter-back, and Ford Johnson was used on the scrubs. This action is taken to indicate that the coaches regard Howe as having passed the veteran in the close competition for the position. In the back field Philbin and Field again exchanged places, Field being reinstated at half back and Philbin sent to full back.

Coaches in abundance were on hand, Gordon Brown, Captain of the 1900 team; Jim McCrea, guard in '94; George Chadwick, Captain in 1902; Bissell, 1904, and Stuart, 1907, assisting the field staff, Jones and Wheaton.

Hot Weather Wilts Football Men.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The first of the regular weekly games between the 'Varsity and scrubs was played this afternoon, and the men were at it until darkness. Fumbling and hot weather took the life out of both teams, and the game was a sad exhibition. Neither team scored, and punting was frequently brought into play. Simson played his first game at full back on the 'Varsity and did rather well under the circumstances. Hoffman and Wiggins started as half backs and Wilson and Uhl played ends, the rest of the team being regular. The weather told heavily, the men being almost exhausted when they went to the clubhouse.

Bunny Larkin, '01, one of the field coaches last year, arrived to-day and will be here for the rest of the year. He has been expected for a week. Larkin will coach the ends. He was one of the best Cornell turned out.

Football practice was suspended for half an hour while the funeral cortege of Dr. C. P. Beaman, for ten years physician to Cornell athletic teams, went by the clubhouse on the way to a cemetery overlooking the field. A large number of Cornellians were mourners and the active pall bearers were Coach Jack Moakley of the track team, Coaches Halliday and Hunt of the football team, Capts Tydeman and Williams of the football and baseball teams, and the graduate manager, Dugan.

Army Teams Unable to Score.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Owing to drill to-day it was rather late when the football teams lined up for the scrimmage, but while it lasted it was full of fire, and at the end of the fifteen minutes the honors were even, for neither side was able to cross the goal line. The 'Varsity, however, several times got started, and, with Christian carrying the ball, tore off some gains on line plunges, but were unable to continue the motion to score. Once the 'Varsity tried for a drop kick from the thirty-five-yard mark, but the scrubs blocked the ball. There was considerable poor catching of punts, and the scrubs gained much ground by recovering the ball after punting.

Between the halves next Saturday the academy will be initiated into the mysteries of the soccer game. The teams of the Crescent Athletic Club and the Bensonhurst Field Club are coming to West Point to show the army folks what soccer football is like.

Middies' Showing Displeases Coaches.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 7.—Displeased by the poor showing of the Naval Academy team against St. John's yesterday, the coaches went after the players fiercely this afternoon, and the work was directed toward overcoming individual faults and to improve the general work of the team. Capt. Meyer is still kept out of practice with a bad leg, while Richardson and Reinicke were bruised so badly yesterday that they took a day off. Byrd played most of the afternoon at quarter back, and was followed by Nason. Numerous efforts were made to work various forward pass plays, but with little success. Herring, King, Sepeda and Anderson were played at tackle. Neither Byrd nor Wilson has as yet shown any particular aptitude at quarter back, and the problem of improving this position is a serious one.

Shake-up in Fordham Eleven.

In an effort to muster up a strong charging machine in the Fordham eleven Coach Gargan put his men through a grueling hour's scrimmage yesterday. Before sending his men against the scrub for a half hour's session Coach Gargan made wholesale changes in his line. McGrane was replaced at right end by Lush, the former lining up with the scrubs. Bill Barrett was relegated to the scrub and his place taken by Barubok. Rollins was replaced at guard by Eller. The change worked well, the new combination breaking up the scrub line and never stopped working until they had scored twice. After the 'Varsity had hammered the scrub into subjection the Commerce High School boys trotted out for a thirty-minute scrimmage. The High School boys failed to do as well as on Wednesday, as the 'Varsity backs flanked their line repeatedly for large gains.

Football Practice at N. Y. U.

A practice game of football between New York University and Webb Academy was played on Ohio Field yesterday afternoon. Neither team was allowed to score, but the university boys soon proved to have the stronger line. They did considerable punting, and used the forward pass to good advantage. Coach Olcott watched his men closely, with a view to picking out a 'Varsity team for the game Saturday, which will be played against Rhode Island State College on Ohio Field.

Pilgrims Win at Soccer, 14 to 0.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 7.—The Association football team of the Mount Washington Athletic Club to-day suffered defeat at the hands of the Pilgrims, the English team now touring this country. The score was 14 to 0. The Pilgrims will play the third and last game of the series in this city next Saturday, when they will meet a team picked from the local clubs.

Women Ride to the Hounds.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Oct. 7.—A big field was out to-day for the first of the Thursday hunts of the Meadow Brook Club to be arranged especially for the women. The hounds were thrown in at the Quaker meeting house, and led the field a hot chase over six miles of rolling country ribbed with low fences. There was no check, and the estates crossed during the run included those of W. H. Parke, J. P. Grace, George Rose, and J. I. Phipps. The finish was on the Barney place. Those out were Miss C. Bryce, Mrs. James A. Burden, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Phipps, R. F. Potter, Fletcher Harper, Douglas Campbell, W. H. Parke, J. P. and W. R. Grace, H. L. Bell, H. E. Drier Elliott, C. Cowdin, and M. Stevenson, M. F. H.

Novel Events for Irish-American Games

The Fall outdoor athletic season will close Sunday at Celtic Park, Long Island City, with a programme of interesting events by the Irish-American Athletic Club. Fourteen events are on the card, ten of which are handicaps, the remainder being special competitions. Nearly all the athletes who competed in the indoor championships at Madison Square Garden have sent in their entries, and the list is one of the most notable that has ever been received for an outdoor meet. One of the features of the meeting will be the introduction of a time-table, which will be adhered to, so that each event will be run on schedule time. Several events not on the usual athletic programme have been added, for which new records are expected.

SIR WOOSTER WINS BROOK CUP 'CHASE

Virginia Jumper Leads Rampart Home in Three-Mile Cross-Country Race.

KING'S DAUGHTER ROMPS IN

Fleet Mare Gallops First All the Way In the Fastest Mile of the Belmont Park Autumn Meeting.

With two finished jumpers fighting out lapped at the end of a three-mile course, the Brook Cup Steeplechase Handicap, at Belmont Park yesterday, made a real horse race, and Sir Wooster took rank as about the best cross-country horse in the country when he won under his 165 pounds, after going with the pace all the way.

The race was the feature of a spirited afternoon's sport, and Sir Wooster's triumph was the second in the important steeplechase stakes at the Queens course for E. Henry Higgenson, a Boston amateur who now has about the strongest stable of chasers in the country. Sir Wooster, the winner, is a product of Virginia, while his rival at the finish, Rampart, was developed on Long Island, and yesterday ran in the name and colors of W. C. Hayes as a change from the colors of Harry S. Page, who rode the horse in his last meeting with Sir Wooster. The reason for the change was that Mr. Hayes, who held a partnership interest in Rampart, held one leg on the $2,500 Brook Cup, which must be won twice by the same owner to become his property, and the transfer of ownership was made with a view to making a final claim for the trophy. Instead of his former gentleman jockey Rampart ran with a professional up, and the two horses started as nearly equal choices in a field of four.

From start to finish Sir Wooster and Rampart were together, waiting and watching, when Defiance went out to the front, and in the first round of the field opened up a gap of half a dozen lengths. When Defiance began to tire and come back Sir Wooster and Rampart went on together, and through the last mile and a half they were lapped most of the time, Sir Wooster always showing a trifle the better and leading through the last mile, the pair finishing still lapped, with Sir Wooster straightened out and racing gallantly on the flat after his long journey through the field, winner by a scant length. St. Nick, ten lengths behind Rampart, was third.

Thomas C. McDowell's fleet mare King's Daughter put to her credit the fastest mile of the Fall racing season in the handicap, fifth on the programme. When the owners were through scratching, the field of twenty-two eligible horses was reduced to five runners, with King's Daughter the top weight and always favorite. The white hood on the McDowell entry was in front when the field left the post, and King's Daughter never was headed in the race. Emperor William and Nimbus hung at her heels for a quarter, and then King's Daughter drew out clear and won easily, four lengths in front of Nimbus, in 1:37 4-5.

Royal Captive, running kindly for an apprentice jockey, came on with a rattle in the final quarter for the last race after looking to be out of the contest and won easily at long odds, with Alonarka second and an unlucky favorite in Enfield, third.

Jack Atkin took up his 124 pounds in the condition race second on the card as if surprised at the featherweight he carried, and simply romped in first, pulling back to Bad News, second. Racquet led from end to end in an easy win in the selling mile, and Everett sat in front and fighting with German Silver and Jacquelina most of the distance, got home first for the opening race after a sharp contest.

Two selling race winners were bid up, D. Woodford advancing Royal Captive, entered for $700 to $1,000, her stable bidding her in for $3 more, and a man in the crowd bidding up Racquet to $1,755, an advance of $755 over his entered price, the owner bidding the horse in. The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds; maidens and winners of not more than one race; special weights; allowances; six furlongs straight.

Emperor William, 107, (Shilling,) 9 to 2 and 7 to 5.....3
Sir Cleges, 110, (McIntyre,) 8 to 1, and Live Wire, 97, (Creevy,) 3 to 1, also ran. Won easily. Time—1:37 4-5.

SIXTH RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward; special weights; selling allowances; six furlongs on the main course.
Newcastle Stable's Royal Captive, ch. f., 3, by Golden Maxim-Mary Stuart, 100, (Mayland,) 8 to 1 and 3 to 1.....1
Alonarka, 99, (Martin,) 3 to 1 and 1 to 1.....2
Enfield, 103, (Shilling,) 9 to 5 and 7 to 10.....3
Nod, 111, (Liebert,) 30 to 1; Tom McGrath, 105, (Gilbert,) 5 to 1; Rosimiro, 105, (Doyle,) 6 to 1; Court Lady, 99, (Upton,) 50 to 1; Home Run, 97, (Glass,) 60 to 1, and Earl's Court, 97, (Creevy,) 7 to 1, also ran. Won handily. Time—1:12 3-5.

Kingsley School Wins at Football.

Kingsley School defeated Montclair High School yesterday at Essex Fells by the one-sided score of 25 to 0. The Kingsley School team held the upper hand throughout, and their goal line was never threatened.

MOTORDROME MAY STAY.

Motor Racing Association to Make Brighton Auto Course Permanent.

The Motor Racing Association has under consideration a plan to make the Brighton Beach Motordrome permanent. It was announced yesterday that several members of the organization are enthusiastic over the proposal, but that others desire to wait until after the twenty-four-hour contest over the Brighton course, on Oct. 15 and 16, before they give their support to the movement. If the race meet is as successful as have been the two meets held this season, the plan to make the motordrome permanent will be adopted.

If the motordrome is made permanent many changes and improvements will be made before next Spring. Provision will be made for hill-climbing contests and feats of endurance and stability in addition to the speed events on the mile circular track. The association has a lease on the property which does not expire until the middle of July next, and it is renewable under certain conditions.

Among the features of the scheme that have been already suggested are the construction of a steep hill in the infield, the erection of permanent buildings to house competing crews in big races, the construction of a new field stand and of a monster garage, and the building of a special station on the property so that spectators going to the track by train may be landed directly in the motordrome.

It is announced that thirty entries have been practically assured for the Vanderbilt Cup Race up to date. A. R. Pardington, Second Vice President of the Long Island Motor Parkway and director of the fifth Vanderbilt Cup race, with Fred J. Wagner, will be at the Hotel Walton, in Philadelphia, to-day and to-morrow for the purpose of receiving entries for the Vanderbilt race. Mr. Pardington says that after the Fairmount Park contest on Saturday a number of new entries will be announced. He believes that between forty and fifty cars will compete in the annual classic.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, OCT. 8, 1909.

NEW YORK FOR NEW YORK.

When Judge GAYNOR said, on being informed of his nomination by Tammany, "I had thought to pass my life in my present office, but man proposes and GOD disposes, and I am content," there may have been persons in this community who regarded those words as the utterance of a sincere and devout man. In view of the character of Judge GAYNOR'S associates upon the ticket, put there by subsequent nominations of Tammany, his remark seems blasphemous and revolting. It may be said that when he spoke he knew not what manner of men Tammany would name. That excuse cannot avail him. He knew Tammany. He must have known, as everybody knew, that it must nominate men of its own kind. Certainly no man of reputation has ever been asked to make a canvass for the Mayoralty in such disreputable company. That Judge GAYNOR, in a campaign that he insists is for purity and good government, should for a moment submit to association with Sullivans and Hagens and Roesches gives anybody the right to question his sincerity. His title to the confidence of honest but misguided men who really believe in him has been most seriously impaired. We presume Tammany did not consult him about the other nominations. They knew he would not be squeamish; he is too eager for the office.

Tammany chose Judge GAYNOR for its mask, and he does not serve the purpose. Its features stand clearly revealed as hideous as ever, and its character and its present purposes are betrayed with unmistakable clearness in every line of its countenance. Its county nominations are a defiance of decency and of public opinion. It proclaims at once its intention to make use of the power of office for the profit and enrichment of its chief men. Its nominee for Sheriff comes of a family notorious as protectors of criminals, as beneficiaries of lawbreaking, and as sharers in the gains of vice. Its nominee for Justice of the City Court is a man who came into most discreditable publicity through the investigations of the Lexow Committee. It has nominated for President of this Borough, an office of great powers and responsibilities calling for high ability, one of its own faithful underlings, who, in years of pubic service, has failed to rise above the clerkship grade. Reaching over into Queens County, its influence sustains CASSIDY in his effort to be again elected Borough President. Mr. MURPHY knows why he wants CASSIDY President of Queens Borough. It extends his field of gain.

Do the taxpayers and honest voters of New York know what the success of the Tammany ticket would mean? It would put the city in the control of a Board of Estimate and Apportionment entirely subject to the orders of MURPHY and his associates. Franchises, great contracts, the control of the public expenditure and of public undertakings would be placed without reservation in the hands of MURPHY. GAYNOR would be a puppet. With all his virtuous pretensions, he would have no more power to stop the spoiling of the city than the humblest subordinate in his office. Controller METZ is right. "New York for New York, and not for the bosses"—that is the platform this year. The city and all the property and the great institutions contained in it belong to its people. They are asked to hand over to the control of Tammany their Government, their property. Tammany wants it for loot. It has lived by loot in the past, it now looks forward to the richest opportunity for loot that has ever been offered to it. The question to be determined by the voters is whether the city shall be governed by them and for them, or be governed by Tammany for Tammany.

The brazen audacity of MURPHY in putting so many discredited men, so many weak and perfectly manageable men, upon his ticket, has provoked public indignation. One of the first symptoms is the revolt of Mr. HEARST'S followers. They might have accepted GAYNOR without Tammany, but GAYNOR with Tammany is too much for them, for they know that it means nine-tenths Tammany and one-tenth GAYNOR in the municipal Government. They are preparing to make an independent canvass with Mr. HEARST as their candidate. Mr. HEARST could do the city no greater public service than by making a campaign this year expressly for the defeat of Tammany and its candidates. The principles of his League are all betrayed and flouted by Tammany with the candidates it has named and the purposes it has introduced in this campaign. If their denunciations of graft mean anything, if their principles mean anything, they have the right to stand up for them, and they have the right to insist that Mr. HEARST shall lead in the fight.

A SUPERFLUOUS HOLIDAY.

Next Tuesday all the banks and trust companies in this State must keep their doors closed. Otherwise business will pretty generally go on as usual. The shops are not inclined to recognize "Columbus Day." The bank clerks will have a great deal of extra work to do on Wednesday. They are not likely to get much enjoyment out of their superfluous and enforced holiday. We did not need a new legal holiday between the first Monday in September and the last Thursday in November, and this year the Fall business has already been disturbed by the Hudson-Fulton Celebration.

Throughout this city there is a great deal of excusable ignorance about the new holiday, the reason for it, and the influences which led to its establishment. On the lower east side it will doubtless be celebrated as Tim Sullivan day. TIMOTHY fathered the bill to establish Columbus Day in the Legislature. There is no mystery in that. The Senator has many constituents of Italian birth, though, to be sure, Italy had no part in fitting out COLUMBUS'S voyage of discovery. He was a prophet without honor in his own land.

Why Gov. HUGHES signed the Columbus Day bill has always been a mystery. It was a foolish mistake.

REGISTER AND VOTE.

The books for the registration of voters will be open two more days, to-morrow and Monday. A citizen, otherwise qualified to vote, if he is not registered after next Monday, will lose his vote. Too much stress cannot be laid on the necessity of polling the full independent and Republican vote for the municipal and county offices Nov. 2. Tammany can be beaten. It is strong and self-satisfied and its components are harmonious. But Mr. BANNARD can be elected to the Mayoralty if every citizen who deplores the misrule of Tammany will vote for him. Courage and determination are required.

If the Mayor is the right man, there is no merit in the argument that his hands are tied, that he is powerless to improve the city's condition. As a matter of fact a man of Mr. BANNARD'S quality and training is an actual necessity in the Mayor's office. If elected he will be master of the situation. He will have, so to speak, "access to the books." He can safely be relied upon to work for the good of the city and the enlightenment of its taxpayers. He can be elected. He has more than the proverbial "good fighting chance." To vote for him it is needful to register.

THE CORPORATION TAX.

The Treasury finds it necessary to correct a prevalent opinion that the corporation tax is something to be dreaded in the indefinite future. The fact is that a portion of the tax has already accrued. This tax is one of the few retroactive taxes ever enacted. It began to run eight months before the date of the passage of the law, and there remains only the remnant of the current calendar year to complete the twelvemonth for which all corporations must make returns and pay their taxes. It is a mistake to think that the law took effect for the year ensuing from the date of its passage, or for the calendar year beginning next New Year's Day.

The tax year will be completed on Dec. 31 next. Before next March the corporations must make their returns. By June 30, 1910, the tax for 1909 must be paid. It is none too soon now for those affected to begin to take thought regarding the matter, for only the minority of them keep their accounts in a manner making the compiling of the tax reports easy. The tax is upon the net income, and the net is to be calculated, according to the circular of a leading firm of accountants, by a method "radically at variance with accounting methods generally followed by industrial and trading corporations, with those prescribed for public service corporations under Federal and State laws, with accounting methods followed by many insurance, financial, and banking institutions, and with principles recognized by students of accounting."

The difficulty is that the law severs the natural relation between the accounts and the processes of production and distribution. The law takes note only of cash payments actually made, and does not allow the distribution of costs according to the actual conditions of business. A firm may buy to-day materials which it may take a year to work up and sell, not to mention the delay in collecting payments. Thus this year's payments have reference to next year's trade, and the practice is to reckon the accounts according to debits and credits which have accrued and been incurred, rather than those actually made on any specific date according to chance conditions.

There must accordingly be a general reconstruction of accounts to meet objections which may seem theoretical, but which are practical. For concrete example, losses by fire are not uncommon, and they must be deducted in ascertaining the net income. But they should be deducted when they are ascertained, and taken into the accounts, since there is no other practicable way. How can a loss be debited to the year in which it is "incurred," when its amount does not become known ordinarily for months, or perhaps years, in case of any dispute or litigation? Interest also is to be deducted, but it is interest "paid" in the language of the law, although the practice is to debit interest accrued, for it is never paid before it is due, at the end of the interest period.

There is nothing novel in this, but it acquires fresh importance with the passage of the law. While the law was pending we called the attention of Attorney General WICKERSHAM to the helpful suggestions of several of the best accountants in the profession, but he rejected their proffer of assistance. The law was passed with these infirmities in its provisions, and there is litigation ahead. Fortunately one phase of the impending lawsuits contains the possibilities of the annulment of the law, and with it these objections. But nobody is justified in taking this for granted. Every corporation in the United States should prepare to observe the law. This is the very best preparation for such an opposition as shall at least amend the law, if not compel its repeal.

SEIZE THE FRESHMAN.

The lonesome youth who lingered on Wednesday at the installation of Dr. LOWELL, invested with the dignities of the yellow charter, the silver keys, and the gold seal of Harvard University, saw imposing ceremonies. He saw the procession of the world's scholars, the conferring of degrees, the recognition of a new President of the oldest American university. The men who participated in these ceremonies typified in their diverse professions fields of knowledge too vast for any man to compass. Yet the Freshman in the background was the significant figure.

Was he not there as one of the youths of promise of every kind from every part of this country? It were better had he been younger. He may acquire his profession too late. He may never learn to get at the heart of any subject to which he applies his mind. He may be thrown too late among men in fields of fierce intellectual struggle. But the athletic field lies before him in its glory.

The men at the English Cambridge respect each other's brains as the men at Cambridge, Mass., and at every other college in America, revere the muscles of a few of their fellows. The Englishmen are in the honor schools, they enter the intellectual lists, they compete strenuously in activities that equip them to become statesmen and scholars, men of individuality and of character apart from their professions.

Will it not be well, Dr. LOWELL asks, to seize this Freshman by the scruff, throw him among his mates, and, with the aid of some thoughtful upper classmen, bump into his head different ideas, ideals, hopes, and aspirations than those that prevail with the pasty-faced "rooters" on the football bleachers? Let him and them be made to feel that the exercise, physical and mental, is for them, and that there are prizes to be won in both fields.

If Dr. LOWELL can bring this about, he will have changed for the better, and considerably, the life of students in the United States.

THE "NO TIP" HOTEL.

We owe to Mr. W. D. HOWELLS, who, having just returned from England, has been "interviewed" in The Sun, some fresh, first-hand information about London's new "no tip" hotel. Mr. HOWELLS has found tipping in England "pretty nearly as bad as it is here." That seems to be a fair statement of the case. He was interested in the new hotel, not far from the confines of London's historic "City," and went there to lunch. The place was so crowded that it was almost impossible to get in. A single daily charge is made for a bedroom with lights, attendance, and breakfast. Tipping is prohibited.

This experiment, in the heart of London, is certainly interesting. The house is run by one of London's two great cheap restaurant syndicates, which is controlled, by the way, by the British tobacco trust. So there is plenty of money behind it. Its success as a "no tip" hotel depends largely, if not entirely, on the disposition of the public to discountenance the habit of tipping. We have been led to believe that the frequent and vociferous denunciation of this practice by Englishmen is more or less insincere. An Englishman wants comfort, and he is generally willing to pay an extra sixpence or so to get it, but he objects, naturally, to others doing the same thing. The supply of comfort is always limited.

Tipping in this country is worse than in England only because the tips are larger. The English sixpenny tip becomes a quarter here; the threepenny tip is a dime, and is generally received without thanks. We do not have to tip quite so many persons. Shopmen and policemen get tips in London. But undoubtedly the habit of tip giving and tip taking is growing in this land of republican institutions, strangely, and inexcusably. It is a deplorable habit for both the giver and the recipient.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Needs of the Yosemite.

While President TAFT rides and walks through that domain of wonder and beauty, the Yosemite Valley, it is to be hoped that his appreciation of what he sees will not be so keen that he cannot give a few of those very efficient thoughts of his to things which he will not see—and should.

In a place where nature has done so much, man, as represented by the National Government, really ought to do just a little more in the way of facilitating access to that amazing chasm, and of adding to the comfort and convenience of visitors. Of course, the Yosemite should not be made into an urban park or anything like one; its wildness is and must always remain among its greatest charms, and certainly no "improvements" should be on a scale or of a kind to become prominent features of that magnificent scenery. But quite harmless and extremely useful in every way would be, first of all, good roads.

Something has already been done in this direction, and more is already doing, but the appropriations have been small, and they have come scattering along year by year in a way that has prevented the prompt accomplishment that is so much to be desired. The roads already built are narrow, and that the material out of which they are constructed is not the proper one is convincingly proved by the clouds of dust that rise with the passage of every stage coach. They are roads that would do well enough if running through a stretch of ordinary country and were little used, but as the highways to and through the Yosemite Valley, a priceless National possession, they come near to being a disgrace to the American people.

All this President TAFT will observe this week, and perhaps he will soon find occasion to add a new task to the many he has already assumed—that of hastening by his influence the time when pilgrims to the valley may not have their attention distracted from its innumerable charms by the petty annoyances of archaic travel. Whether a trolley line running from El Portal up into the heart of the valley would be a desirable thing or not is a question not to be hastily answered, but as a general principle it can be assumed that every American who visits the Yosemite becomes a better because a prouder citizen, and that it is well to have as many of them as possible go there. Good roads, broad and hard, should replace the present trails, and they should do so at once, so that this generation can profit by them.

Newspapers and the Sabbath.

One of our readers, in a letter printed on this page to-day, voices a personal complaint against THE TIMES, which, though we think it not well founded, yet deserves respectful consideration, both for itself and for the moderation and courtesy with which our critic writes. His is the old grievance of the Sunday paper, and he was moved to express it anew by certain remarks of our own in regard to the amount and quality of the text and pictures in last Sunday's issue.

The truth of the remarks our correspondent does not impugn; his only regret, for himself and others, is that all these good things should be offered on a day which he thinks should be wholly devoted to the consideration of matters distinctly religious. Feeling as he does, he must, of course, obey his conscience and refrain from reading this or any other Sunday paper. We have little hope of changing his conviction, and not much desire to do so, but it does seem to us that he should give some consideration to the fact that the consciences of many people, not a few of them perhaps as truly and deeply religious as himself, are not offended either by the publication or the reading of Sunday newspapers.

It may occur to him that, as he is one of a small minority, compared with the whole number of good citizens, his scruples may be excessive. We would be the last to assert that majorities are always right and minorities always wrong, but there is usually a large probability that what is called the consensus of public opinion should not be hastily dismissed as erroneous. Whether for good or for evil, strict Sabbatarianism is a steadily and rapidly waning influence. Nowhere is Sunday "kept" as it was practically everywhere in this country a hundred or two hundred years ago. Whoever must may deplore the change, but he cannot justify his lamentations with any proof that moral standards are now lower than they used to be. As a matter of easily demonstrable fact they have risen and are rising.

Perhaps it will help our friend to another and kinder view of the Sunday newspaper if he looks at it, not in contrast with what he thinks better reading, but as an alternative to things which he knows to be worse. Some minds cannot find consolation in that for what they do not approve, but many can. And we wonder whether our correspondent bars, or, as he puts it, is debarred from Monday papers, which are made on Sunday, as well as from those which are only distributed on that day.

ARMENIAN AS A CITIZEN.

Says Majority Desire to Become Bona-Fide Americans.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would like to protest against a certain misrepresentation that appeared in yesterday's TIMES under the heading "The Ways of Turkish Subjects."

Being an Armenian, and knowing all classes of them, I can speak knowingly of this class of non-Mongolian subjects of Turkey. The average Armenian has one great ambition, and that is to become a citizen and feel this is his country and that he is a part of it.

You say "many of them are not bona fide residents of this country." Is this true of the majority? How many Armenian-Americans ever think of going to Turkey to live? It is true a few do go to transact business. Do not the Germans and the English do the same? Is it our fault because it is hard to get fair play to the American citizen in Turkey?

No one will deny that there are a good many Armenians in this country who are ignorant enough not to care for citizenship, and there are a good many who are just enough ignorant to be disgusted with the object lesson in the greatest city in America, with the government as supplied by the vote-buying and ballot-box-stuffing organizations like Tammany, that they care not to vote. But there are also many Armenians and Americans who know enough to see that Tammany-like organizations are un-American, who know the sense in which citizenship is bestowed upon them and value it more than a good many native-born and educated citizens.

EQUAL PAY FOR TEACHERS.

May Test Chances of Women at Salary Equal to Men's.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An opportunity is now at hand to test on a small scale whether equalization of salaries in the teaching profession (if profession it be) will work to the advantage of women teachers. Those opposed to such equalizing claim, among other things, that no women could get or hold the "jobs" if salaries were equal.

A necessary fit of economy being in order in school affairs, it is said that Principals of schools are now required to hire young women substitutes rather than young men, because the rates of pay are $2.50 for the former and $3 for the latter. I suggest that all substitutes get the same pay, and see whether Principals of boys' schools, where the men "subs" are available, will not, in general, prefer them to the young women. It was so once.

A further try in the direction of economy would be to disband the pedagogical Faculty at the College of the City of New York and reduce them in numbers at the Training School for Teachers, since it is ethically wrong to entice young men to study that art and science when none are being appointed any more, and even more wrong to spend city money in maintaining the schools to no purpose.

ROBERT P. GREEN.

CAN'T CONVICT LIQUOR MEN.

Massachusetts Judge Finally Refuses to Hear Cases in Nantucket.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Oct. 7.—Because no jury can be secured in Nantucket to return a conviction in liquor cases, a movement is under way to have the Superior Court removed from the county.

The latest unsuccessful attempt of the Government to obtain a conviction came to-day, when the defendants in four liquor cases were acquitted. Judge Fessenden then refused to hear any more of the cases which had come up on appeal from the lower court and ordered them continued until next July.

SUNDAY NEWSPAPERS.

Conscientious Scruples Entertained by a Times Reader.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note with interest your editorial in Saturday's issue, "A Great Sunday Newspaper." But the greater the Sunday newspaper is, the more have I complaint against it. Six days in the week I read THE TIMES, but my conscience comes between me and this greatest issue, and though there is much in it that I would gladly read, I am debarred.

It is a part of my understanding of Christianity, I admit that if it were only a personal matter I would be foolish to make any protest. I wonder, even in this beginning of the twentieth century, how many others find themselves also conscientiously debarred, and how many buy and read, but with an underlying feeling of conscience outraged?

It is not a mere matter of Puritanism. I believe in the authority of the "Thou shalt not," but it is an authority of reason, God implanted, which I find. How much of the nervous breakdown, of the unrest and dissatisfaction, how many of the suicides, yes, and of the divorces and of many varieties of crime would be done away with if the Sabbath could really be a Sabbath for all the people, a Lord's Day, made for men, for rest, for communion with the highest, for adjustment of the life of the individual to the great realities of the life eternal! Instead, it is a day so pre-empted and crowded by the things of the other six that there is no time to think and to worship. The greater Sunday newspaper, in the sense in which you speak, is therefore but the greater snare and temptation to those who will be caught by it. FREDERICK W. JACKSON.

SOCIAL INTERESTS OF CITY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The nomination of Otto T. Bannard as candidate for Mayor of New York commends itself to intelligent citizens because of his peculiar abilities to meet the varied needs of the office and the demands of the hour. His ability and experience as a philanthropist have been thrown into minor notice because the needs of the city have seemed to be more of a financial and administrative nature. Yet it is well to call attention to his experience as Vice President of the Charity Organization Society, President of the Provident Loan Society, and as a member of the Board of Education. His capable and unstinted service in these offices bears abundant testimony to his warm human interests and warrants the belief that his administration would carefully guard and develop the great social needs of the city, where clean streets, sanitary tenements, and a sufficient number of elementary schools have such a vital bearing on the municipal life.

With the possible exception of Seth Low, New York has not had a Mayor in recent years who was so peculiarly qualified along these lines. These qualifications, combined with his recognized ability along other lines, make him the man of the hour in the approaching Mayoralty election. Mr. Bannard is therefore a non-partisan candidate in the highest and best sense. His appeal for efficiency, economy, and sanity should carry weight with every voting citizen. His election would insure the adoption of a sound policy in administration and accounting, progress in securing transit facilities, and the development of schools, playgrounds, recreation centres, and similar social agencies. AN INTERESTED CITIZEN.

The Objectionable Float.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Commenting on the remarks of your correspondent, "An American Thistle," regarding the float which has offended Englishmen, I consider that exhibition to have been as inappropriate as would be the typifying of some equally offensive incident taken from the war between the North and South.

Viewed as history, both great struggles of 1776 and 1861 were civil wars, and the descendants of all the participants in those wars are the more closely united because of the complete settlement of all family quarrels.

Future of Half Moon and Clermont.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Much has appeared in the public press regarding the final disposition of the reproductions of the Half Moon and of the Clermont. The former was a gift from the people of Holland to the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission, representing the people of the State of New York, the latter was built and paid for by the commission, which is a public body. Under the circumstances should not the question of the disposition of these models be submitted to the commission to be decided by a vote of that body at a meeting to be duly called for that purpose? In that wise all parts of the State would be represented, and all interests would be conserved in the final disposition of these the most interesting features of the great celebration. JOSEPH L. DELAFIELD.

Duty to Vote.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Municipal Government is the well-spring from which must eventually flow good or bad government to the State and Nation. It, therefore, is incumbent upon us to take a greater interest and more active part toward better governmental conditions in our cities. The honest and law-abiding men of this town are greatly in the majority and have it always in their power to give this city the best possible Government. JULES ORMONT.

Columbus Day.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If I am not too late, I wish to ask you why not use your influence through the voice of your just and valuable paper for the continuance of the decorations of the city until after Columbus Day, which you know is now a legal holiday, and will have its initial celebration on Oct. 12. Why not honor that great hero with suitable decorations and demonstrations?

New York, Oct. 6, 1909. B. OTTENS.

UNMASKED.

It cannot be! Why, all these years
I've watched him on his way.
He's come and gone, each act and word
As honest as the day!
To church on Sunday like the rest,
With wife and children kind,
Considerate, a neighbor just,
No better one could find!

The tradesmen seem to think he's fair;
No trouble have with bills.
Commuters like to ride with him,
He ne'er recounts his ills.
His house and grounds are neat and trim,
His home life's quiet, pure—
At least that's how it's always seemed,
But now I'm not so sure!

For I've just read of what he's done,
As told by speakers glib—
His every deed's of darkest dye,
His every word's a fib!
Graft, bigamy, embezzlement,
All crimes which soul can stain—
You see, he's up for office

BUDGET AND WOMEN'S PAY.

Better Raise Teachers' Salaries Than Have a Mandatory Law, Says Winthrop.

The second of the hearings on the budget for 1910 was held yesterday, and other heads of city departments explained why they asked for increases over the last year. Fire Commissioner Hayes asked for $193,230 increase over his expenditure of last year, and explained that it was mainly mandatory.

Street Commissioner Edwards came with a request for an additional $1,213,000, but accounted for $900,000 of this by the issuance of special revenue bonds during the current year. The money went for improvements, and did not imply an increased cost of administration. He thought that Brooklyn was entitled to 200 more sweepers.

Dock Commissioner Spooner also had something to say to palliate his request for $3,222,609. This is the first appropriation ever asked by his department, as under the old law the expenditures of this department did not come under the budget. The Commissioner asserted that there was no considerable increase in expenditure in the sum he asked for, as the Municipal Ferry service has been extended and would bring in larger returns.

Women's salaries and the relations of the City College to the high schools of the city came in for a good deal of comment when President Winthrop of the Board of Education began to explain why he needed $34,740,485, an increase of $7,269,749. It appeared that $3,493,103 of this was wanted to raise the pay of the women teachers. This, it was brought out, was $3,000,000 less than the compromise suggested by the Legislature.

No men teachers have been appointed this Autumn, and Borough President Ahearn asked:

"Isn't it an injustice to let men go through their training and virtually contract with them to employ them and then appoint none of them?"

"As a matter of fact," asked President McGowan, "you have not appointed any men teachers because you haven't the money for it?"

"Exactly," replied Mr. Winthrop.

"According to that," put in the Controller, "if we ever have equal pay there'll be none but men teachers in the schools. I think the women teachers in the lower grades are not properly paid, but I think we should leave the question of increases to the next administration."

"I believe we should do our duty now," said Mr. McGowan.

"As a taxpayer," said Mr. Winthrop, "I would rather have this increase approved now than have a mandatory bill for equal pay passed by the Legislature."

When the appropriation for the City College was reached it came out that 3,055 of the 4,500 pupils are in the High School department.

"So most of these college men," commented the Mayor, "are in bibs and aprons. Why can't you get your pupils from the High Schools? They are not overcrowded."

It appeared that the City College High School course takes only three years to the ordinary High School's four. The Mayor, however, expressed, on the authority of data received from Supt. Maxwell, some doubt of its being so effective.

The system of paying janitors of the public schools large sums, and intrusting them with the duty of hiring their own help was criticized by Controller Metz. The janitor of the De Witt Clinton High School thus receives annually $6,000, and the engineer $8,000.

It was also stated that the Board of Education intends soon to start twenty special classes for children suffering from tuberculosis. They will be scattered through the city and will be held in rooms constructed with a maximum of window space, so that the pupils will be working almost in the open air.

"The Board of Health," explained President Winthrop, "will not permit children suffering from tuberculosis to mingle with others in the class rooms, yet the education law is mandatory. We intend to meet this difficulty by these special classrooms."

Money was asked also to provide for vacation schools, where pupils who have fallen behind in their studies may make up their deficiencies in the Summer months.

The hearings will be resumed this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

EQUAL PAY FIGHT GOES ON.

Miss Strachan Sounds the Slogan and Women Teachers Will Take It Up.

Miss Grace C. Strachan, the women school teachers' apostle of "equal pay for equal work," declared yesterday that the fight for the "cause" in comparison with which, in the opinion of the Interborough Association of Women Teachers, others pale into insignificance, would at once be renewed with increased vigor and brighter hopes for success than ever.

A general meeting of the association will be held to-morrow afternoon at the Normal College for the election of officers. In her call to the teachers to be sure to attend Miss Strachan says:

"Let us begin the year with courage and enthusiasm. Let no member be faint-hearted. The prospects of success are brighter than ever before. Let our friends and well-wishers see that we appreciate their efforts, that we are as much in earnest now as we were in the beginning of our fight, and that we are steadfast in our determination to keep on in this struggle for justice until we win."

The last three words are printed in big, self-assertive capitals. To them Miss Strachan adds a truly feminine postscript, reading: "Remember! Save Saturday afternoon, Oct. 9."

The ticket consists of Miss Strachan for President, the Misses Lina E. Gan of Manhattan, Anna B. Moriarity of Brooklyn, Mary A. Curtis of the Bronx, Anna E. McAuliffe of Queens, and Rebecca A. Ludlum of Richmond, for Vice Presidents; Miss Isabel A. Ennis for Secretary, and Miss Ida Ikelheimer for Treasurer. It was said yesterday that the ticket will go through without a murmur.

HAD A BENCH SHOW AT SEA.

Dog Owners on the Adriatic Hold an Exhibition and Win Prizes.

What is said to be the first international bench show ever held on the high seas took place on the deck of the White Star liner Adriatic when she was 800 miles from Sandy Hook. The show was made possible by the chance gathering of many canine aristocrats. The result was that the Adriatic Kennel Club was organized, and the exhibitors made a pledge to have.

There were sixteen entries, and the show was held on the forward deck under the patronage of Capt. E. J. Smith. The deck was decorated for the occasion, and society turned out in the afternoon just as at a show ashore, though in less formal dress. The prizes consisted of souvenir silver cups, engraved "Adriatic," purchased from the ship's barber.

When the Adriatic was two days out Dr. C. Y. Ford of Canada began to interest the dog owners in an exhibition. "Let's have a dog show" was soon the general chorus, and the dog owners met in the saloon of the vessel to organize. Dr. George Taylor of New York was referee and Dr. Ford judge. The show was held on Tuesday.

The first prize went to Lilly, a griffon soyeau, purchased in France by Miss Bertron, daughter of S. R. Bertron of this city. This prize was given for the best dog, irrespective of class, in the show. The selection was made by J. J. Manning of New York. Some of the other prize winners were:

A dalmatian and a "golden fox" dog, so described—belonging to Davis Elkins; a Blenheim spaniel belonging to Mrs. W. M. Ritter of Cleveland; an Austrian pomeranian and a miniature pomeranian belonging to Mrs. J. J. Vatable of New York; a black pomeranian, the property of Mrs. E. C. Jourgensen of Brooklyn; a miniature pomeranian belonging to Mrs. M. H. Behr of New York; an Aberdeen terrier, belonging to Mrs. Wain of Philadelphia, and a Scottish terrier belonging to R. B. Van Cortlandt.

Much amusement was occasioned by an attempt to enter the two ship's cats as "sea hounds."

GEN. WOOD DEFENDS WAR MANOEUVRES

Official Umpire of Massachusetts Campaign Declares There Was Little Hardship.

FEW CASES OF ILLNESS

Those Who Were Incapacitated Suffered Chiefly from Minor Complaints —Valuable Lessons Taught.

Major Gen. Leonard Wood, commanding the Department of the East, who was the chief umpire of the joint manoeuvres held in Massachusetts, this Summer, answered yesterday an article from Washington, with reference to those manoeuvres, in which certain critics of the mimic campaign said the War Department was convinced that the Boston campaign was too hard on the militiamen and that another such experiment was, at least, a long way off.

Until yesterday Gen. Wood had taken no notice of these criticisms of the manoeuvres. His report has not been forwarded to the War Department, so whatever information may have been received in Washington is unofficial. In the entire Red Army, (the invading force under Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss,) it was pointed out yesterday, only fifty-four cases of incapacitation were reported in the campaign, and most of these were insignificant. Seventeen of these incapacitations existed before the manoeuvres began, and cannot therefore be charged up to the experiences the soldiers had while on service. Here is the list:

Foot troubles existing before manoeuvres	4
Injuries during manoeuvres	8
Exhaustion	6
Fever	2
Muscular rheumatism	3
Stomach trouble	3
Acute bronchitis	3
Not due to manoeuvres	13
Doubtful as to cause	2

"The statement," said Gen. Wood, "which purports to emanate from some one connected with the War Department, to the effect that the great amount of sickness and hardship experienced by troops in the recent manoeuvres would prevent any further repetition of the manoeuvres, was, in all in which it relates to the existence of excessive sickness and hardship during the manoeuvres, wholly false. There was no unusual hardship during the manoeuvres, and the amount of sickness was extremely small, in fact, so small as to be insignificant. The troops and officers engaged in the manoeuvres were keenly interested, and no complaints were made to me during the manoeuvres, although I was present on the field constantly, nor were any complaints made to officers of my staff. There was a general expression of satisfaction in the work and a desire for its repetition.

"Gen. Pew, commanding the entire Blue Division, says this:

> The health of the men during the week, under unusually severe weather conditions, was excellent. In the entire division there were under one hundred cases treated, and these were mostly minor injuries, sore feet, &c.

The Chief Surgeon of the Connecticut Brigade, Red Army, Major McCook, says:

> There was almost no sickness and few accidents, and what we had, as a rule, amounted to little.

"Full reports have not yet been received from the New York and District of Columbia Brigades, but reports made to me by their commanders indicate that there was a surprisingly small amount of sickness, there was no unusual amount of hardship, and that the men are anxious to repeat the experience of this year, and the statement as published creates a false and erroneous impression in the public mind.

"I observed the excellent health of the men myself. I was around the lines at least once a day, and I consider it remarkable. The regular army officers had many fears for the health of the militiamen at the opening of the campaign, and when the two days of cold rain set in our fears increased. I considered the showing remarkable.

"On the other hand, the lessons learned were invaluable. One of them is that we haven't enough regulars or militiamen ready for mobilization to defend a city against such an attack as was made against Boston. The other is that it builds up the spirit of co-operation between the regular army and the National Guard."

"It would be a distinct setback to the preparation of this country for war," said Col. Heistand, Adjutant General of the Department of the East, "to abandon manoeuvres of the character of those in Massachusetts this year. If soldiers do not take care of themselves there is no better way of bringing to the attention of the people of the country that it is necessary to a soldier's health and efficiency for him to have experience, though I am unwilling to admit that there was any great amount of discomfort, or any real hardships suffered in the recent manoeuvres."

MISS ELKINS RETURNS.

Not Engaged to the Duke d'Abruzzi, Say Her Father and Brother.

Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia, whose reported engagement to the Duke of the Abruzzi, cousin of the King of Italy, has long been the talk of two continents, returned from abroad yesterday on the White Star liner Adriatic. With her were her mother and brothers, Davis and Stephen B. Elkins, Jr.

Miss Elkins wore a black velvet suit and a three-cornered hat of olive green, turned up in front. When she came ashore she took a seat on one of their many trunks. To a reporter, she said: "I never talk."

Davis Elkins said that most of the talk about an engagement emanated from this side of the Atlantic. He added that most of the reports on this side were made out of whole cloth.

"So far as I know, my sister is not engaged to marry," he said in reply to a question.

He would not say positively that his sister and the Duke met while they were abroad, but he gave it as his opinion that they had not.

"If my sister met the Duke, I am not aware of it," he said. "I was with her most of the time and would probably know whether there had been such a meeting. I cannot imagine where all these stories originate. The report that my sister and the Duke met at Bad Gastein is false, because we left there before he arrived."

Senator Elkins met his family on the pier. He said that he knew of no engagement, and that the information he had gathered recently in regard to his daughter's affairs came through newspapers.

The Senator switched the conversation around to ship subsidies. While he was talking about that some photographers tried to snapshot his daughter, but her brothers and friends sheltered her from the camera battery.

The Senator appeared much distressed. He said that his daughter had been driven almost to distraction by the continual newspaper stories about her and the reported engagement to the Duke. Miss Elkins has the appearance of having gone through some mental strain.

As to ship subsidies the Senator declared he was heartily in favor of them.

FIGHT FOR CLEAN ICE STOPS.

American Ice Co. Abandons Campaign Against Hudson River Concerns.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Six years of litigation by the American Ice Company against Hudson River industries, which, in their processes of manufacture, injure the new ice, was ended to-day upon the abandonment of a suit brought against the Catskill Cement Company in 1903 to prevent the discharge of dust upon the ice.

The action has been discontinued without payment of costs or compensation by either company to the other.

Thirteen Members of Coaching Club Start from Metropolitan Club to Newport.

R. W. RIVES ON THE BOX

Nineteen Relays of Horses Will Be Used to Cover Distance in Three Days —A. G. Vanderbilt's Long Drive.

One of the longest coaching trips ever attempted was started shortly after noon yesterday from the Metropolitan Club, Sixtieth Street and Fifth Avenue. The run, which will cover 206 miles to Newport, R. I., is held under the auspices of the Coaching Club of New York. The objective point is Alfred G. Vanderbilt's farm at Oakland, about six miles from Newport, and nineteen changes of horses will be made during the trip.

Six minutes after the schedule time to start Harry De Mawbey sounded a long blast on the post horn and Reginald W. Rives, Vice President of the Coaching Club, flourished his whip, which set the four horses in motion. Seated beside him was Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who will drive the last fifty miles of the journey. The other passengers on the coach who will take their turns in driving were: E. Victor Ladew, W. Goadby Loew, William Woodward, George G. Haven, Jr., J. H. Alexandre, Jr., H. E. Coe, Alexander G. Jennings, and Edward Browning, President of the Philadelphia Four-in-hand Club.

The party will be the guests of Alfred G. Vanderbilt at his beautiful residence, Oakland Farm, Saturday night and Sunday. Many other prominent society men will join the party at Oakland Farm. To accommodate the latter Mr. Vanderbilt has ordered his private car "Wayfarer" to be attached to the train leaving the Grand Central Station at three minutes past 1 o'clock to-morrow morning for Newport. The Wayfarer will return on Sunday night, arriving in New York about 7 o'clock Monday morning.

At various points along the road the drivers of the coach will be changed, each member of the party taking his turn at tooling the four. Five minutes before the time set for the start the coach Pioneer, driven by Reginald W. Rives, pulled up alongside the Metropolitan Club. There was little delay, as the members of the party were waiting. Promptly at 12:30 Mr. Rives ordered "all aboard," and two minutes later the coach started on its long journey. The horses tugged at the harness, and as Guard Mawbey sounded "Annie Laurie" the coach rolled off through the entrance of Central Park on the first leg of its journey.

Reginald Rives drove to Jerome Avenue and Fordham Road, where a new relay of horses was hitched to the coach, and G. G. Haven, Jr., drove through New Rochelle to Portchester, where E. Victor Ladew occupied the box seat, carrying the party to Stamford, which was reached shortly after 4 o'clock. W. G. Loew then handled the reins as far as Darien, where another change of horses and drivers took place. H. Allexandre, Jr., drove to Westport, and relinquished the post of honor to A. G. Jennings, who completed the first day's journey to Maitlands, the country home of Mr. Jennings, where the party stopped last night.

The second leg of the journey will start at 8:30 o'clock, with Mr. Jennings again on the box. He will drive to Woodmont, a distance of sixteen miles, where Austen Grey will take up the journey. Three and a half miles further on Reginald C. Vanderbilt, who has been showing his horses at Brockton, Mass., will meet the party with a new relay and drive to Branford. William Woodford will be the next driver and will occupy the front seat as far as Guildford, where P. G. Gerry will do the honors. G. L. Boissevan will be in waiting with four fresh horses at Clinton, where he will resign in favor of H. E. Coe, who will finish out the day, a total distance of 85 6-10 miles. The party will remain over night at New London, where they will be entertained by Vice-Commodore C. Ledyard Blair on his yacht Diana.

The final day will be divided between H. E. Coe and Alfred G. Vanderbilt. The former will drive to Mystic, a distance of nine miles. From this point Mr. Vanderbilt will complete the journey, furnishing relays of horses at Westerly, Charlestown, Wakefield, Saunderstown, and Newport. Cockhorses will be used at various stages of the journey. Mr. Vanderbilt will drive fifty-three miles, which will be the longest distance of any member of the party.

The Coaching Club members have held similar drives for some twenty years as guests of a member. The one preceding yesterday's trip was to A. C. Jenning's country house, Maitlands. The longest drive ever taken by the club was in the early 'nineties, when a 400 mile trip was made to Shelburne Farms, Vt., where the club members were the guests of W. Seward Webb. This trip was only of three days' duration, the teams used on the first day being sent ahead by rail for the service on the last day.

The members of the party will make the complete journey, barring accidents, but no change in the schedule will be made through weather conditions. The entire distance to be covered is 206 19-20 miles.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 7.—Newport is waiting to give a hearty welcome to the members of the New York Coaching Club which started from New York to-day for here as the guests of Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt at his farm in Portsmouth, known as Oakland Farm, where the whips will arrive in good season for dinner Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

The guests will spend Sunday looking over the live stock and farm, and return on board the steam yacht Diana to New York Sunday night.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The first classical performance at the Irving Place Theatre will take place to-night, when Schiller's drama, "Kabale und Liebe," ("Love and Intrigue,") will be presented.

Lina Abarbanell will make her first appearance in "The Love Cure" at the New Amsterdam Theatre next Monday night in the role of Lellie Vaughn. Miss Abarbanell was originally intended for this part, but illness prevented her appearing when the operetta was produced. Elsie Bowen, who has been playing the role, will have an important part in another Savage production.

Eighteen girls who are visiting New York as guests of a Danville (Ill.) newspaper took the part of the stage audience during the second act of "The Midnight Sons" at the Broadway Theatre last night. During the rest of the performance they occupied seats in the orchestra.

Judge Blanchard granted a decree yesterday to Joseph Hart whereby William Gould is restrained from using the song, "Nobody's Satisfied." Mr. Hart contended that he had purchased the song in England for the exclusive use of Carrie De Mar, his wife.

HICKS—BENEDICT.

A wedding of interest to many New Yorkers was that of Miss Nancy Benedict, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Benedict, and De Forrest Hicks of New York, in the Emanuel Church at Athens, Ga., Tuesday night.

Miss Julia Benedict, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and William H. Gage of Detroit, Mich., was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Almy Rodgers Miller of New York, Miss Cleveland Zahner of Atlanta, and Miss Anna Contes Benedict, Miss Anna B. Phinize, Miss Isabel Thomas, and Miss Isabel Fleming of Athens, Ga.

The ushers were Edwin P. Taylor, Jr., of New York, Dr. Imlay Benet, and Dr. S. Ravand Benedict, also of New York; Hunter H. Galloway of Jackson City, Tenn.; T. Hubbard Mc. Hatton of Macon, Ga., and Dillard B. Sewell of Athens.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks will sail for Europe on Saturday, and on their return will reside in New York.

WITTIE—BURRIS.

The marriage of Miss Madeline Grace Burris, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Burris, to William Henry Wittie, took place yesterday at the Burris country home, Flushing, L. I. The bride wore a gown of white satin and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her father gave her in marriage. Miss Kathleen McSherry was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Grace Leslie and Lenore Wittie. William Maher was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Witte left immediately after the wedding for Canada, where they will spend their honeymoon.

GOSS—WETZEL.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Wetzel of 72 Riverside Drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred Wetzel, to Ralph Homer Goss of New York, formerly of Cleveland, Ohio.

Ensign Dyer to Wed Miss Lydecker.

Ensign Horace Tyler Dyer, U. S. N., obtained yesterday at the City Hall a license to marry Miss Nathalie Lydecker, daughter of Charles E. Lydecker of 11 East Eighty-first Street.

Social Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. John I. Waterbury arrived yesterday on the Adriatic from London, where they passed most of the Summer.

FOR THOSE WHO LIVE BY BRAIN WORK.

THE POET OF ZION SUFFERS PARALYSIS

Napthali Herz Imber, Beloved by His People on the East Side, Dying in a Hospital.

WROTE IN CLASSIC HEBREW

His "Hatikvah," the Zionist Hymn, Is Sung by Jews All Over the World.

Naphtali Herz Imber, author of many poems in Yiddish and classic Hebrew, and a familiar figure on the east side, is dying of paralysis at the Har Moriah Hospital, 138 East Second Street. He was taken to the hospital two weeks ago suffering from a complication of diseases, but under the charm of the mild autumn weather he left the hospital last Thursday and wandered around to all his old-time haunts. He was found unconscious in Forsyth Street, after suffering a stroke of paralysis, by Bernard Semel, President of the hospital, and again removed there. It was said yesterday that his death was only a matter of hours.

Imber is best known as the author of "Hatikvah," the Zionist National hymn, written in the ancient Hebrew and chanted by Zionists throughout the world. He wrote many other poems, both in Yiddish and Hebrew, among the latest of which was a Hebrew translation of Omar Khayam, dedicated to Judge Mayer Sulzberger of Philadelphia, upon whom he was fond of looking as one of his many patrons. The translation is introduced with a joyful eulogy of Omar and the sparkling cups, one of the sincerest pieces he ever wrote.

It was where sparkling cups were that Imber was ever to be found. He was master of some eight languages, had read widely, and was a good, if prolific, talker. Before he was stricken he had just finished a poem in Hebrew written to commemorate the Hudson-Fulton Celebration.

He was born in Galicia. When 16 years old he became anxious to see Palestine, and he managed ultimately to reach Jerusalem. Later he loved to tell how he had fooled boorish frontier officials by showing them his Austrian railroad ticket instead of a passport. Part of the time he was companion to traveling Christians and under their care; at others, he served as secretary to a Russian General.

It is thought by many on the east side that Imber was the prototype of Zangwill's Melchisedek Pinchas in "The Children of the Ghetto" and other stories. But this Imber steadfastly denied, pointing out that Zangwill was a close personal friend of his and a liberal subscriber to some of his publications. He classed also among his friends many other men prominent in Jewish circles, whom he visited frequently. He was always on hand at any Zionist convention, and always insisted upon being allowed to address the assembly. This permission was usually accorded to him, subject to conditions and limitations, for everywhere Imber was looked upon with a kindly tolerance and indulgence. He was often patronized by persons whom, in intellectual attainments and wit, he far outranked.

For several years the poet, owing largely to the unconventional life he led, had been in ill health. Despite the familiarity with which he was looked upon by all in the many restaurants and cafes he frequented, he bore himself with dignity. When young college students would, to flatter him, tell him they should like to be able to speak Hebrew as he did, he would reply:

"Say, rather, that you wish you could speak English as well as I do."

At another time one of his admirers is said to have remarked that his face greatly resembled that of Edgar Allan Poe.

"What!" he exclaimed, glancing up with a smile, out of his goblet: "That drinker!"

GOODWIN FOR MUSICAL PLAY.

Arranges with McLellan and Caryll for a New Comedy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Nat Goodwin has ambitions to renew his old triumph as a singing comedian. He has contracted with C. M. S. McLellan, part author of "The Belle of New York," and Ivan Caryll, composer, to write for him a new and original musical play.

Goodwin will act the leading part.

GEN. LAWRENCE BUCHAN DEAD

Commandant of Canadian Militia—Decorated for Bravery in Boer War.

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—Brigadier Gen. Lawrence Buchan, commandant of the Montreal District of the Canadian militia, aged 62, died here this morning after a brief illness.

Brigadier Gen. Lawrence Buchan was born on Jan. 29, 1847. After being graduated from the Upper Canada College he began his military career as an ensign of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada in 1872. Three years later he was made Captain and Adjutant. He served with distinction throughout the campaign in the Northwest in 1885. He also participated in the Boer war, and for his gallantry in that campaign was decorated with the C. M. G. and a medal. He had been commanding officer of the Province of Quebec since 1905.

MRS. ALFRED L. RIVES DEAD.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Alfred L. Rives, 76 years old, widow of Col. Alfred Landon Rives, died this morning at Castle Hill, near Cobham, the ancestral home of the family in Virginia.

Mrs. Rives was Miss Sarah Catherine Mamurdo of Richmond. She is survived by three daughters, Amelie Rives, the authoress, former wife of John Armstrong Chanler, now Princess Thoubetzkoy; Mrs. Allan Potts, the well-known Virginia horsewoman, and Miss Landon Rives of Castle Hill.

Col. Robert B. Snowden.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 7.—Col. Robert B. Snowden of Memphis, a prominent capitalist, and one of the best-known business men of the South, died suddenly in Atlantic City Wednesday night.

Robert Bogardus Snowden was born in New York City on May 24, 1836. He was a lineal descendant of Everardus Bogardus, one of the first settlers of New Amsterdam. He moved to Tennessee when a boy and received his education there. He started his career as a clerk in a Nashville grocery store, and later went into the business for himself. At the outbreak of the civil war he enlisted in the Confederate Army. He served until 1865, when he surrendered to the Union Army with Gen. Lee. When the war closed, Mr. Snowden returned to his native city and engaged in the importing business. He became very wealthy, and years afterward returned to Memphis. He was President of the George Peabody Real Estate and Improvement Company, and was interested in many other enterprises.

Robert Hoe's Funeral Next Tuesday.

Funeral services for Robert Hoe, head of the printing press manufacturing firm of Robert Hoe & Co., who died in London on Sept. 22, will be held at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Fifty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue, Tuesday, Oct. 12. The interment will be in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, at Tarrytown. A special train will leave the Grand Central Station at 11:15 o'clock, immediately after the funeral services at the church.

MRS. ETTIE HENDERSON DEAD.

Aged Actress, Playwright, and Theatre Owner Dies at Long Branch.

Mrs. Ettie Henderson, actress, playwright, and owner of the Academy of Music in Jersey City, died from heart disease after an illness, of four weeks, at her country home in Long Branch, N. J., Wednesday night. Mrs. Henderson was stricken while returning from a drive several weeks ago. She was 74 years old.

Mrs. Henderson was born in London, but came to this country at the age of four years with her father, Henry Lewis, then a well-known magician of the English stage. She made her initial appearance on the stage at the age of 10 years in a play called "The Stranger." She was educated at the Convent of Notre Dame in Cincinnati, Ohio, and in 1835 married William Henderson at Philadelphia. Mr. Henderson built the Standard Theatre, which later became the Manhattan Theatre, at Thirty-third Street and Sixth Avenue in this city, and Opera Houses at Providence, R. I., and at Pittsburg. All of these his wife later managed.

After her marriage Mrs. Henderson became permanently connected with the stage. She appeared at Memphis and Nashville in 1860 and 1861, under the management of William H. Crisp, and in 1863 starred in "Fanchon" throughout England. During the civil war her husband took the Pittsburg Theatre, and she collaborated with him in the authorship of several plays for it. After a tour of the United States, she resigned in order to write and adapt successful plays, among them being "Marriage," "Claire," and "The Forgemaster." In 1889 her husband died, and she took over the management of all his theatres until 1899, when she was succeeded by her younger son, Frank E. Henderson. William J. Henderson, her other son, is a well-known journalist and author and musical critic of The New York Sun.

Since 1863 Mrs. Henderson's residence had been at Long Branch, where she had a large estate. A part of the original house, which was built 120 years ago, is still standing.

T. LUIS DE ONATIVIA DEAD.

Former New York Society Man Had Had Three American Wives.

Tomascito Luis de Onativia, member of an old and honored Cuban family, who, in the forty-third year of his life, had had three American wives, two of whom he divorced, died at his residence in Paris, France, on Thursday. He had been living there for several years, though visiting from time to time his estate at Leamington, England, and in Paris he will be buried. But in the nineties, and for several years later, he was well known about this city as a club and society man.

Mr. Onativia's first wife was the daughter of Major J. C. Cooley of Westchester. He married her in 1898, and in 1896 he gained a divorce, with the provision that he should provide funds for the support of the son that resulted from the marriage. Mrs. Onativia soon after married a Mr. Cowden.

Mr. Onativia then set out on a tour of the Continent, and finally wound up in Cairo, Egypt. Mrs. Henry Atwater Jerome, whose husband, a relative of Mrs. Cornwallis West and connected with the Jeromes of this city, had obtained a divorce in 1897 on the ground of desertion, and whose maiden name was Miss Lillie A. Hastings, after her divorce, she, too, had wandered to Cairo. Mr. Onativia married her in February, 1898, and for several years they lived together happily on his estates in England and France.

In June, 1903, while he was recovering from an injury received in riding, his wife went to Paris, leaving him in England. He joined her later, and soon after sued for a divorce, the name of an Englishman, Rivington, figuring in the proceedings. When the case came to trial Mrs. Onativia could be found nowhere.

Six months later Mr. Onativia married Miss Grace Knight Underhill, daughter of the manager of the Bell Telephone Company in Texas, whose husband had been a real estate operator. Mr. Onativia met her in Paris, and report has it proposed while the two were gliding in a gondola over the Grand Canal.

In 1906 Mrs. Lillie Jerome-Onativia began proceedings to have the divorce from Mr. Onativia annulled. It had been granted in a French court, and she opened her case with the claim that she had never been served with papers. The court upheld the original decision.

Major George P. Hilton.

ALBANY, Oct. 7.—Major George P. Hilton, President of the Albany Chamber of Commerce and head of the John G. Myers Company of Albany, was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage shortly after noon to-day and died to-night. He was well known in business, financial, and social circles. Mr. Hilton was very active in arranging for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration in Albany.

BRITISH OFFICERS IN HORSE SHOW HERE

MAY BE OTHER COUNTRIES

American Cavalrymen Also to Take Part In Military Jumps—Garden Exhibition Begins Nov. 8.

Crack military officers of the English Army will compete at the National Horse Show to be held at Madison Square Garden from Nov. 8 to 13. This will be the first time that an officer of the British service has taken part in an event in the United States. The cablegram announcing the entries was received by Alfred G. Vanderbilt, President of the National Horse Show Association, yesterday prior to his coaching trip to Newport.

The announcement was received from Major the Hon. J. G. Beresford, D. S. O., Seventh Hussars, a relative of Lord Charles and Lord Marcus Beresford and a nephew of the Marquis of Waterford, and was dated from the great English military camp, Aldershot.

Although the actual number of English officers was not specified, Major Beresford announced that the selection would be made from Col. H. Grenfell, Third King's Dragoon Guards; Major P. D. Fitz-Gerald, D. S. O., Eleventh Princess of Wales Hussars; Major Thompson, Third King's Dragoon Guards; Capt. A. B. Pollock, Seventh Queen's Own Hussars; Capt. C. F. Van der Byl, Sixteenth Queen's Lancers; Lieut. M. Graham, Sixteenth Queen's Lancers; Lieut. T. L. Horn, Sixteenth Queen's Lancers; Lieut. L. V. Owsten, Third King's Dragoon Guards, and Lieut. the Hon. D. P. Tollemacke, Seventh Queen's Own Hussars.

These officers took part in the recent International Horse Show at the London Olympia, and the announcement is expected to bring officers from other European armies, as the rivalry between the cavalry officers in Europe is very keen.

The classes for which the British officers will be eligible are Class 131, for the Louisville Cup, presented by M. L. Akers for officers' chargers (heavy weight) up to carrying 210 pounds; Class 132, for officers' chargers (middle weight) up to carrying 180 pounds; Class 153, for officers only, for cup presented by R. P. McGrann, Lancaster, Penn., and cash presented by the Hotel Association of New York City. First jump, board fence 4 feet 3 inches high; second jump, stone wall 4 feet high; third jump, double post and rails 4 feet high and thirty feet apart, (twice around;) Class 154, over same course by teams of two officers of same nationality, the fences to be taken two abreast, and Class 155, for cup presented by Robert A. Fairbairn of Westfield, N. J., and cash presented by the Hotel Association of New York City for water jump.

Capt. W. C. Short, Thirteenth Cavalry, U. S. A., notified the management yesterday that five cavalry officers and fourteen horses from Fort Riley, Kan., would participate in the classes for which the British officers are entered.

Robert A. Fairbairn, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors, who returned from Europe yesterday, said that the entries in all classes would close on Saturday, Oct. 16, and that, judging from the inquiries, the event would be a record breaker. More than 6,000 prize lists were sent to prospective entrants in this country and abroad.

CONFER ON FUTURE OF CHICAGO SUBWAY

TALK OF A REORGANIZATION

Death of E. H. Harriman Said to Make It Necessary to Seek Funds Elsewhere—Conferees Silent.

Although it has been repeatedly denied by officials of the Chicago Subway Company, while the stock of the concern has been going steadily down in the curb market under heavy selling, that any reorganization of the property is impending, a long conference was held yesterday at the office of L. C. Krauthoff in the National City Bank building between representatives of J. Ogden Armour and the Harriman estate, who control the property, and the principal bondholders.

Mr. Krauthoff, who is counsel for the Armour interests, refused to say after the meeting what had been done, and the conferees avoided reporters. But it was learned that the meeting, which is one of a number to be held, had been called to settle the future policy of the company.

Henry W. De Forest was present, representing the Harriman estate, and J. B. Russell of J. B. Russell & Co., who were fiscal agents of the Illinois Tunnel Company, which the Chicago Subway Company controls, represented underlying bondholders. Samuel McRoberts, until recently president of the Illinois Tunnel Company, and the personal representative of J. Ogden Armour, was also present.

Since the organization of the Chicago Subway Company, in 1904, to take over the Illinois Tunnel Company, the Illinois Telephone Construction Company, and the Chicago Warehouse and Terminal Company, the funds for the development of the property have been supplied by J. Ogden Armour and E. H. Harriman.

The Harriman-Armour interests decided at that time to add about forty miles of subway to that already built, and make the connections with all the railroad freighthouses in Chicago complete before carrying out the plans of the company for obtaining the freight-distributing business of the mercantile section of the city. This work has now been done, and the company has been doing a rapidly increasing business in the last few months, which, it has been said, assures income enough to take care of fixed charges.

J. B. Russell refused yesterday to admit that the object of the conferences was to draw plans for a reorganization of the property, but it is understood that the death of E. H. Harriman has made it necessary to find other sources of funds.

CHEEVER IRON ORE CO. SOLD.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation Gets Control of Port Henry Mines.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation, which has, in the last year, enlarged its holdings of iron ore properties in the East, has just purchased, through its subsidiary, the Bethlehem Iron Mines Company, a controlling interest in the Cheever Iron Ore Company at Port Henry, N. Y.

The ore of this property, it is stated, will mix to advantage with the company's Cuban ores, and it is the intention to increase the output of the Port Henry mines from 350 tons a day to 500 tons.

Witherbee, Sherman & Co., who retain 49 per cent. of the stock of the property, will continue to operate it, and the Bethlehem Company will take the entire output.

G. F. BAKER SEES PROSPERITY.

Banker Thinks the Conditions Here Better Than in Europe.

George F. Baker, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank, and Mrs. Baker, arrived yesterday from abroad on the White Star liner Adriatic. They were met by their son, George F. Baker, Jr., in his yacht, the Viking.

Mr. Baker was away about three months. Observations, he said, had shown him that business conditions here were in better shape than in Europe.

Another arrival on the Adriatic was John I. Waterbury, President of the Manhattan Trust Company. He, too, thought the outlook here promising.

More Mines for Phelps, Dodge & Co.

Phelps, Dodge & Co., according to an announcement made yesterday, have added to their New Mexican mining properties by the purchase of the copper interests of Nathan Leopold & Co. of Chicago in the Burro Mountain district. These consist of about 1,000 acres. The mines, although they have not yet produced metal for the market, are said to have been sufficiently developed to show values. They will be held by the purchasers as a reserve.

Erwin & Co.'s Second Report Out.

Warren W. Erwin & Co., the Consolidated Exchange brokerage house which, following the Hughes Investigating Committee's report last June recommending a similar overseeing of brokers' books to that exercised over banks by the State and National authorities, had a firm of public accountants draw up a statement of their condition, issued a second report yesterday. This shows assets of $471,851, in which securities held are valued at market prices, and a net surplus of assets over all liabilities of $50,000.

RECEIVER FOR HAUPTNER & CO

Partners in Shirt Making Firm Disagree and Will Dissolve.

Supreme Court Justice Brady has appointed Alexander Brough receiver for the partnership assets of the firm of Charles Hauptner & Co., shirtmakers and dealers in men's furnishing goods at 1,272 Broadway, in a suit brought by Herbert H. Maas, attorney for George C. Hoffman, one of the partners, against Charles Hauptner, the other partner, for a dissolution of the partnership, and an accounting. It was stated that the firm was perfectly solvent, with assets of $56,353 and liabilities of $24,818, leaving a surplus of $31,535.

Mr. Hauptner established the business in 1876, and Mr. Hoffman became a partner on Aug. 1, 1899. The partnership expired on last Aug. 31, and the partners disagreed over the liquidation of the business. Mr. Hoffman alleged that Mr. Hauptner appropriated the entire assets and lease of the store, and in a letter to Mr. Hoffman of Sept. 18, Mr. Hauptner said he had charged his account on the books with $31,535, closed the books, took over the assets, and assumed the liabilities.

Mr. Hauptner admitted that he had taken the assets, because Mr. Hoffman had drawn out all his capital and was indebted to the firm for $7,708. Mr. Hauptner sold the assets to a corporation called the Charles Hauptner Company, which he incorporated on Sept. 14, with a capital stock of $100,000.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

MORRIS WEISS.—Morris Weiss, cloak manufacturer of 15 West Seventeenth Street, has been granted a discharge from bankruptcy by Judge Holt. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against him on April 26, 1907, and his liabilities were $10,821.

NEW HAVEN STOCK PLAN.

Lump Payment Barred In Coming Issue of $40,000,000 by Company.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 7.—In regard to the coming issue of $40,000,000 of new stock by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company the official statement is made that the privilege will not be given, as in the case of convertible bonds recently issued, of paying up the whole amount at the outset of the issue or in instalments at the option of the subscribers to the new stock.

It is explained that as the money obtained will be used in instalments for paying off maturing obligations and other purposes, that full payment would compel the company to keep on hand a large amount of money drawing a low rate of interest, while on the other hand it would be forced to pay 8 per cent., the normal dividend, upon the new stock issued.

In regard to the reported plan of the New York, New Haven & Hartford to secure a right of way through Greenwich for its New York and West Chester line, the official statement is made that while such a plan was for some time under consideration it has now been definitely abandoned and a new route adopted which is not disclosed.

The plan of pushing the new line up into Westchester County has not been abandoned or modified. The same is true of the proposed route by way of the bridge over Hell Gate, which, however, of late has made no progress.

French Exports to Us Continue High.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—The large increase in French exports to the United States under the new tariff law, noted first in September, is continuing in October. The figures for the first six days of October from the district of Consul General Mason alone show 7,061 invoices, valued at $14,470,791, as against 5,725 invoices, valued at $8,472,177 for the corresponding period of 1908. This is an increase of 70 per cent.

ENGLISH BANK RATE UP

Advance Is Response to Gold Drain to Egypt and Our Flurry—Railroad Earnings Continue to Gain.

In the London cables the advance in the discount rate of the Bank of England to 3 per cent., from the 2½ per cent. quotation in force since April last, was ascribed to heavy withdrawals of gold for Egypt, which led to a decline of 5 points in the reserve percentage within a week, and to the rise in money here, which promised to influence a gold movement in our favor. Presumably the bank's management had also in mind the very large placements of English capital in the New York market over the past two months. In any case the net result, so far as the local money market is concerned, has been to fix higher the rates to which funds must go here before gold comes in, this being only another way of saying that we must pay more for gold if we get it from London. The Bank of Germany had already advanced its discount, and it now remains to be seen what action the Bank of France will take. The gold holdings of the French institution are enormous, so much so that the advisability has been mooted of opening a portfolio for foreign bills to provide employment for them. Foreign exchange rates were directly affected by the step of the English Bank holding steady at the figure to which they so promptly advanced on Wednesday's money flurry. A very interesting and possibly significant feature of the money market was the relative ease in time money rates. The inconsequential advances which have occurred in most maturities appear to indicate a belief on the part of lenders that the period of high call rates will be rather brief. Withdrawals of deposits by out of town institutions for direct lending here, the payment by the Government of $1,000,000 to the Philippine Administration, which went into bank deposits, and the intervention of foreign lenders, along with the liquidation in the stock market, all point to a better bank return this week.

On a steadily diminishing volume of transactions prices rose very sharply in the early dealings on the Stock Exchange, but thereafter sagged to the close of the day. Final quotations represented gains with the great majority of shares, but these gains were under the maximum advances of the day, and were confined for the most part to moderate fractions. From the railroad and industrial worlds all reports were of most excellent character. The Great Northern Railroad announced a gain of $685,000 in its gross earnings for the month of September and weekly statements of other properties were upon a similarly advancing scale. Dividend increases were made by a number of industrial concerns, while one of the leading mercantile agencies reporting on September's failures found them considerably under those of any previous month of the year, both in number and amount of money involved.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Disappointment Over Rubber.

A matter over which traders professed a great deal of disappointment yesterday was the determination of the United States Rubber Company to omit again the payment of a dividend on its common stock. A good deal of buying of copper shares had been predicated upon the belief that a distribution would be made at yesterday's meeting of the directors, but so far as the company itself is concerned, this belief had been formed without encouragement. Coupled with talk of this kind regarding the Rubber dividend was similar discussion of the action of St. Louis and San Francisco directors, who met on Wednesday without declaring a resumption of dividends upon 'Frisco second preferred stock. All this is simply reflective of the shifting sand upon which speculation in Wall Street is built.

"Katy" Up Two Points.

Missouri, Kansas & Texas, or "Katy," as it is best known in the Street, startled the small army of speculators who have been interested in the property ever since the stories of "Hill buying" began to circulate several years ago, by a rise of more than 2 points. At the highest price it reached yesterday, however, it is still under quotations it attained many months ago when a movement in it attracted a following. Commenting on the eagerness with which the stock was bought at that time one trader said yesterday that, if purchasers of "Katy" above 40 had been permitted to form a division of the recent historical parade, "it would have taken them all alone more than four hours to pass a given point."

Union Pacific Changes.

At the annual meeting of the Union Pacific stockholders to be held next Tuesday, it is expected that Henry W. De Forest, who is now a director of the Southern Pacific, will be elected a director also of the Union Pacific. William Mahl, controller of the road, it was said yesterday, is likely to leave the directorate, it being understood that he accepted the post of director some time ago to fill a vacancy until a permanent choice for the place was made. The annual meeting of the stockholders will be followed shortly by the organization meeting of the directors, at which a new President will probably be elected. The belief is entertained in the financial district that Judge R. S. Lovett, who recently was elected Chairman of the road's Executive Committee, will be selected as the new President. He has been regarded all along by some of the directors of the road as the logical successor to Mr. Harriman as head of the Union Pacific.

Toledo & Ohio Central Dividends.

The annual report of the Toledo & Ohio Central, issued yesterday, revealed the payment of 5 per cent. dividends on the road's preferred stock and 1 per cent. on its common stock in each of the last two years, one year's dividend being entered against current income and the other year's dividend being charged against surplus. The Toledo & Ohio Central is owned by the Hocking Valley, through the medium of a New Jersey corporation, and the benefit of these dividends accrues, therefore, to the Hocking Valley. Up to a few years ago a small minority of Toledo & Ohio Central was outstanding in the hands of individual holders, but all of this stock was finally acquired in the interest of the Hocking Valley. Some of the minority holders realized high prices on their small blocks of this stock.

Reforming the Curb.

Pending the report of the Special Committee of the Stock Exchange on their desirability as unofficial adjuncts of Exchange houses Curb brokers are beginning to feel uneasy. Some action is looked for by the Exchange which will be supplementary to the reforms the Curb men have had under way for two years in their endeavor to keep swindling stocks out of the Broad Street enclosure, but no one is able to predict what it will be. Meanwhile a few of the mining share promoters whose business comes chiefly from the outside public, and who have had hard scraping since the collapse of the mining boom in 1906, are talking of joining forces with the stock department of the Produce Exchange at which the Hughes Committee took such a hard rap in its report. It is this class of Curb trading that the Stock Exchange representatives outside would like to see eliminated. Already there has been some talk of the Stock Exchange establishing a rule about deliveries on Curb contracts which would practically eliminate from the market all brokers except those with Stock Exchange connections.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Discounts Advance in London on Raising of Bank Rate.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Money was in smaller supply and dearer on the market to-day, while discounts advanced in sympathy with the advance in the Bank of England's rate from 2½ to 3 per cent.

Trading on the Stock Exchange showed no particular movement or feature. The advance in the bank rate had practically no effect, and the market is now talking of a further rise of one-half of 1 per cent. It is argued that a 3 per cent. rate will not stop the outflow of gold, and in many quarters a 4 per cent. rate is expected before the end of the year.

Heaviness prevailed in Kaffirs, while Consols eased. Home rails and foreigners were cheerful, and Rio Tintos improved on the announcement of an interim dividend of 30s, less the tax.

American securities opened a fraction higher. Prices then improved under the lead of United States Steel, and in spite of a slight easing on account of the increase in the discount rate the market at noon was steady, with prices ranging from ⅛ above to ¼ below yesterday's New York closing. Canadian Pacific improved on the bonus in connection with the new issue, but the market drooped after noon until New York turned buyer and caused an improvement. The close was firm.

Bar silver quiet, 23¾d per ounce.

Money, 1@1¼ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2⅝ per cent.; for three months' bills, 2⅝@2¾ per cent.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—After a weaker opening to-day on the raising of the discount rate of the Bank of England prices on the Bourse stiffened.

Three per cent. rentes, 97f 40c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 18c for checks.

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—The tendency of prices on the Boerse to-day was firm.

BIG GERMAN LOAN NEXT YEAR.

Tageblatt Says Issue of $125,000,000 Will Be Asked to Meet Deficit.

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—The Imperial Government will ask for a loan of $125,000,000 in the beginning of 1910, the Tageblatt says to-day in its financial article, to cover deficits.

This, according to the newspaper, accounts for the recent tendency to sell imperial issues on the Boerse.

Bank of France.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes: Notes in circulation decreased 47,075,000f, Treasury deposits decreased 82,125,000f, general deposits decreased 28,800,000f, gold in hand decreased 13,350,000f, silver in hand decreased 3,025,000f, bills discounted decreased 209,200,000f, and advances increased 24,075,000f.

Bank of England.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes: Total reserve decreased £2,340,000, circulation increased £19,000, bullion decreased £2,321,718, other securities decreased £58,000, other deposits increased £2,535,000, public deposits decreased £1,837,000, notes reserve decreased £2,416,000, and Government securities increased £2,476,000.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The Daily Consular and Trade Reports for to-morrow note the following trade opportunities. Further information regarding these can be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

3,948. COTTON SEED OIL—A report has been received from an American Consular officer in Northern Europe, in which it is stated that a commission merchant in his district desires to obtain the agency for a first-class American firm exporting cotton seed oil.

3,949. MOLASSES FOR RUSSIA—A Russian business house advises an American Consular officer that the company is desirous of obtaining information and prices from large American house producing molasses of various grades.

3,950. SMELTER AND GOLD MILL MACHINERY—An American Consul in Latin America furnished a report regarding the following proposed undertakings in his district: (1.) A mining company will build a 600-ton smelter at its mines at an estimated cost of $500,000. Plans for this smelter are now being drawn. (2.) An American business man has secured a contract to build a 100-ton gold mill for a mining company. (3.) Another mining company will erect a small gold mill of about 100 tons capacity at its mines. The names of the foregoing parties were given in the report of the Consul.

3,951. AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY AND TRACTION ENGINES—An American machinery supply house writes that one of its clients in the Far East is desirous of getting in touch with manufacturers of thrashing, reaping, and drain-making machinery, and steam plowing and traction engines to be used for work on the rice lands, which have been just cleared of timber. The firm states that as the undertaking of its client in developing the country progresses, it is his desire to introduce American agricultural machinery on a large scale, as there seems to be an unlimited market for it.

3,952. MOTOR BOATS FOR THE WEST INDIES—A communication received from the New York Export and Import Company requesting to be put in touch with manufacturers of motor boats suitable for the West Indies, as it is in the market for the same.

3,953. ARTIFICIAL SCHOOL SLATES—An American Consular officer in Western Europe reports that a manufacturer of blackboards in his district advises him that he is desirous of importing American artificial school slates in Belgium, France, Holland, and Germany, in which countries he has business connection.

3,954. LIGNUM-VITAE FURNITURE CASTOR WHEELS—A Canadian business man writes that he is open for quotations of lignum-vitae furniture castor wheels, and would like to hear from firms in the United States manufacturing same.

3,955. GRAIN SEEDS FOR LATIN AMERICA—An American Consul in Latin America has secured from the Minister of Agriculture of the country in which he is located a list of the grain seeds which can most usefully be exported from the United States together with an indication as to which district of the country they will be particularly suited, and the reasons therefor.

3,956. NOVELTIES AND ARTICLES FOR HOUSEHOLD USE—A firm of general import merchants in Australia advises an American Consul that it is in touch with the leading wholesale and retail houses of that country, and would like to obtain the agency for Australia of American manufacturers of novelties and articles for household use.

3,957. AMERICAN GOODS FOR TURKEY—A communication received from a business house in Turkey requesting to be placed in direct touch with American manufacturers of the following classes of goods: Petroleum, cotton drills, cotton yarn, news paper, corn oil, linseed oil, corn seed, printing machines, and "rhum" rubbers, galoches.) The firm states that a good business can be developed in the foregoing lines in Turkey, Egypt, and in region bordering the Black Sea. Its traveling salesmen cover this territory twice a year, and are in position to make good sales for any manufacturers whose processes compare favorably with those of European countries.

To-morrow and Monday are the two last days of registration. If you fail to register you cannot vote at the election on Nov. 2. The registration places open at 7 A. M. and close at 10 P. M. A full list of registration places in Manhattan and the Bronx is printed elsewhere in THE TIMES to-day. Register to-morrow.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—The local market opened steady and trading, especially during the early hours, was active. The market quieted down quite a little in the afternoon, however, but prices continued to advance in all departments, and the closing was strong. United Fruit advanced 2 points and United States Oil, Shoe Machinery, and American Telephone were each up a full point. In the copper list an advance of 2 points in Isle Royale was the feature of the late trading. Greene-Cananea reached the high level for this movement on a continuation of what looked like inside buying. A fresh buying movement started in United States Smelting common, which advanced the price a fraction.

ENGLISH BANK RATE UP.

Increase Due to Drain of Gold to Egypt and Argentina.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Governors of the Bank of England raised the minimum discount rate from 2½ per cent. to 3 per cent. to-day. This is the first change since April 1, when the rate was reduced from 3 per cent.

The decision to raise the rate was due to the large inroads on the Bank's reserve already made by exports to Egypt, which were necessary for the financing of the cotton crop, and the Argentina withdrawals. The Governors were unable to offset these by securing fresh arrivals from the mines, owing to the sustained demand from Russia, which has absorbed the available supply week after week, preventing the Bank from building up its reserve.

A fresh element in the situation, however, undoubtedly influencing the Directors in their decision is yesterday's decline in New York exchange on London, the recent sharp rise in money, and the calling of loans in New York, which will probably necessitate the withdrawal of gold for that quarter against finance paper placed here some time ago and fresh bills still coming forward.

The higher rate, although it was expected soon, was not generally looked for to-day. It had little effect on the Stock Exchange beyond a fractional easing in American securities, operators generally considering 3 per cent. a good working rate.

REICHSBANK MAY RAISE RATE.

Berlin Boerse Expects a Slight Advance Monday.

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—The advance in the Bank of England rate, while not influencing the open market here, has caused discounters to assume an attitude of greater reserve, because they believe the Reichsbank will be compelled to resort to another advance.

It is understood that the managers have already been conferring on this subject but have come to no final decision. Reports inspired in Reichsbank circles indicate that the week's recovery movement has been unsatisfactory.

The Boerse expects a slight advance Monday.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Thursday.

Room traders on the Consolidated Stock Exchange were buyers of United States Steel common in the early dealings, but changed their attitude later, offering it freely, so that for a time it ruled fractionally under the New York Stock Exchange quotation. Covering of shorts on a large scale took place on the final afternoon decline, and this prevented the stock from selling below 89¾, compared with a low on the other Exchange of 89¼. The final sale of the day was at 89¾, ¼ of a point above the closing price of the other board. Total sales were 103,780 shares, distributed among fifty-eight different issues.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Chicago Subway sank to a new low level under liquidation, selling down to 4¾. The stock came on the market persistently and there seemed to be no effort made to rally it. Sears-Roebuck sold again at 122 and the preferred at 117¾. Brick was higher, but closed steady. Subway recovered before the close to 5⅜. Sears yielded to 119 late, at which it closed. Biscuit common advanced a point, to 116.

TRICKY BONDSMEN GET A HARD BLOW

City Court Judge's Decision Against Max E. Bloch Likely to Prove a Deterrent.

JAIL SENTENCE AND A FINE

He Is Ordered to Pay $2,120, the Amount of the Bond, and Serve Two Months.

What reputable lawyers said yesterday was a new and effective remedy for the "shyster" surety evil has become public with the recent handing down of a decision by Judge Delehanty in the City Court. The decision was made in connection with contempt proceedings recently held before him.

Max E. Bloch is a $27-a-week bookkeeper for the Lamport Manufacturers' Supply Company at 273 Canal Street. He lives on the east side, and has for some time been friendly with Benjamin Koronsky, a coal merchant in Corlears Street.

Koronsky got $1,200 worth of coal from a reputable coal dealer some time ago and didn't pay for it. By perjured witnesses and other legal tricks Koronsky managed to stave off an attachment on his property for a while. But the coal dealer's lawyer, Yorke Allen of 135 Broadway, finally succeeded in having a Sheriff placed in charge of Koronsky's premises. Then Koronsky persuaded a City Court Judge to have the Sheriff withdrawn during some more legal proceedings and to accept instead two "sureties" who pledged themselves to pay Koronsky's debt if Koronsky, at the end of the legal proceedings, didn't pay the debt himself. One of the sureties was Bloch.

When all the further legal proceedings had gone against Koronsky, Mr. Allen, for the coal concern, again tried to levy on Koronsky's property. He found that, after the withdrawal of the Sheriff, Koronsky, by a legal trick, had disposed of all his property and that there was nothing to levy on.

Mr. Allen then tried to levy on Koronsky's two "sureties." But one of them had conveniently died, while the other, Bloch, had disposed of his property, too, very much as Koronsky had done.

The "shyster" surety game is so common on the east side and has hitherto proved so hard to beat that Mr. Allen was inclined at first to give up the fight. Then he hit on the plan of going before the same court which had listened to Koronsky and Bloch's tricky pleas, and moving that the latter be adjudged in contempt of court. He told the court the deception which had been practiced on it and asked the Judge whether the court intended to countenance that sort of thing.

Judge Delehanty imposed a term of two months' imprisonment on Bloch and fined him $2,120, covering the amount of the original bond and the costs. In his opinion, Judge Delehanty says:

"If conduct such as this is not summarily condemned in the severest terms the administration will be brought into well-merited disrepute. It is time that persons who engage in such an attempt to deceive the court, and induce it to adopt a course which results in defrauding one whom the court is bound to protect, should be summarily dealt with."

Bloch, the "surety" whose action the court thus condemns, will probably appeal and try to get Judge Delehanty's decision reversed. Mr. Allen said yesterday that he intended to fight the case from one court to another until he placed Bloch in prison.

Lawyers, commenting on Judge Delehanty's decision, said yesterday that heretofore there has seemed to be no redress against the "shyster" sureties of the city courts.

SAYS NO TO MRS. BELMONT.

Miss Mary MacArthur Declines to Explain Attitude on Woman's Suffrage.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 7.—Miss Mary MacArthur declines to make any statement of her faith on woman's suffrage for the benefit of Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont. The Englishwoman said to-day in Chicago she would not wire the New York papers any such declaration as seemed to be called for in Mrs. Belmont's telegram in regard to a meeting in New York at which Miss MacArthur had been invited to speak.

Mrs. Belmont had arranged the meeting for a week from Sunday. She invited Miss MacArthur to speak on why suffrage is needed by working women. Then Mrs. Belmont read in a New York newspaper that Miss MacArthur had warned working girls against Suffragettes of this country and England.

A telegram to Mrs. Raymond Robins at Chicago contained this brief statement: "New York meeting cancelled." Mrs. Robbins wired Mrs. Belmont that the statements printed misrepresented Miss MacArthur. Thereupon Mrs. Balmont telegraphed again as follows

"Will reinstate meeting if explanatory statement is made by Miss MacArthur in the press."

ARTIST TO WED A MANICURE GIRL

HE'S 57 WHILE SHE IS 18

Bridegroom Says Miss Kampf Does Not Like Young Men, but Prefers Those Who Are Mature.

Frederick E. Bartlett, an artist, now living at the Grand Union Hotel, took out a license yesterday to marry Viola Agnes Kampf, a manicurist, of 1,467 Amsterdam Avenue. Mr. Bartlett is 57 years old. His fiancee is 18. Behind their visit to the License Bureau at City Hall is the story of Mr. Bartlett's meeting a year ago with Miss Kampf, who at that time worked in a barber's shop in Fourth Avenue.

Frederick E. Bartlett is a son of the late Col. William H. C. Bartlett, who was for years Professor of Philosophy at West Point. The artist was born at the academy. He studied at West Point for a time, and then came to New York, where he took up art. Mr. Bartlett also put in four years studying in Paris under Carolus Duran, and in the south of France under Hypolite Michaud. For some years he had a studio in this city, giving his attention exclusively to landscape and marine work.

He has not done much in the last two years, and until recently he has been living in Yonkers. On one of his frequent trips to this city about a year ago, Mr. Bartlett entered the barber's shop in which Miss Kampf was employed. She attended to his nails and Mr. Bartlett became interested in her.

The artist was willing to talk of his love affair when seen last night, though he deplored the publicity that has come to him.

"I met the young woman who is to become my wife a year ago," he said. "We were attracted to each other from the first, and after many meetings I proposed and found my love returned. Now we are going to be married. Miss Kampf and I are in perfect harmony, and, indeed, I believe that it was our mutual interest in many subject that helped to draw us together.

"Yes, there is a difference in age, but what is age when one loves! My wife to be does not like young men. She has said that she likes men who are mature, and, besides, if she and I agree, what matters all the rest."

The date for the wedding, the artist said, had not been agreed upon.

At the home of Miss Kampf last night a young man who came to the door said that the young woman's parents had retired. Miss Kampf, he said, was out of town at present.

PASSENGER DIES AT SEA.

Sister Prostrated When She Hears of His Death at the Pier.

Michael Kelly, a young man from County Sligo, a steerage passenger on the steamship Adriatic, died on the voyage from Liverpool, which ended here yesterday. His sister, Elizabeth, who works in Delmonico's restaurant, on Fifth Avenue, went to the pier to welcome him to America. When she learned that her brother was dead and buried at sea she became hysterical and was taken from the pier in a cab.

Kelly was 33 years old. On Monday evening he took part in a tug of war, retiring apparently in good health. Next morning he was found dead in his berth. Heart disease killed him, the ship's surgeon said.

A fund of $325 was raised among the passengers to be sent to Ireland, where he left a wife and two children.

CHANCE ADMITS SEPARATION.

Young Husband of the Former Mrs. Cruger Here—Wife in London.

New York society was deeply interested yesterday to learn of the separation of Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger Chance and her young husband, Wade Chance, whose marriage, less than two years ago, was one of the surprises of the season. Mr. Chance is several years his wife's junior. Mrs. Chance, under the pen name of "Julien Gordon," is as well known in literary circles as she is in society. Mr. Chance admitted the separation yesterday in this formal statement:

"Mr. Wade Chance admits that a separation has taken place between Mrs. Chance and himself, but refuses to discuss the matter further. Mr. Chance is in New York on a business trip and has not entered any Wall Street house, as reported by several morning papers. Mr. Chance is permanently located in London. He went to London not to represent any New York house, as has been stated, but in his own interest, and established his own firm of Wade Chance & Co., brokers and bankers, 1 Old Broad Street, six years ago."

The estrangement of Mr. and Mrs. Chance is said to have occurred five weeks ago.

Mrs. Chance's first husband was Col. Cruger, from whom she inherited a large fortune. Mrs. Chance was presented at Court last March by Ambassador Reid. She is a grandniece of Washington Irving. Her present home is in London. Mr. Chance is stopping at the St. Regis.

Cohan & Harris Would Enjoin Walter.

A motion is on the calendar for argument to-day before Supreme Court Justice Bischoff for an injunction by Cohan & Harris to restrain Eugene Walter, the playwright, from permitting any more of his plays to be produced by any other manager than the plaintiff. Cohan & Harris claim that Walter had a contract with them to write plays for them during the five years extending from 1906 to 1911.

IMMIGRATION MEN CONFER.

National Commissioners Meet Here to Settle Vexing Problems.

The yearly conference of the Immigration Commissioners of the United States opened at Ellis Island yesterday. Commissioner General of Immigration John G. Keefe presided and the other Commissioners present were Royers of Philadelphia, Weiss of Baltimore, Billings of Boston, De Brule of Seattle, Redfurn of New Orleans, Berkshim of El Paso, Wallace of Montreal, and Williams of New York.

The Commissioners will take up a number of problems which have arisen under the changed conditions and will probably agree upon a uniform plan of action regarding them. The question which occupied most of the time yesterday was in relation to the treatment of aliens who land here suffering from trachoma. In many cases their relatives want them to live here and offer to pay for their treatment in the Government hospitals. In some cases where this has been done the patients have been cured, and the officials want to find out just where the lines are to be drawn in the matter of deporting such cases or giving them treatment here.

Among other matters to be taken up is the question of the exclusion of undesirable aliens. The conference will continue to-day.

Features of the Electrical Show.

The Electrical Show, which will open at Madison Square Garden next Monday evening, promises a series of attractions to interest those curious about electricity. One exhibition will be a dirigible balloon controlled by wireless current, and another will be the Tustin wireless lighting apparatus, invented by a fourteen-year-old boy. Jack Binns will give a demonstration of the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy. There also will be a motion picture booth, an electrical dairy, and an electrical cigarette factory.

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

An Anniversary

TWO years ago to-morrow we opened our store at 1195 Broadway, just below 29th Street. There we offered to New York men what we believed to be the best clothes in the world---those made by Hart, Schaffner & Marx. That this belief is shared by an increasingly large number of the smartest men in New York is shown by the success of our venture. And not in clothes alone, but in every article of men's wear except shoes, has this newest store of ours done a great amount of business---Our Clothing, Hats and Haberdashery carry out to the fullest degree our business ideal, thorough honesty of merchandise at prices just a little lower than their splendid qualities would lead you to expect.

To the man who wishes to spend $18 for a suit we offer remarkable values. The man who wants more luxury, who can afford to pay $40, $45 or $50 for a suit can here find garments made of imported cloths, richly lined with silk and of an unaccustomed value at each price.

It's a very bright, attractive place, this store of ours, the sort of place that once you know it you will delight to come to again and again. Now we want you to know us and know this store of which we are so proud. We have six other stores in New York.

Some carry only Hats and Hosiery. Some to these add Furnishings. And one other, at 3d Ave and 122d St., carries Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothing as well.

In each the splendid values that have built such a business here—obtain in equal measure.

SO COME IN TO-DAY.

If you want to buy anything you'll have to say so first. We'll not mention it before you do.

HARDMAN HOUSE

Pianos and Player Pianos

New Instruments $200 to $2000

From the Days of Marie Antoinette.

"LE PETIT TRIANON" and the exquisite creations of Reisener, that most famous of all furniture designers, who devoted his talents to the service of Marie Antoinette, are recalled by "Special Louis XVI." Hardman Grand Piano.

The graceful simplicity of its lines and the delicate restraint of its ornamentation ensure its harmonious accord with any scheme of interior decoration likely to be adopted by people of taste and refinement.

"I have found in the Hardman Piano musical qualities of conspicuous superiority."
